Ike Outlines 5-Point Plan Of Asian Aid

SEATTLE (AP)—President Eisenhower today set forth a five-point program of international economic aid for Asian nations. He pledged full United States co-operation in erecting "barriers against tyranny and the war which tyranny breeds."

The president put on over all price tag on the program and did not estimate the U.S. share of the cost. But he called on the heavily Democratic new Congress to provide adequate—and additional—financial resources to help 700,000,000 people in free Asia.

Eisenhower outlined his aid plan in an address prepared for delivery at a meeting of diplomats attending the 18-nation Colombo Plan conference on co-operative economic assistance for South and Southeast Asia.

The president urged the free world's better-off nations to join America in carrying out his program for under-privileged countries, but he also called on the Asian nations to develop co-operative sound measures of self-help.

TRADE EXPANSION

Eisenhower recommended: 1. Expansion of international trade. He said the larger part of capital goods required for economic development must be financed through such trade and the once more

Red Carpet For Smith

SEATTLE (CP)—External Affairs Minister Smith got the red-carpet treatment when he arrived Sunday night by plane from Ottawa to attend the Colombo Plan meeting.

The minister and his party came by regular TCA flight via British Columbia and were met at the airport by U.S. state department and Colombo Plan meeting officials. He immediately went by car to the Olympic Hotel, scene of the conference.

His plane touched down about an hour ahead of a special plane bearing U.S. Secretary of State Dulles who will be chairman of the meetings which last until Thursday.

LIFE OF MACKENZIE KING

Historic Stuff In Scots Stock

Serialization of this new and official unpublished biography of Mackenzie King began last Saturday in the Times Weekend Magazine. It will continue daily Monday to Friday in the news columns of the Times and in Saturday's Weekend Magazine.

By ROBERT MACGREGOR DAWSON

William Lyon Mackenzie King was born in Ontario, at Berlin, now known as Kitchener, on Dec. 17, 1874. His four grandparents had been born in Scotland and had come to Canada within the period 1820-34, forming a part of the great surge of immigration which was to last until the middle of the century.

All belonged to the same sturdy, industrious, Presbyterian stock, and in one of them, at least, intellectual vigor and independence, characteristic of the Scot, had begun to assert themselves. The notable contribution made by Scotland to Canada is in no way disparaged by the reflection that this little group of four and their issue have probably left a deeper imprint on Canadian life than any similar group in her history.

Mackenzie King's paternal grandfather, John King, was the son of an Englishman who had married a Scottish girl of some substance and come to advised relaxation of restrictions hindering its flow.

2. Wider sharing of technical skills, which he described as the bedrock of economic development. He promised the U.S. will press its own program in that field "even more vigorously than in the past."

3. Ever greater emphasis on private investment. The president said the resources of American private capital are far larger than the amount the government can provide for projects in free Asia. Government resources need to be drawn upon to the greatest extent possible, but the Asian nations should also explore the full potentialities of private enterprise.

4. Greater provision for public loans on normal bankable terms—for projects such as highways. He noted the World Bank, which already is extending such loans, has agreed to consider an increase in the bank's capital subscriptions. The U.S. believes there should be an increase he said, as well as an increase in the quotas of the International Monetary Fund.

5. Expansion of development financing to provide borrowers with greater flexibility regarding repayment terms. This, Eisenhower said, will help make possible many sound projects which cannot qualify for bankable loans.

DONATIONS WELCOME

The President said the U.S. would welcome contributions of other nations in this field. He again proposed creation of an international development association—a second World Bank—to mobilize the financial resources of the free world for this program.

Eisenhower said his proposal for trade expansion, increased technical assistance and more public loans on normal bankable terms are already charted and in some cases under way. But his recommendations dealing with more private investment and expanded development financing on flexible terms remain to be carried out.

Court Orders Integration At Little Rock

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The U.S. eighth circuit court of appeals directed today that the Little Rock, Ark., school board take steps to accomplish integration of Negro students as previously ordered by the courts. The three-judge court directed Arkansas federal district judge John E. Miller to enjoin the school board "from taking any further steps or action without the approval of the district court to transfer possession, control or operation, whether directly or indirectly, of any of the senior high schools or any other property" for operation of segregated schools.

The 23-page decision was handed down 27 days after final arguments were heard on whether Little Rock's four public high schools could be leased for use as private, segregated institutions.

Private school facilities were set up in Little Rock for white students only after Governor Orval E. Faubus closed the public schools to prevent integration.

Bomb Demolishes Virginia School

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (AP)—A thunderous explosion ripped through an integrated junior high school in nearby Osage early today. No one was injured and there was no fire.

State police said the blast was deliberately set. The school has 93 Negroes among its 400 pupils. The two-story brick building was so badly damaged it will have to be condemned and torn down.

Huge Heroin Haul

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police here seized a record quantity of heroin valued at $250,000 Sunday and arrested one man in connection with the raid. It was expected the suspect would be charged later today.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

That some should die that others may breathe life and freedom awakes solemn and grateful remembrance in our hearts, O God. The joy of life strongly masters our moods. We were not made for death. We reverently remember thy Son, who freely gave his life, that heaven might be ours here on earth and forever. In his name we devoutly offer ourselves in the service of mankind. Amen.

Wild Plane Hits TCA Viscount

NEW YORK (CP)—A big American-owned cargo aircraft ran amok on takeoff at Idlewild Airport today, carrying flaming destruction to a Trans-Canada Air Lines Viscount before the eyes of 26 waiting passengers.

It was "pure luck" that the TCA turbo-prop plane had not loaded the passengers just before it was struck by the careening Super-Constellation aircraft that went out of control on takeoff, an airline spokesman said.

"Six minutes more and the plane would have been loaded. It was in position, but there had been a slight delay."

Five persons—including two stewardesses—aboard the Viscount—suffered minor injuries.

ON TRAINING FLIGHT

The Constellation, owned by Seaboard and Western Airlines, had just lifted from the ground on a training flight when trouble developed and it dropped back on the runway.

Out of control, the plane plunged headlong toward the domestic flight depot—and the TCA four-engined plane waiting for passengers.

The two planes locked together in a burst of flame and swerved against a wall of the cement-block depot structure. The five crew members of the Constellation escaped serious injury.

The spectacular accident occurred only a few minutes before the TCA airliner was to start receiving passengers for its flight N8-325 to Montreal.

In 1949 he was deeply moved by the plight of old and invalid war refugees whom other nations refused to accept because of their infirmities. He founded his "aid to displaced persons" organization then.

In Belgium, Father Pire set up four homes for DP's. Then he branched out across Europe, establishing five "Europa Villages."

The peace prize winner's full name is Dominique Georges Pire, a Belgian Roman Catholic monk, was awarded the 1958 Nobel Peace Prize today for his work in resettling refugees.

The humble Belgian friar will receive the $42,000 award from Norway's King Olav at a ceremony in Oslo on Dec. 10.

Father Pire, 48, already is a hero in his Belgian homeland. He was chaplain of the anti-Nazi underground during the war, and helped establish an intelligence network to aid the Allies.

Five of the known missing are believed to have perished in one room where they were having a friendly calpo session.

Fifth Share Taken in Plan To Dam Peace

By IAL MALONE, Times Business Editor

The B.C. Electric Co. today joined hands with the mammoth Wenner-Gren interests and three other companies in a proposed half-billion dollar hydro power scheme on the Peace River.

A company spokesman confirmed that the B.C. Electric has a one-fifth interest in Peace River Development Co., the firm set up to develop the project which officials say would include the world's largest dam.

The spokesman said the B.C. Electric, Wenner-Gren interests and Associated Electrical Industries, a British company, have one-fifth shares each in the new hydro-development firm.

Names of the other two companies will be released Wednesday at a lavish meeting of directors in Vancouver.

Directors will include Viscount Alexander, former governor-general of Canada, now recuperating from a heart attack in an Ottawa hospital; Lord Tweedsmuir, son of a former governor-general; Bernard Gore, of Wenner-Gren interests; Sir Andrew McTaggart of Associated Electrical Industries and "several prominent B.C. men."

STALLED

Some of Canada's top power experts believe that if Swedish promoter Axel Wenner-Gren is allowed to proceed with his plan to build dams on the Peace River and transmit power some 600 miles to Vancouver the development of the Columbia River will be stalled until the early 1960s.

They say it would saddle B.C. with "high cost power" for a generation.

Conservative estimates of the additional cost of Peace River power to B.C. consumers has been estimated at $80,000,000 a year. It is estimated that Columbia River power would cost B.C. users 2.3 mills per kilowatt hour, compared with 6.3 mills from Wenner-Gren.

Confirmation of the B.C. Electric's participation in the Peace River Power Development Company came less than 24 hours after a company official denied for the second time that the BCE was involved in the scheme.

Harry L. Purdy, executive vice-president of the BCE, termed as "rubbish" Sunday a report that the company and Wenner-Gren interests were working hand-in-hand on the Peace River power deal.

GRAUER IN EAST

Concurrent with Mr. Purdy's denial came a weekend report that BCE president, A. E. Grauer, was in Ottawa enlisting support for the plan.

A company spokesman admitted Mr. Grauer was in the East but said he didn't visit Ottawa. The federal government hasn't yet discussed the Wenner-Gren project on a cabinet level.

Mr. Gore said Sunday the scheme is "entirely feasible economically and we are going to have it."

Asked if he believed the development of the Peace River would take place, he replied: "Definitely it is."

He said he will reveal everything about the company's plans, Wednesday.

Purdy said the BCE is interested mainly in determining how much Peace River power would cost delivered to the mainland. If further engineering studies prove Peace River power is economical, B.C. would buy it, he said.

He set 1966 as a target date for construction of "the largest dam in the world," depending on whether further surveys are encouraging.

He wouldn't elaborate but it is believed the dam would be built in the vicinity of Dawson Creek in the eastern part of B.C. The dam would

Syria Jets Attack Hussein

TEL AVIV, Israel (Reuters)—King Hussein of Jordan today accused two Syrian MIG jet fighters of trying to shoot down his private plane over Syria on his way to a now-cancelled vacation in Switzerland.

Syrian authorities denied the accusation.

The 23-year-old monarch fled back to Jordan without suffering injury "through a miracle of God" he said in an Amman broadcast monitored here.

According to a United Arab Republic communique broadcast by Cairo Radio, Hussein had not cleared his flight in advance and refused to land as ordered at Damascus Airport to supply the required information.

Hussein returned to Amman 2½ hours after leaving for his planned three-week "convalescent leave" in Switzerland.

VISIT CANCELLED

Hussein told his people he has cancelled his visit to Europe. He said his government would take the necessary steps to reply to "the attack on his aircraft."

All details of the attack were given to United Nations envoy Pierre Spinnelli, the broadcast said.

He said the two MIGs dived six times at his plane with their guns firing. He also claimed they pursued him over the border deep into Jordanian territory.

Amman radio said the Jordanian Parliament will convene today for "an important announcement affecting the future of Jordan."

Seems they're dividin' th' Peace into pieces.

One reason fer doin' more fer Asia is that there keeps gittin' t' be more Asians.

Sign of a good memory—a red poppy.

Mackenzie King was very fond of recalling how two conflicting strains had been brought together by his parents' marriage, for though both his grandfathers had been engaged in the rebellion of 1837-38 they had fought on opposite sides.

William Lyon Mackenzie (his maternal grandfather who led the short-lived revolt of 1837 in Upper Canada) was obviously in the thick of the revolt, while John King was stationed with the artillery at Kingston and had actually fired on a small force which had invaded Canada from the United States.

Mackenzie King's parents, John King and Isabel Grace Mackenzie, were married at Toronto on Dec. 12, 1872, when both were in their 30th year.

The Kings had four children: Isabel Christina Grace (Bella), born Nov. 15, 1873; William Lyon Mackenzie (Willie), born Dec. 27, 1874; Janet Lindsey (Jennie), born Aug. 27, 1876; and Douglas Macdougall (Max), born Nov. 11, 1878.

The family lived in three houses in the first 14 years of their life in Berlin. Mackenzie King was born in the first of these on Benton Street, which was later demolished to make way for another building. In 1886 they moved to their fourth home, Woodside, situated about a mile out of town, where they lived until they left Berlin seven years later. Woodside was regarded by all the Kings as their real home.

The fact that Woodside was in the country meant that in their younger days the Kings children were isolated and forced to draw upon themselves for companionship. Bella and Willie tended to pair off together and Jennie and Max, but as only five years separated the oldest and youngest, they frequently pooled their interests and resources.

As they grew older, other children were able to come to Woodside more easily and Mr. and Mrs. King were unusually hospitable hosts.

The family especially enjoyed singing as a group around the piano in the evening. Mrs. King or one of the girls played the piano, Mr. King the castanets, and the others provided a vigorous chorus, whether popular airs, variety songs, or, on Sundays, hymns from the Presbyterian Book of Praise. In later years Mackenzie King continued to derive extraordinary pleasure from this informal singing of hymns, a fondness which he shared with one of his great contemporaries, Mr. Lloyd George.

From his earliest years Willie lived in a political atmosphere, for William Lyon Mackenzie and the Liberal tradition were integral parts of the family environment. Moreover, John King was an ardent politician, who, while he lived in Berlin, was very active in electioneering and had been asked on several occasions to run as a Liberal candidate.

An Embrace

Mrs. King, however, objected to any election contests in the family on the ground that her father's experience had given her all the politics she wanted in her lifetime. Willie's initiation came when as a child he attended a meeting addressed by Sir John A. Macdonald:

"The first general election I recall was in 1882. I was seven. Sir John came to Berlin (now Kitchener), where, at the time, my father was practicing law. All who have had an opportunity of knowing and seeing Sir John are today grateful for having had that opportunity. I remember best not the political argument but that Sir John was presented with some flowers by a pretty young lady whom he thanked with an embrace. I could do nothing but envy him, and decided then that politics had its rewards."

At Berlin High School, Willie's skill as a debater soon far exceeded that of any of his classmates. He took part in amateur theatricals. When a spokesman was needed for any special occasion, such as a presentation to the principal or to the physical training instructor, Willie King was the one usually chosen to read the accompanying address.

He was a natural mischief-maker, and his teachers at school soon learned to turn to Willie King when they were at a loss to find the cause of any major disturbance.

School Pranks

A number of stories are still remembered by Willie's schoolmates.

One autumn day he and another boy (who later did penance for his misdemeanor by becoming a missionary) were caught stealing apples from an orchard near the school. J. W. Connor, the principal, promptly expelled them; but they waylaid him after school and made a moving appeal. "Billie did the talking, and I did the blubbing," said his fellow culprit, and the combination proved so effective that reinstatement followed.

On another occasion Willie was the chief actor in a practical joke played on the biggest boy in the school. He contrived to place several bad eggs in the boy's pockets, and then proceeded with a number of other students to "hustle" him. The desired result ensued.

The victim, with a sure instinct turned on Willie and tried to catch him in the general skirmish, but Willie took to his heels and escaped, though in his haste he ran through the middle of a glass cold frame in a neighboring garden. Willie King's early reputation for ragging and breaking the scholastic peace was clearly well founded.

Fond of Girls

His appearance was unimpressive, with heavy features, a large mouth, unruly hair, and a thick-set rugged physique. But he was very friendly and approachable, willing to talk freely, and quick to respond with a smile and a twinkle in his blue eyes. He was a good mixer and generally liked.

He was fond of girls, although he showed no special preference for any one, finding it better or safer to play the field. They, in turn, liked him, and he was a high favorite with Jennie and Isabel's friends.

Education was regarded by the Kings with all the respect and some of the passion of the Scot, and though they could in one sense ill afford it, none questioned the need or desirability of money spent for this purpose. The children were given as good an education as Berlin could provide, a government was engaged for some time at Woodside, and Bella was sent to a girls' school in Toronto.

Willie went to university for his arts course and Max for medicine, although these imposed heavy hardships on those at home, who were already finding it none too easy to meet even their own expenses. So far as the boys could assist, they did so, and after Willie began advanced work he gradually became self-supporting.

Russia Demands Sweeping A-Ban

GENEVA (AP) — Russia today demanded sweeping nuclear disarmament and elimination of foreign military bases as its price for accepting an international warning system against surprise attacks.

Vassili Kuznetsov, Russian deputy foreign minister, opened an East-West conference on the prevention of surprise attacks with a thinly veiled denunciation of American foreign policy.

He said the policy of "positions of strength and the brink of war" was mainly responsible for the growing fear of surprise attacks.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The Soviet Union has proposed that the General Assembly endorse UN control of a ban on military space rockets and elimination of foreign bases.

LONDON—The 80 members of the cast filled the stage for the grand finale of Boris Godunov at the Covent Garden Opera House. The rich bass of Boris Christoff boomed through the house. Then disaster struck.

The horse on stage started to rumble inside, louder and louder. The cast sang louder—and the horse rumbled louder—until the singers finally drowned out the embarrassing rumbles by sheer volume.

It seems that members of the cast were fond of feeding peppermints to Bubbles, kept in a comfortable stall nightly as a "prop." They evidently fed her too many.

LAURENS, Iowa—Mrs. R. W. Lind served up pheasant to her family Sunday—the first day of the hunting season and the first one she had ever bagged. She found it under her daughter's bed.

WINNIPEG—Alderman J. Gurzon Harvey hurried on to the stage at Winnipeg's Playhouse Theatre Sunday. He was late. The public meeting was in progress.

Unflustered, he launched into his speech to the Canadian Polish Congress as the mayor's representative at Polish independence day ceremonies.

The audience of 350 tittered. They were attending a meeting of the Communist-sponsored Canadian-Soviet Friendship Society, marking the anniversary of the Russian revolution.

Mr. Harvey finished the speech, then dashed away to the Civic Auditorium where the stoutly anti-Communist Canadian Polish Congress was meeting.

LONDON—Kenneth Evans, 18, a piggy worker, looked around to see why the pigs were being so quiet while he cleaned their pen. Evans found they were eating his pay. He salvaged just $1 of the $15 that had fallen from his pocket.

South Africa in 1958 had about twice as many radio sets as telephones.

Two Children Die as Fire Guts Williams Lake Home

(From CP Dispatches)

WILLIAMS LAKE — Two small children were burned to death Saturday night when fire swept through the upper portion of a building housing three families near Williams Lake in the Cariboo district.

Eleven other persons in the building reached safety.

Police at Glendale identified the youngsters as three-year-old Richard Walter Tresierra and his two-year-old brother, Ronald. Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Tresierra, were not at home at the time of the blaze.

Firemen and equipment from Williams Lake sped to the scene but could not save the youngsters. The fire was believed to have started in one of two suites in the upper floor of the building.

G.N. DERAILED

VANCOUVER — The last four cars of a Great Northern Railway passenger train bound for Seattle were derailed a few hundred yards outside the Vancouver terminal Sunday night.

One unidentified person suffered minor injuries. Railway officials said the train apparently hit a broken track.

STRIKE VOTE RIGGED

PENTICTON — J. Clayton Walls, southern interior director of the International Woodworkers of America, charged Saturday that certain employers had intimidated their workers into voting against strike action Friday in a government-supervised ballot.

Employees of 15 operations in British Columbia's interior have voted against striking while those of 15 others voted to strike. One plant has yet to report.

Mr. Walls claimed the majority of plants that voted against strike action were operations employing only a few men. He said the "big four" operations in this area voted by a substantial margin to strike.

He claimed the result was rigged by certain employers and the labor department itself.

'She Was Never Free'

By NORMAN BARRYMAINE

"I have reached this decision entirely alone . . ."

These were the words of Princess Margaret in her dramatic communique from Clarence House on the night of Oct. 31, 1955.

For days it had been stressed by court officials, politicians and, of course, prelates, that the sad, harassed young Princess was not being subjected to outside pressures.

In a word, she was completely free to make up her own mind as to whether she wished to marry Group Captain Peter Townsend or not.

But all these statements were really only half truths. In fact, the Princess was in a mental and physical strait jacket. She was not free to marry whom she liked. She never had been. And she is not free to do so today.

What were the impediments to her marrying whom she wished? The first and most important was the Royal Marriages Act. Its provisions required the consent of the Queen to the marriage of the Queen to the marriage of the Queen.

The sovereign is compelled, so long as the Church is established, to be a member of the Church of England. And as the members of the royal family, under the provisions of the Royal Marriages Act, have to seek the monarch's authority to marry until they reach the age of 25, each member of the royal family is, therefore, subject to the rules of the Anglican Church until that age—whether he agrees with them or not.

As the Princess was not 25 and so required her sister's permission to wed, the Queen withheld it as temporal Governor of the Church of England because Townsend was a divorced man.

'Absurd' Law

Thereafter, the authority governing their marriages passes to Parliament, the members of the two Houses, Lords and Commons, being composed of men and women of differing creeds and denominations, in consequence, have differing views on marriage, divorce, and remarriage.

The provision of the act governing members of the royal family after they have reached the age of 25 has never been tested. But, as we shall later see, if it had been tested in the case of Princess Margaret, it was by no means certain that Parliament would not have vetoed her marriage to Group Captain Townsend.

If the law of the land permits divorce and remarriage, the provisions of the Royal Marriages Act are absurd.

Twenty-four hours before Princess Margaret and her mother flew back to London from their tour in Southern Rhodesia, Group Captain Peter Townsend had reported for duty as Air Attache at the British Embassy in Brussels.

So began Townsend's virtual exile from his homeland. He did make occasional visits to London—sometimes on Air Ministry duty and on other occasions to visit Princess Margaret at Clarence House, but he did not see her until the expiration of the agreed period of one year. These visits to the Princess were made in the strictest secrecy—in fact they were carried out almost in the atmosphere of cloak-and-dagger operations.

She Said Yes

This must have been distasteful to the extreme both to the Princess and to Townsend. Not for one moment after the Group Captain was exiled to Brussels was the couple permitted a normal atmosphere in which to make their decision.

For 28 months in Brussels Peter Townsend was under the pitiless magnifying glass of world publicity, forced to ensure it, unable to speak. It was during this period that his real strength of character was shown. He was forced to live within himself—as lonely in the friendly bustling city of Brussels as a man on a Pacific atoll.

And his position was more complicated by the fact that Princess Margaret, whatever may be said to the contrary, had agreed to marry him when she reached the age of 25. But on this, his lips had to be sealed. As he once said in an all-revealing sentence: "The word must come from somebody else."

So, on a July day in that summer of 1953, Townsend piled a few bags into his car and drove from London to Dover to catch the cross-Channel car ferry. On landing at Boulogne he drove straight to the British Embassy in the Rue de Spa in Brussels.

Outside the Embassy, some 20 policemen—instead of the usual two—were on duty. As he drove through the high double black doors of the Embassy and stepped out in the courtyard, he was wearing dark glasses and unsmiling. Outside the gates was a crowd of women and typists leaned from windows to catch a glimpse of him.

Although Townsend acted with painstaking correctitude throughout his stay in Brussels, his being there presented the Embassy with some very special problems.

First, Brussels society decided to lionize him. They showered him with invitations. But he decided he would go only to the social functions it was necessary for him to attend as Air Attache.

Worthless Job

His private choice was for quiet dinner parties with a few close friends.

Peter does not like the modern cocktail party. If he is forced to attend one, he usually finds someone he likes and then gets in a corner with him and stays chatting until it is time to leave. In this respect he was probably a disappointment to his Ambassador, Sir Christopher, a bachelor, once told me that he thought Peter would be a great help to him in entertaining after his experience of Court life. Perhaps, in Brussels, Townsend was only interested in self-effacement.

He might have buried himself in hard work. But his post—it has now been abolished—was almost a sinecure. It was a job which could have been done by a man with a quarter of Townsend's talent.

I feel sure that as the months of exile went by, Townsend's feet must have dragged more each morning as he made the ascent to this office.

A few days after arriving in Brussels he went to his first social outing—a dance given by the Ambassador. Peter stayed until after midnight but ignored a dozen of Belgium's most beautiful debutantes. He spent most of the evening smoking and chatting. Already he feared having his name linked with any other woman, and many attempts were made to do so.

Killing Time

When Townsend left London, the exile was to be for only one year. But it quickly became apparent to the Queen, the Queen Mother, and the other members of the royal family, that the Princess was really determined to marry Townsend. Margaret then agreed with her sister that he should remain in Brussels until she was 25.

It therefore became even more necessary for Townsend to occupy himself fully. First, he decided to master French. He studied it assiduously for more than a year. Today he speaks it fluently. Townsend has a flare for languages. Second, being fond of riding, he decided to improve his standard and take part in show jumping. He joined the Etrier Belge, the most famous riding club in Belgium.

By then he had set up his own home in Brussels. He took a pleasantly furnished 30-pounds-a-month apartment at the fashionable end of Avenue Louise. And it was in this flat that he spent most of his leisure hours, reading poetry and the Bible. He once said: "The Bible holds the world's loveliest poetry."

At the end of a year in Brussels, the standard of Townsend's riding had improved enormously. It was then that he decided to take up racing, and until he finally left Belgium was riding in gentlemen's races two or three times a week. He rode all over Europe—Paris, Madrid, Frankfurt, Vienna, Oslo, Milan, Zurich. He took his racing as seriously as he has taken everything else in life.

Romance Endured

Early in 1955, Princess Margaret went on a tour of the Caribbean. No doubt many around the Palace hoped that the trip would "get the girl's mind off the business." Margaret enjoyed the holiday, fulfilled her duties impeccably, but was never in danger of forgetting Peter.

No doubt Townsend, while Margaret was away on her royal tours of the Caribbean, was a trifle apprehensive. He knew the pressures to which she was being subjected. Could she withstand them?

But his fears evidently proved groundless. The moment the Princess was back in Clarence House she picked up her "green line" telephone and called Townsend in Brussels. The romance still bloomed; she still intended to marry him.

PACT SIGNED FOR EUROPE

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—The six countries of the European Atom Pool "Euratom" Saturday signed an agreement with the United States for building a series of atomic reactors totalling 1,000,000 kilowatts capacity in the next five years.

The agreement requires final approval from the joint atomic energy committee of the United States Congress.

Private industry in the Euratom countries—Belgium, France, West Germany, Italy, Luxembourg and The Netherlands—will later submit proposals for new projects in the program, a spokesman said.

Pains in Side & Stomach

Spastic Colitis (functional irritation of the colon or large intestine), is causing thousands to suffer from dull aches or burn, biliousness, nervousness, bad breath, flatulence, burning of stomach, loss of sleep and pep. If you suffer from Spastic Colitis, ordinary stomach medicine will not help much. You really need KOLADE POWDER which works three ways to relax tense intestine muscles, soothe sore mucous membranes and check acidity. It is not a laxative but works to help nature. Don't suffer another day without trying KOLADE POWDER. Satisfaction or money back. At all drug stores.

Past, Present and Future

FOR THE FORTIETH TIME since the final day of the First Great War a large portion of the world will observe November 11 as a day of peace and remembrance of sacrifice.

In cemeteries jewelled with regimental crosses, in the midst of great cities, in the quiet before the Main Street cenotaph of a thousand small towns and villages, in crowded cathedral naves and in the silent loneliness of living rooms where fading photographs tell their story, the people will remember. In a prayerful two minutes the dead of two wars will receive the thanks of those who survived.

In the 'tween-war years of the twenties and thirties the Day was tense with still-fresh sorrow and bitter-tinged pride in a generation that had willingly sacrificed itself. Later, while war once again scourged men, women and children throughout the world, there was a question in shadowed eyes that each year watched the cenotaphs, a hint of desperation in human hearts as war techniques developed and eventually revealed unprecedented horrors that threatened to destroy not armies or nations but mankind itself.

Again the coming of peace

Ant-Hills for China

THE DEVELOPMENT OF China, which so often has been described as merely an agricultural revolution rather than a communist one, is now entering the third stage. For each member of the farm population, which comprises about 500 million people, this means life as a propertyless unit in one of many vast, semi-military production groups, much like the existence of hens in the modern mass-production egg factories of this continent.

In the first phase of the revolution, which got under way about ten years ago, the land was taken from hereditary landlords and parcelled out among the peasants. This had hardly been accomplished, within about five years, when the second stage was inaugurated. This consisted of assembling the peasants into co-operatives, resembling the Russian collective farms.

The third phase is already under way, and by reason of its basic change in traditional Chinese life as well as the sheer vastness of the operation, it must constitute what has been described by a Western observer as "one of the most significant events of our time." It should also be considered against the background of population statistics, which predict a numerical strength of one billion for China within the next 25 years.

This phase is the development of the commune—an extension of the collective farm idea in a much more regimented and inclusive form.

The collective farm system in Russia permits the individual to farm a piece of land for himself and own a few animals, in addition to his work for the kolkhoz. Personal incomes within the collective vary; the system stands halfway between the private farm and the commune.

It is the commune which China is now organizing throughout the country; some 150 million people are said to be already working within its organization.

A Chinese commune consists of from five to twenty thousand families. All land, equipment, cattle brought quick thankfulness, coupled with a new determination that war must not happen again. But the guns have rarely been stilled—Korea, Thailand, Indo-China, the Gaza Strip, Algeria, Quemoy, followed in swift succession. As each fuse dies before it reaches the powder keg another sputters into life. And in the laboratories and on test ranges man labors feverishly, with an eye on the heavens and the rank smell of fear in his nostrils, to create almost unimaginable new instruments of destruction. Tomorrow, as the trumpeted notes of the Last Post drift over a thousand cenotaphs they will reverberate with a new poignancy: for the first time they will be echoing through the vast, chilly space of the Missile Age.

There will be a renewed sorrow in remembrance, a renewed fear in thought of the future, and a renewed resolve that a world war must not, can not, happen again. Without such a resolve, made effective, those earlier sacrifices may be betrayed, leaving only a charred and sterile globe on which there will be no hope for the future and no remembrance of the past.

There can be glory in individual sacrifice; there will be none in mass extermination.

and crops will be owned by the commune, not by individuals. The people will live in centralized housing units—there will be no more private huts as at present—and dining rooms, laundries, schools and other facilities will be on a communal basis.

But the commune will not be entirely agricultural. Each one will carry on local industries and in a sense be self-supporting. It will also organize its manpower into militia, so that each commune can provide a ready territorial army for the state. As an accompaniment of this arrangement, there will be an increasingly military organization of productive work.

Such a concept—half a billion human beings reduced to the status and importance of ants in a thousand ant-hills—is a staggering one to Western senses. It goes far beyond anything Russia has attempted in the way of regimentation and it will affect a larger percentage of the earth's population than any such economic revolution in history.

Whether the commune system can be permanently settled on the Chinese peasant remains to be seen. Traditionally the Chinese farmer has been a land-lover, a village dweller and above all an individualist. He has harbored the same feeling for the land that drove tens of thousands of Russian peasants to die rather than give in to Stalin's collectivization efforts.

The world has heard little of China's current program, still less of the way in which it has been received by the one-third of Chinese farmers now incorporated in it. It may well offer some advantages of stability and security not heretofore enjoyed by individual farmers, but it presents a terrible danger in the quasi-military organization that appears to be the ultimate goal of the future.

The danger to the individual is obvious; the danger to the world of tomorrow—when nearly one-third of its population may be living under such conditions—should be equally clear.

A Medal and a Kiss

IT IS ODD THAT WINSTON Churchill had not long ago received the Cross of Liberation, the highest award of the wartime Free French forces. He was accorded that honor in Paris this week, along with a kiss from Premier de Gaulle.

The medal, in the form of the two-armed Cross of Lorraine, must have reminded the recipient—as it did watching newsmen—of the wartime Churchillian remark that the Cross of Lorraine, General de Gaulle's personal symbol, was the heaviest cross he had to bear during the war.

There were many delicate situations to be smoothed over between the high-strung de Gaulle, smarting under his enforced exile and his impatience to liberate France, and the bulldog Churchill, pursuing his war policy and not to be sidetracked by demands or suggestions from the Free French headquarters in London.

That situation is now long past, and the General has attained the position he might logically have expected to reach immediately after he led his forces back across the Channel.

Today he can be the gracious host to Britain's elder statesman, and together they can look back over the years to days when each led his respective remnant of European freedom against a common enemy.

He Has Had Enough

MR. FRANK LYNCH, AN optometrist of Pembroke, Ontario, has had enough. An enthusiastic hunter for years, he is selling his rifle, giving up his hunting licence and staying out of the woods.

The reason? He has been shot at four times in the last three years by other hunters. His pungent comment on these incidents is: "There's no room in the woods for anything but damned fools any more."

Mr. Lynch, of course, is talking about Ontario hunters. It remains now only to define the difference between British Columbia hunters and those from Mr. Lynch's province.

STRIKE UP THE BAND

Life With Full Orchestral Effect

LOVERS of symphony orchestras must have been a little perturbed to read that news item last week which told of a musical concert to be given in London. The concert will feature the Morley College Symphony, but prominent among the special effects to be used will be a pneumatic drill, a bouncing pingpong ball and a ship's siren. These apparently will be employed in creating a musical impression of the harmony of United Nations and summit meetings.

Tobin

Well, such meetings are an integral part of our lives in these mid-century days, so they are obviously a proper subject for musical interpretation. But some musicians may doubt that it is necessary to resort to instruments other than the conventional ones. So many international conferences become a matter of blowing your own horn or fiddling while Rome burns that the general effect should be easily obtained with the normal musical tools at hand.

Strange Interlude

It is not hard to guess, however, how the special additions could be used. The pneumatic road drill, for instance, could easily represent Mr. Khrushchev's tactics.

During a quiet, melodious passage in the score, the drill could break in with a disrupting rat-a-tat, deafening the audience and reducing it to shuddering exasperation with the relentless repetition of phrasing. "Capitalist war-monger, strength, strength, strength, peace, peace, peace..." Few musical instruments could reproduce that better than a pneumatic drill.

Or take the pingpong ball. This would signify the entrance of one of the smaller nations, caught between the broadsides of the Big Two and clicking rapidly back and forth.

"Trade with us, trade with them... until a mis-hit saves the little nation by sending it skittering off to the side-lines."

The ship's siren is easy to account for. It would be blown loudly off-stage, to signify the despairing moan of the waiting millions who look to summit conferences and such to rescue them from disaster, but rarely receive from them more than vague assurances that the talks have been successful.

The siren, indeed, could provide the grand finale—the scream of frustration and anger merging into the scream of the arriving missile equipped with atomic warhead.

Greater Variety

You could develop quite a concert along these lines. But there is no reason to limit the orchestra to the instruments mentioned.

How about an electric fan, to signify the hum of industry? In the second movement it could be enclosed in a sound-proof box so that no hum would be heard, indicating a strike.

To provide an urban motif, a concrete mixer would be just the thing. The happy activity of our modern cities could be beautifully reproduced in the clanging clatter, the thumping and swooshing of the mixer.

When it had got up to top speed the conductor would call for a run of piccolo notes and then throw a monkey wrench into the works. The ensuing sudden silence would portray city life on a Wednesday afternoon before the law was changed, and this mood would swiftly merge into today's unrestrained activity as the conductor revved up the mixer again to a stimulating crescendo.

The orchestra could produce a tone poem of itself playing on a Sunday by attacking a suitable classical selection to the accompaniment of raucous shouts off-stage: "No, no, illegal, illegal!"

The voices could be augmented with a police whistle or two and perhaps the sound of a patrol wagon running through traffic composed of golfers driving to the links and picnickers hurrying to leave their rubbish at some favored scenic spot. The merest suggestion of a TV loudspeaker raving through a drawn living-room curtain would complete the effect.

Fortissimo

One of the most popular offerings no doubt would be the political overture. Against a faint background throb of tomtoms and the rumble of a bandwagon, a single horn would hold a sustained, insistent note.

With this established and dominant, the conductor would then call in the crash of a falling tree, to signify conservation; the crunch of colliding fenders, to represent greater prosperity; the creak of an expanding balloon, to suggest inflation; and a pharmacist's mortar and pestle to make a low grinding sound, indicating the taxpayers' teeth.

Obviously, with violins, pianos, oboes, clarinets and such instruments we have only begun to penetrate the possibilities of musical sound. We must now broaden the choice and thus achieve a richer quality and fuller harmony. And think what it would do for the ear-muff industry.

Last Post

The wind was still
And all the sounds of earth and sea
Withdrew into themselves for one Small space of time.
One counted heartbeats dulled with pain,
And listened to the sound of silence.
Then bursting forth the cannon spoke.
We held our breath—
Then came the last sweet piercing note
Of bugle call.
And shattered into crystal bits
The stored up tears
Of longing and of loneliness.

As Our Readers See It

Consumer Pays

Bell Telephone stock used to be considered a good investment for widows and pension funds. A few years ago an investor paid 46-plus per share and got a return of 4 per cent, which at that time was regarded as satisfactory. Since then interest rates have gone up and the value of this stock has declined because the Bell dividend did not keep pace with rising interest rates.

If the money had been put in Canada Savings Bonds it would earn 4 per cent, commencing a year from now, with return of the full amount paid for the bond assured at any time. To dispose of the Bell stock now the owner would have to take a capital loss of about 12 per cent. A recent wage increase (not an uncommon occurrence since the last phone rate hike) has worsened the financial picture for Bell shareholders.

Are labor conciliation boards more competent to make final decisions, or should not the Diefenbaker cabinet be asked to review any decisions that are not satisfactory to both parties, as was done in the case of phone rates? In the final analysis it is the same consumer who pays.

Good Trick for Treat

Now Halloween is over for another year, here is a suggestion! Let the children make it a time of "giving." Let them seek out someone in need, sick or just alone—to give a "treat" to or perform some little service for them.

Thinking of all the money used on fireworks to "go up in smoke"—and what it could have done towards easing some of the distress at Springhill—prompted these thoughts.

The "Save the Children Fund" is an excellent idea.

Compassion, thought for others less fortunate than themselves, could bring as much joy and far more satisfaction.

Economic Interpretation

At a meeting held in Victoria, October 30, to organize a "Peace by Peaceful Means Society," the chairman stressed no politics.

Was not the very act of calling that meeting a political act? And the forming of committees to study the cause of war, a political act? Any future action taken along these lines must of necessity be political?

This society could enrol Messrs. Khrushchev, Eisenhower or Churchill as honorary members, seeing that the majority present must have supported capitalism for years past, and is now organizing for peace. This shows clearly, either they do not understand the causes of war, or they refuse to recognize that under capitalism all governments organize armed forces, not only to maintain order at home, but to maintain all markets and sources of raw material abroad, and at the same time expand those markets, and sources of raw material wherever possible, at the expense of other nations, while all other nations are trying to do likewise.

All socialists take the position that wars large or small, are caused by this rivalry between the nations, to get control of these markets, raw material, etc. We also maintain the only road to peace is to change the private ownership of the means of production for profit, into common ownership and produce for the use of the whole community, which is socialism.

Contrasts In Japan

By JAMES MORRIS
From Tokyo

AT the bottom of the escalators in the big Tokyo department stores two girls usually stand in attendance, one at each side. They wear uniforms, like air hostesses, and between them there passes a constant and fairly ordinary stream of shoppers, tweed-skirted or macintoshed, rich with packages and babies.

The duty of those two girls is this: all day long, in dignified unison, they must offer obeisance to the passing customers, bowing low and stiffly from the waist, up and down, up and down, their tiny porcelain faces impassive but respectful, like neat blue puppets bobbing against a backcloth, in a world of war-lords and cherry-blossom.

In many another capital city, from Lima to Katmandu, such a situation would offer one of those contrasts of period or custom so dear to the travel writer (the best-flogged horse in the whole stable of travel imagery is the Sheikh-and-Cadillac plea). In Tokyo, however, it provides no such easy symbolism, for this seems to be a city sui generis.

Here the traditional and the modern neither clash raucously nor unite sentimentally: they merely progress in a condition of habitual but awkward co-existence.

You can wear a kimono or an Empire line, whichever you like. You can sleep austere on a straw mat, or squishily in an expensive bed. You can go to a symphony concert or a Noh play—or even, according to the entertainments guide of my newspaper the other day, to a function described beguilingly as a Nude Immoral Lecture.

New and Old

Tokyo is a hodge-podge capital, and its rhythm hovers between the antique and the honky-tonk; but it is plagued by no sense of violent cultural conflict.

By now, as the stranger will soon discover, the new is more intrusive in Tokyo than the old. A century of industrialization has made of this a spectacularly ugly city, far removed from the watercolor hygiene of the Japanese legend.

Vast, teeming, and gloomy are the factory suburbs which, like a wide, blighted wilderness, surround the capital on every side and straggle away to Yokohama. Driving into Tokyo from the south is like traversing some interminable slough, a morass of low wooden houses, chimneys, power pylons, messy backyards, and bumpy, noisy, ill-lit roads.

Nor do the people, in their dull workaday clothes, add much gaiety to the scene: old women shrouded in sacks and wrappings signal you on at the innumerable road obstacles, and often you will see men stalking moodily through the streets with cotton pads over their faces (they look eerily suggestive, but in fact have colds in their noses).

You can travel for a couple of hours without seeing one single beautiful thing, unless by a miracle that was denied me—the white summit of Fuji-yama appears momentarily above the mills.

The centre of the city is Westernized in another way. Not only are there the great unbeautiful offices of the banks and government departments: there is also the fizz and glitter of modern commerce. Scores of advertising balloons bob gaily in the sky above the Ginza, and a turmoil of traffic bumps its way down that celebrated boulevard with a Parisian intensity of purpose.

Many Products

There are few more splendid stores in the world than the shops that command this district: stores so complete that you can buy anything from an oil-painting to a razor-blade, glittering with bright lights and shining silks, thick with recorded music, packed tight with the pearls and cameras and toys and brocades and telescopes and ivories and prints that are among the most delectable of the Japanese specialties.

Upstairs you may eat the raw fish and seaweed of tradition: downstairs a crowd of young people, in postures and gestures of distinctly Sagan-esque genesis, clamor around the old Moors of a contemporary Japanese sculptor (and on the third floor they will run you up a Dior dress, from M. St. Laurent's original toile, for the equivalent of $42).

So the new and the old, the silken and the smoky, pursue their courses distinctly—if not defiantly—but the travelled stranger may sense, after a day or two in Tokyo, the existence of a kind of no man's land between the two.

At the heart of many a conversation he will come across an emptiness, just as in the blaring rattle-dazzle quarters off the Ginza you may see the Tokyo teddy-boys, neither one thing nor the other, lounging or sidling down their alleyways.

They wear their hair long and their trousers tight, but their high-boned Eastern faces are startlingly reminiscent of the old Japanese pictures, from which the slit eyes and pointed noses of evil peer out with such horrific potency.

The Mistifs

These ugly young men and their painted courtesans are the children of uncertainty, bred by progress out of tradition, but not in holy wedlock.

Who can be surprised? The old Japan was a country of deep-accepted loyalties, based on feudal honor, on religion, on respect for family and ancestry, on pride in arms and unreasoning patriotism. One by one, by fortune and by war, these concepts have been laid low: first by the deliberate industrialization of the country, eagerly accepted by a people of great industry and ability; then by the abject humiliations of a defeat which punctured, once and for all, the legend of divine superiority. The two cultures do not squabble in Japan; but one gets the impression that the new (so vigorous, so glittering, so easy of discipline and demand) is slowly corroding the old by its very proximity.

The Doggy Walk

I'M FEELING a bit drab this morning, so let's have a little fun with Elvira Brown and her dog.

Elvira lives in the country, more or less. Her dog's name is Tuppence. Tuppence is what I'd call a mongrel, and what kinder people call a cross.

Elvira, says her husband, is dominated by the dogs. You should hear her explanation of the morning walk, he teases. If that's not domination, he doesn't know what is!

But, as Elvira has explained to him so often there's a definite reason for every detail of the morning walk.

"I know that Tuppence shouldn't bark when I go out of the back door just after nine," Elvira said the other day.

"But, if she doesn't, how is Bodger from next door to know that it's time for his little morning walk?"

"That's his lookout," said Elvira's husband.

"Maybe," said Elvira. "But, like me, he's a little set in his ways, and, on wet winter mornings, he likes to stay in his kennel for as long as possible. If he doesn't hear Tuppence bark, he misses us and doesn't get his daily romp and play. Then both of them are disappointed. And, for some unknown reason, Tuppence won't bark for him as we go by. She only barks when we set out."

"Dominated," said Elvira's husband. "Dominated and a little dotty. What living near Victoria has done to you! And the other day you couldn't be late, because Bodger was waiting."

"Well, he does on fine mornings," said Elvira. "You know how he comes down through the orchard and across the field, and waits by the fence post that he knows he mustn't pass. I hate to see the poor thing waiting. With those heavy jaws, he looks so sad."

"And after all, by 9 o'clock, I've done the beds and dishes and the mail is there. Don't be silly. I'm not dominated. I love my little morning walk to get the mail. The dogs are just my excuse."

Perhaps we shouldn't laugh at Elvira, but round and in Victoria, especially in Oak Bay, there are plenty of women whose minds work rather as Elvira's does.

Listen to this one talking to her dog in the morning:

"No, Topper, not yet. I know that's my old tweed coat and you think it means a walk. But before we go for a walk I must just mend the tab on it, and write a cheque for the bill that I stuffed into the pocket."

"So lie down like a good dog while I do the sewing. Yes, I know exactly what you mean when you roll your eyes and thump your tail. But you'll have to be patient and wait until I'm finished."

"And, by the way, I wish you wouldn't chase after that little creature down the street. She's not your kind. Besides, she's flighty. I know it's tempting, but you must try to be a gentleman."

"And, Topper, what about that terrier from the house at the corner? I know you don't like him. I don't like him much myself. Too fat and such a yappy bark. But it was you who started it the other day. He wasn't doing anything. And, it was his bit of boulevard. You didn't have to walk around him, stiff-legged and growling."

"And, Topper, what possessed you to follow that little Corgi into the middle of the rugby game at Windsor Park? He was terrified when the players came charging down on him, and you made it worse."

"Yes, I'm all finished now. It's time for our walk. With this wind, it's going to be a blowy one. It'll do us both a world of good!"

Oh, Victoria! How I love it!

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Hockey Dying in Britain

LONDON—As I mentioned recently the once popular indoor arena, Empress Hall, has been closed and is being demolished to make way for office buildings. Now the news is that Harringay Arena packs up at the end of this month, for the Home and Colonial chain of grocery stores to move in and use it as a warehouse.

So the sorry situation now is that London is left with only one major indoor arena—Wembley.

Where lies the blame for the death of Harringay? Once more, as with the Empress Hall, it's television that's the whipping horse. What in this century has caused more of a social revolution than the One-eyed Monster? The automobile? The advent of motion pictures?

Harringay Arena (the adjoining outdoor stadium still survives for greyhound racing) was built in 1937, and in postwar years has been the venue mainly of ice hockey, horse jumping, Christmas circuses and boxing.

Jack Solomons, Britain's top boxing promoter, put on all his big bouts there, including such famous scraps as Turpin's victory over Sugar Ray Robinson for the middleweight crown. Solomons has nowhere else available now to stage an indoor money-making promotion except Wembley.

A drawback of Harringay was that it was never an easy to get to spot. More than five miles across town from Piccadilly, through not very pleasant districts, and entailed several bus or subway changes, it meant that you had to be pretty keen to see what was going on there to make the journey. Given a choice of traipsing out to Harringay or staying at home and watching TV, comparatively few chose the former—even despite the fact that Solomons tried to safeguard his takings by refusing to televise any of his fights.

The closing of Harringay doesn't mean that the Harringay Racers hockey team is now without a home. The team died before the arena—a couple of seasons ago, to be exact. London has dwindled from having four hockey teams to one solitary outfit—the Wembley Lions.

Hockey in Britain is on its last legs. In fact it very nearly died this summer and was kept alive only by the last-fling enthusiasm of the British Ice Hockey Association. Getting the winter schedules organized during the summer months they were shocked to realize that throughout the British Isles they were down to three teams.

However, after a lot of effort, they managed to revive a couple more and this winter's five-team league consists of two Scottish teams (in Edinburgh and Paisley) and teams in Nottingham, London and Brighton. The fact that Brighton, at the bottom of England, has to have fixtures with Edinburgh away up there in Scotland shows what a problem they have to get any hockey games organized.

Perhaps Harringay would have survived, had they been able to do what Brighton does. Thanks to a friendly town council, Brighton quite illegally stages sports events on Sunday, in blatant violation of the Sunday Entertainments Act of 1932.

'Free Algeria' Not Vote Issue

ALGIERS (AP)—Rightists favoring integration with France make up the vast majority of candidates contesting 70 seats in the French Parliament from Algeria and the Sahara. There is no sign of a party or candidate seeking independence for Algeria.

At the midnight deadline Sunday 35 party lists had been filed from Algeria's 18 election districts. Unofficial tabulations showed a total of 190 candidates—131 Moslems and 59 Europeans.

Seventy deputies will be named to the French National Assembly in Paris in the elections Nov. 28-30. Algeria proper will have 67 and three will be from the Sahara, which is administered separately.

The proportion of Moslems to be elected has been fixed by law at two-thirds of the total. This will mean 46 Moslems will be sent to Paris, 44 from Algeria and two, from the Sahara.

MOSTLY RIGHT WING

A preliminary check of the candidates whose backgrounds are known and of the names on the party lists showed the dominant tendency was right wing and favorable to the integration of France with Algeria, but an accurate analysis of all the parties and candidates will be possible only after the election campaign begins.

About 10 of the parties appeared to lean toward something short of the rightist demands for integration.

Most of the party lists had titles linking them to the Algerian public safety committee movement that led the rebellion last May and helped bring Gen. Charles de Gaulle back to power.

It was only in the last hours before midnight that it became clear there would be a large enough number of party lists to make the election officially valid. There had to be at least two lists in each election district for a valid contest.

Some Europeans have termed the election a farce. Obviously the public safety committee network, although deprived of much of its power when de Gaulle ordered the French Army out of Algerian

Human Rights 'Inadequate'

WINNIPEG (CP)—The executive vice-president of the Canadian Labor Congress says that "the human rights now accepted as the right of every citizen must not only be guaranteed, but their scope must be immeasurably broadened."

Stanley Knowles was addressing the annual human rights educational conference, sponsored by the Manitoba labor committee for human rights and the education department of the CLC.

"Canada likes to think of itself as a democratic country in which all people are equal but we have some of the worst immigration laws in the world," Mr. Knowles said. "British subjects from other countries who happen to be white can enter Canada with ease, but British subjects whose skin is black or yellow are practically prohibited from entrance into Canada."

WHAT CAUSES WOOL TO SHRINK?

... washing wool in hot water, with the wrong kind of soap causes the tiny fibres to break down and shrink. ZERO, the cold water soap that has been specially developed for washing woollens, stops shrinking or matting. Wash all your woollens from softest cashmeres and baby things to heavy wool blankets with ZERO in comfortably cool water. ZERO's gentle yet thorough action means no hard rubbing... dirt just floats out leaving your woollens sparkling bright, soft as new. Good for Nylon, Orion and all cool water fabrics, too. Tories Survive First Session In Manitoba

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Manitoba legislature was prorogued Friday after Premier Duff Roblin's minority Progressive Conservative government won passage of its first legislative program and survived four non-confidence votes.

Although the 19 Liberal Progressives and 11 CCF members in the 57-seat House could have defeated the government, they never got together to out-vote the 26 government supporters.

The session approved legislation providing for a new provincial school set-up, a farm credit and industrial credit plan, a winter work program and a $33,000,000 highway program.

The education bill provides for establishment of a school boundaries commission to outline 50 to 60 school divisions. The divisions will be established if the resident voters in each approve them.

Division boards would have complete control over secondary education while local districts would retain control of elementary education.

The bill also provides for increased provincial grants to education.

HOME GARDEN

By HILDA BEASTALL

Myrtle Likes Our Climate

The evergreen shrub commonly called myrtle is perhaps better known in European countries than here, yet we are in the fortunate position of being able to grow it outdoors in this area.

Myrtus communis (the common myrtle) is hardy enough in most of our gardens. In fact only the zero temperatures of 1955 affected it in our garden. Even so, our shrubs arose again, Phoenix-like, from the roots.

One could almost include myrtle in the herb garden, for the scent of its small shiny green leaves is one of its attractions.

Specimens three feet high and of the same width are easily grown, and the combination of dark shiny leaves and wide open scented white flowers in summer make it of interest over a long period.

PERSISTING

The flowers are three-quarters of an inch in diameter with a bunch of long stamens decorating the centre. This year the blossoms are persisting into November and some of the black fruits have formed.

This attractive little shrub is not fussy as to soil, but it does like it well drained in winter.

Partial shade suits it, although an open, sunny position will be satisfactory, providing the soil retains moisture, for it likes plenty of water, and enjoys overhead watering during the hot weather.

Any slight pruning which might be necessary should be done in spring.

If desired as tub plants for use on a patio, myrtles should be grown on in successively larger pots until the required size is reached.

Propagation is by cuttings taken in late summer and rooted in sandy soil in the greenhouse. Should the black fruits form early enough in the season to ripen it would be interesting to try raising some seedlings.

Industrials Record Surge Big Highlight

By GERRY MARTIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canadian stock exchanges swept to record heights this week in a good example of the weight United States investors carry on our markets.

Following the Democrat election victory, New York markets soared to all-time highs and as United States investors looked around for a possible hedge against inflation, they turned to Canada.

U.S. markets were closed Tuesday, election day, and Canadian exchanges crept ahead but volumes were noticeably light. The industrial push started Wednesday with the break-through coming Thursday.

At Toronto, the 506.33 mark set Aug. 2, 1956, finally toppled after two assaults in the last couple of months. Industrials surpassed their mark at 1 p.m. Thursday. Industrials closed the week with an index of 506.94, up more than seven points.

Market observers said the Democrat victory in the United States was the spark, but a combination of bullish news already had industrials smouldering.

The settlement of the Steel Company of Canada strike at Hamilton and the recovery of gas and oil issues coupled with third-quarter reports that were slightly better than expected contributed to the rise.

Base metals moved up three points on index as the boom that swept industrials up spread to all sections of the Toronto market. Western oils were up more than two points and golds gained three-quarters of a point.

MOST ACTIVE ISSUE

Two speculative oils took over from the mining issues as the most active at Toronto. Rumors and reports of gas and oil discoveries in the west resulted in a 38-cent gain at $1.11 for Petrol and a 24-cent increase at 42 cents for Southern Union.

Increases in copper prices in Canada and Belgium near weekend lifted base metals. Hudson Bay showed the biggest gain, up $2.12 at $38.12.

Index gains at Toronto: Industrials 7.16 to 506.94; base metals 3.09 to 178.54; golds .71 to 81.83; western oils 2.22 to 138.25.

Index gains at Montreal: Banks 1.46 at 56.37; utilities 1.7 to 150.3; combined 3.7 to 245.2; papers new 11 at 453.6; papers old 32.89 to 1,378.87; golds 1.38 to 79.44.

ONCE A LAKE, NOW A PUDDLE

Huge power shovels load ore into waiting trucks for transport to the new $9,200,000 mill at Lake Asbestos of Quebec Ltd. Water in background is all that remains of 500-acre Black Lake, drained and dredged to get the asbestos ore. The operation called for pumping of 55,000,000 gallons of water and dredging of 27,000,000 cubic yards of lake bottom. The asbestos deposit now is being mined to produce 100,000 tons of asbestos fibre a year. (CP Photo.)

No Relief For High Beef Prices

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA — Housewives across Canada are complaining about the high cost of beef.

Usually at this time of year beef prices decline and housewives concerned with the family budget can count on buying roasts of beef at reasonable prices.

Not this year. After easing off slightly from the high point reached this June, the price of beef had climbed again to the dismay of those scanning the butchers' shelves for reasonably priced cuts.

Hon. Douglas Harkness, minister of agriculture, said this week that the high prices are due to shortages of beef around the world. He pointed out that exports of cattle to the U.S. have continued at a high point, with the demand from across the border cutting into the Canadian herds, the price of beef shows no signs of dropping.

Housewives can look for no immediate relief in the high cost of beef. The demand for cattle is not abating and prices for beef consequently will continue high right through the fall into the winter when normally beef prices show a decline.

CMA President Here on Thursday

Canadian Manufacturers' Association president Ian F. McRae will address two Victoria organizations Thursday during a week's tour of the province.

"The Hinges of Fortune" will be his topic when he addresses a joint luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club and the CMA Victoria and Vancouver Island Branch in the Empress Hotel.

Mr. McRae, closely associated with Canadian work in the field of nuclear power plants, is chairman of the board of Canadian General Electric Co. Ltd.

He will meet local manufacturers informally after the meeting and visit a number of industrial plants here and up-Island.

Mr. McRae, a native of Vancouver, rose to the top of CGE from the company's apprentice training course which he entered in 1925.

In 1941 he was appointed works manager of the firm's largest plant in Peterborough, Ont. He also was made a director of the Crown-owned Geneco warplant there, manufacturing heavy military equipment.

In 1950 he was promoted to the Toronto head office as assistant to the vice-president in charge of manufacturing. The following year he was on loan to the federal department of defence production as a division director.

Subsequent promotions included appointment as general manager of CGE's civil aviation atomic power department, election as a director in 1957 and elevation to board chairman this year.

He will be accompanied by John C. Whitelaw, QC, CMA general manager who joined the staff of the 6,500-member association in 1940.

Kitimat Takes a Soaking --In More Ways Than One

BY HAL MALONE
Times Business Editor

Victorians who complain mildly about the rain should thank their stars they don't have to put up with what passed for weather last week. Residents of northern B.C.'s newest city were thoroughly damped, physically and literally.

Kitimatians must have felt like the writer of "The Day That The Rains Came" when:

1. More than seven inches of rain fell between Sunday and Wednesday.

2. The lone highway link to Terrace—"the outside world"—was closed when a bridge washed out. Travellers were forced to ride a Canadian National Railway freight into town.

Malone

3. Attorney-General Robert Bonner announced some of the city's "water supply" may be lost. The AG says the liquor store may be moved outside the municipal limits because ALCAN has raised the rent for the liquor store by $3 a front foot.

4. Skeena MLA Hugh Shirreff (SC) said the provincial government is holding up plans for a provincial building because the cost of land (from ALCAN) is too high to consider going ahead.

5. ALCAN said 150 men would be laid off before Christmas—with no drop in aluminum production at the smelter.

6. United Steelworkers' union said at least a dozen families affected by the layoff have been notified that their (already high) rent would rise 20 per cent because they are no longer with the company.

7. Lands and forests minister Ray Williston said it isn't feasible to launch the long-discussed pulp and paper mill project (in which the Powell River company is interested) due to the depressed pulp and newsprint market.

Stormy weather? That's all ALCAN's 2,300 employees could see. The solution: they invited Attorney-General Bonner to visit the city and see condition first-hand. But the weather posed another problem—Kitimat has an average annual rain fall of 90 inches to Victoria's 27 inches. In Kitimat all the townsfolk could do was hope the weatherman would turn the tap off. If he doesn't they'll be wearing bigger and better umbrellas this year.

On the brighter side, Kitimatians and Aluminum Ltd. (ALCAN) is the major subsidiary) stockholders were brightened by the company's latest financial statement. President Nathaniel Davis said third-quarter sales increased to 162,000 tons as compared with 131,000 tons in the same period last year. Part of the increase can be accounted for by considerable inventory buying in the U.S. prior to the industry's price increase announced in that market early in August.

Net income for the first nine months of 1958 was $17,988,000, a considerable drop from the 1957 total of $30,926,000. The income decrease is extreme when sales for both periods are reviewed. In the first nine months of 1958 sales hit $321,965,000 while in 1957 same period total was $339,719,000. Mr. Davis says the income picture was distorted by the "extraordinary costs" incurred as a result of the four-month strike at the company's Arvida, Que., smelter.

Bank clearings rose in Victoria last week over the same period last year. Clearings to Nov. 6 amounted to $12,173,759 compared with $11,696,412.

Inflation Ups Bank Rate

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian money pot has been bubbling with a heavy addition of new funds, but the insatiable hunger for money—and credit—appears far greater than the pot can provide.

Thus, with deepening concern over the possibility of inflation, the Bank of Canada appears to have imposed new restraints on the expansion of the country's money supply.

That, perhaps, is one of the main reasons why the central bank's interest rate has climbed steadily, week by week, reaching to 3.2 per cent last Thursday from the all-time low of 1.12 last August. The all-time high was 4.33 per cent in August last year.

The restraints appear to have been imposed amid prospects of some shortages likely in the over-all supply of mortgage money and heavy unemployment in the coming winter months.

South African gold mines in September, 1958, employed 333,000 native workers.

PRICE SPREAD PROBE IN OTTAWA, NOV. 12

OTTAWA (UPI)—The royal commission on price spreads will hold a 10-day hearing here starting Nov. 12, it was announced today.

The seven-man commission, headed by University of Alberta President Andrew Stewart, already has held hearings in the western and Atlantic provinces and in Toronto, Montreal and Quebec City.

The commission is investigating the spread of food prices between the producer and the consumer.

How you can provide

through a "program of security," tailored to your needs by a London Life representative

HERE'S AN EXAMPLE OF HOW SUCH A PLAN CAN BE DESIGNED FOR A TYPICAL CANADIAN FAMILY:

For the father: Life Insurance to assure an income for wife and children, in case his life should be cut short—an income sufficient to keep the home intact, to pay the bills for food, clothing, education, and other essentials. To meet this all-important need, many Canadian family men have purchased the London Life's low-cost "Jubilee" Whole Life plan, which provides for savings as well as protection. Provision may also be made for income in case of total disability.

For the mother: Life insurance of her own, to provide further protection to the family, and containing savings features. The insurance may be paid up while she is still in middle age, but the protection may continue through her lifetime, if desired. It may also be provided that her premiums will not be payable if her husband becomes disabled or dies.

For the children: Insurance for each son or daughter—at the low premium rates available at their present ages. This insurance can build up funds through the years, so that when the policies are eventually turned over to the children, a backlog of savings will have already accumulated. It can be provided that premiums will not be payable in the event of the father's disablement or death.

London Life men are trained to help you select the plans which will best meet the needs of the individual members of the family. Moreover, it is part of their job to keep your program adapted to changes in your situation... Today is a good day to talk to a London Life representative.

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answers each day receives a 20-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Paul McGrath, aged 11, of Fredericton, N.B., for his question:

How Was the Atlantic Ocean Named?

The name of the Atlantic Ocean is buried deep in the distant past. Its story includes a god of ancient Greece, a range of desert mountains and a race of island warriors. The ancient tale is full of legends and half-truths, which show us what men of old thought about our planet.

In early days few people knew that the earth was a round globe. Most believed that the earth was flat until just a few hundred years ago. Try to imagine the earth as a huge, flat platform. Naturally you would wonder what propped it up. And so did the ancients.

In our Age of Science when we do not know the answer to a question we say so. This leaves our minds free to go about finding—and proving—the true answer. This was not so before the Age of Science. When the ancients could not solve a problem they made up an answer. They did not know who or what was propping up their flat earth. So they invented a man for the job. This imaginary strong man, whose imaginary job was to hold up an imaginary flat earth, was Atlas, son of Titan. Since the ancient Greeks did not know that their earth was round they believed it was a huge platform supported by this demigod, Atlas.

Atlas, the strong man, was supposed to stand in the sea with the world upon his shoulders. The Greeks even imagined the place where Atlas stood. They were Mediterranean people and their gentle sea connected to a wild ocean beyond a narrow strait. To us, this is the Strait of Gibraltar. To them, it was the Pillars of Hercules. Mighty Atlas, said the Greeks, stood in the ocean beyond the Pillars of Hercules. Later a range of mountains in northwest Africa was named Atlas. These mountains swoop up from the sandy Sahara and down to the blue Mediterranean. This region was called the Atlantic Kingdom.

Legendary Island in Sea

Beyond the Pillars of Hercules, out in the wild ocean, was the legendary island of Atlantis.

About 9,000 years ago the people of Atlantis are said to have conquered most of the Mediterranean countries. There is a legend that Atlantis sank beneath the sea and all its warriors were drowned. Meantime, the ocean, its islands, mountains and legends had become thoroughly identified with the name Atlantis and Atlantis. It was natural to call it the Atlantic Ocean. At the time of Columbus most people thought that the Atlantic Ocean reached to the edge of the flat earth.

When Columbus set sail the wild Atlantic was known as the Sea of Darkness. His sailors were terrified lest they should reach the end of it and plunge off into a bottomless pit.

Now we know that the Atlantic is merely an ocean on the surface of our round globe. It is large and it is stormy. But the great Pacific Ocean could swallow it up twice and still have room to spare.

Andy sends a Hammond's Nature Atlas of America to Kimlee Neighbour, age 12, of Des Moines, Iowa, for the question:

Do Fish Ever Sleep?

No fish ever finds a bed, closes his eyes and goes to sleep. You will never catch your pet goldfish napping. Even in the dead of night he

'Fight for Fluorides'

Greater Victorians should press harder for fluoridation so an early decision could be taken, possibly next year, to treat water supplies, chairman of Victoria-Esquamalt board of health said Saturday.

Esquamalt Coun. G. K. Sammon said the health board is "wholeheartedly behind fluoridation."

Although most vocal opposition comes from "misguided persons," the ultimate criticism should be levelled at the parents of young children who are not actively supporting this measure.

Benefits and safety of fluoridation in preventing tooth decay among children has been established beyond any reasonable doubt, he said.

MAKING MONEY

But strong opposition has been created by persons seeking publicity and those earning income through writing and selling articles, pamphlets and broadcasts against the measure, he said.

"To those groups could be added persons who are merely genuinely uninformed, food faddists and those who oppose this measure on religious grounds. It is unfortunate that these people, whether knowingly or not, are denying our children the advantages of good, sound, healthy teeth."

He said arguments used by anti-fluoridationists "lack sense, are full of half-truths and in many cases have utterly no basis whatsoever."

A new club has been formed for Victoria and Vancouver Island, called the University of New Brunswick Club.

The inaugural meeting, held at the home of UNB graduates Mr. and Mrs. Daryl Elford, 3045 Larkdowne, heard an address by the university's alumni secretary, Jack Murray. Movies of recent campus events were shown.

Club president is Dr. C. D. Orchard and honorary president is Frank Green. Executive members are Mrs. Elford, vice-president; J. A. K. Reid, secretary, and C. C. Purves, secretary.

REPEAT SHOW TONIGHT AT ROYAL

Big Audience Rewarded By First-Rate Concert

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON

A program of more than usual interest and delight Sunday afternoon rewarded one of the biggest afternoon audiences ever drawn by the Victoria Symphony Orchestra.

As prime attraction at the Royal Theatre there was one of Canada's foremost concert artists, violinist Betty-Jean Hagen, playing one of the most lyrical of all violin concertos — the Mendelssohn E Minor.

And to round out and balance the afternoon the orchestra under the perceptive leadership of Hans Gruber, played that superb modern masterpiece, the Schostakovich Fifth Symphony — superbly.

AMONG LEADING

Miss Hagen, making her second appearance in the Victoria Symphony spotlight, re-established the impression she left last year as an artist of great brilliance, warmth and instinctive poetry. As a virtuoso she undoubtedly has achieved a place among the leading concert violinists of her sex today.

She has a wonderfully flexible bowing arm and a triumphant sense of flowing power in the most exacting passages. She appears to revel in every phase of her playing and not simply in the grandiose.

Delicate tone was uttered with a disembodied purity that had a special enchantment and the slow movement was performed with lingering tenderness and exquisite detail.

After providing Miss Hagen with a fine competent partnership, the orchestra undertook the Schostakovich, a work vibrating with color,

Choral Society Will Present Messiah Dec. 10

In spite of many difficulties the Victoria Choral Society's presentation of the Messiah, conducted by Graham Steed, will take place on Wednesday, Dec. 10, at Metropolitan Church.

This will be Mr. Steed's last public appearance before leaving the city sometime in the new year. He recently resigned his post as organist and choir-master at Christ Church Cathedral due to differences of opinion with Dean Brian Whitlow over choir personnel.

Soloists for the Messiah will be Christa Ortlepp, soprano; Margaret Myles, well-known Tacoma contralto; Norman Tyrrell, tenor, and Derek MacDermot, baritone.

11 Killed as Trains Collide in Brazil

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Police said 11 persons were killed Saturday in the collision of two passenger trains near Retiro, one of Buenos Aires' biggest terminals.

both vigorous and sensitive, remotely brooding and extrovertly gay.

There was no doubt that with Gruber the orchestra had been lead to a complete understanding of the thoughts and flights of fancy expressed in the music. Indeed it seems doubtful whether this was not one of the finest, most satisfying performances it has ever given us.

There was no section of the orchestra that did not respond well whether in the panoramic first movement, the tip-toe gaiety of the Allegretto, the beautiful string sostenutos of the slow movement or the vivid, declamatory effect of the finale.

Frescobaldi's stirring Organ Toccata in D major established a responsive atmosphere at the program's opening.

DIGNIFIED SETTING

The splendidly balanced concert was visually enhanced by black velvet cyclorama curtains being used over the grey plywood screens as a backdrop to the orchestra. This did not in any way damage the acoustics but made a dignified and handsome setting.

Another innovation and a dramatically effective one, was the closed proscenium curtain at the commencement which opened to reveal the full orchestra in place ready to perform.

The concert will be repeated tonight at 8.30.

Contrast, Force In 'Oedipus Rex'

The powerful Greek tragedy by Sophocles, "Oedipus Rex," enthralled audiences at Oak Bay Junior High School on Saturday afternoon and evening.

The cast in general was adequate and the staging and costuming mounted with effective simplicity. Notable performances were given by Michael Rankin as Creon and Judith Loss in a supporting role.

Production was by the Seattle Players with Edward Jones, a Washington State drama instructor, as director, producer and leading actor. Mr. Jones gave a sincere performance as the fate-haunted king, endowing it with much contrast and force.

Here is a J. Arthur Rank evening of superb entertainment. An excellent return comedy, "TOUCH AND GO" starring Jack Hawkins and Margaret Johnson. Nothing short of sheer delight. It is absolutely full of wit, romance and touches of tender pathos.

Also we are showing "WINDOM'S WAY" with Peter Finch and Mary Ure in the leading roles. This is in color too. The story is of a British doctor mixing in far East (Ceylon) politics. It is from the dramatic novel by James Ullman. Adventure, spectacle, uncommon, unforgettable. See either or both of these British films, and still be home early. Time schedule:

No Change Yet, But Just Wait!

By Canadian Press

Toronto Maple Leafs have had their best weekend of the young season and it appears the National Hockey League may not be a cut-and-dried affair after all.

Leafs kept Boston Bruins from first place Saturday night with a 5-3 beating in Toronto, then moved into Detroit Sunday night to put down the Red Wings 2-0.

The double win didn't change Leafs' last-place situation but it did serve notice that they'll likely be heard from more often this season.

In Sunday night's other NHL game New York Rangers beat Boston 5-1, again denying Bruins the first-place spot left vulnerable when the league-leading Montreal Canadiens lost 6-5 to Rangers in Montreal Saturday night. Chicago Black Hawks beat Red Wings 4-3 in a Saturday afternoon affair.

DUFF SCORES TWICE

Dick Duff scored both Toronto goals Sunday night as Leafs posted their first win on Detroit ice in two seasons. Wings were so inept in the third period that Detroit fans booed and jeered at their efforts to get an attack organized.

The loss dropped the Detroiters to fifth place, two points ahead of Toronto.

Saturday the Leafs led Bruins all the way and outshot them 32-24. Billy Harris led the Leafs scorers with two goals and singles came off the sticks of George Armstrong, Brian Cullen and Bobby Palford.

Boston scorers were Jim Morrison, Leo Boivin and Don McKenney. The visitors found the Toronto jinx working again when Bob Armstrong suffered a shoulder injury while making a shot. In Boston's last Toronto appearance Doug Mohns and Bronco Horvath were sidelined with jaw fractures.

EIGHTH GOAL

Andy Bathgate scored his eighth goal of the year for Rangers Sunday night. Camille Henry, Hank Ciesla, Wally Hergesheimer and Andy Heberton got the others. Goalie Gump Worsley's shutout died when Jim Morrison fired a 50-foot screen shot for the lone Bruin goal.

Rangers beat Canadiens by scoring the only goal of the third period after two periods of wide-open and loose play had produced 10 goals.

Hergesheimer took a pass from Bill Gadsby and waltzed in to beat Montreal goalie Jacques Plante with the winner. Other Ranger scorers were Bathgate, with two, Lou Fontinato, Harry Howell and Larry Popen.

Maurice Richard got the 597th goal of his NHL career. The others went to Bob Turner, Ab McDonald, Dick Moore and Don Marshall.

Filchok's Bears Maul Dutchmen

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP)—Coach Frank Filchok's Sarnia Golden Bears won the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union championship on Saturday, swamping Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, 48-20. Sarnia whipped the Dutchmen 29-19 last Wednesday in the opener of their best-of-three final.

FRENCH TRIUMPH

PARIS (AP)—Paris defeated London 11-3 Sunday in their annual rugby match.

Prezeau Found Key Sunday But Reg Had It on Saturday

Darryl Prezeau finally found his bowling key after knocking on the door for the past two weeks.

Prezeau became the third winner of Esquimalt Boro-drome's "Parade of Champions" Sunday when he came through with a 1,085 series, including a high single of 359. Gary Roskamp and Jim Gallant were earlier winners in the five-pin event.

Reg Waggoner, 962, Jack Goldie 960, Audie Gibson 950 and Ted Dawson 949 were next in line Sunday.

Waggoner knocked over an 889 series and a 420 single in the qualifying round, then bowled 771 to dethrone Cec McRae in the Capital City Alleys' championship tenpin series Saturday.

Reg reeled off 10 strikes before catching a head pin on the 11th frame in his high single game.

Cy Waters was runner-up with 750 in the finals, while Wes Vogel had 720 and McRae 582.

IN ACTION TUESDAY in inter-city exhibition games will be Bill Bamford (left) and Frank Gower. Bamford will line up at fullback spot at 2 p.m. with Victoria and District Football League all-stars in match against Vancouver Pilseners at Royal Athletic Park. Gower will perform at forward position for Victoria representative rugby team against Vancouver Reps at 2.30.

MOORE WINS TITLE

Big New Feather In Vic High Cap

They're showing added respect for Victoria High School and its staff of runners over on the mainland today.

Coach Gordon Hartley's Vic High runners captured the Pacific Northwest's high school division team championship in the annual cross-country races at Vancouver, Saturday.

And Jim Moore, a UBC student, who captained the Vics when they won the same high school crown in 1953 and 1954, won the senior title with a time of 21 minutes 23 seconds.

GREILE SECOND

Moore beat out Oregon's Jim Greile in the four-and-a-half-mile run. Paul Hendon, of Vancouver, was third.

All five of Victoria High's team finished in the top 10 in the two-and-a-half-mile high school race won by Burnaby's Vic Reeve. Twelve teams and 68 runners started.

John Cliff led the Vics, finishing fourth, while teammate Tom Burgess was next. Simon Princeburg was seventh, Brian MacDonald eighth and Jim Robertson 10th.

Vancouver Olympics won the senior team trophy and Washington State College topped the junior division.

Hoop Lesson For Athletics

ALBERNI (CP)—Alberni Athletics took their second successive beating Saturday night at the hands of the Fort Lewis, Wash., Chiefs, losing 76-61 to the visitors in a senior "A" exhibition basketball game.

Friday night Fort Lewis won 78-65.

At the interval Saturday, the Chiefs had a 30-27 edge. Their top man was Jerry Brennan with 23 points.

Top scorer for the Athletics was Al Brown with 21.

HOLLYWOOD, Calif.—Boots Monroe, 23, Hollywood, knocked out Roque Fernandez, 1194, Mexico City, second,

Tripucka Has Idea, But It May Be Late

Riders' Hagler Still Doubtful For Second Game

REGINA (CP)—Quarterback Frank Tripucka listened to the figures on the running of Normie Kwong and Johnny Bright and mulled over the magic of Jackie Parker.

"We've got to stop them before we can beat them," he mused.

In a nutshell, the wily 30-year-old veteran summed up the almost impossible task facing him and his Saskatchewan Roughriders teammates as they prepare for the second game of the Western Football Conference semifinal.

Riders couldn't contain Kwong, Bright and Parker Saturday at Taylor Field and Edmonton Eskimos romped to a 27-11 victory to carry a 16-point lead into the last game of the two-game total-points series, scheduled in Edmonton at 1 p.m. (PST) Tuesday.

FULL STEAM AHEAD

In the series opener, Kwong crashed through the Rider line 20 times for 152 yards and Bright picked up another 141 as Eskimos, under brilliant direction of quarterback George Terlep, who thought Kwong and Bright were picking the holes better than usual as Riders plugged the gap against the off-tackle shots.

Lyle said Parker called a perfect game Saturday. "That's the best game Parker's ever called, for me, anyway," said Lyle, who succeeded Frank Ivy as Eskimo head coach this year.

Standing in the midst of the noisy Edmonton dressing room, Lyle had nothing but praise for the Eskimos, both individually and as a team.

Parker, Kwong, Bright, halfback Ralph Pfeifer and end Joe Mohr were among those Lyle picked as outstanding in the Edmonton triumph.

But he said all the Eskimos were blocking well, opening holes for Bright and Kwong on offence and breaking through to Tripucka when the Saskatchewan club attempted to pass.

"We played better on defence than we have previously," he added. "We made Tripucka throw the ball before he was ready to throw it."

Terlep said halfback Mike Nelson, who aggravated a pre-Hagler, who missed the game with a knee injury, remains a doubtful starter for the Tuesday game in Edmonton, but otherwise the team seemed to come out of the contest fairly healthy.

"It's questionable that Hagler will play," said Terlep, "and we sure missed him today."

Eskimos' only notable injury was suffered by tackle Roger Nelson, who aggravated a pre-Hagler, who missed the game with a knee injury, remains a to be ready to go Tuesday.

Giants Paring Rivals to Size

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Giants are responsible for the scrambled title races in the National Football League.

All was simple—Baltimore Colts and Cleveland Browns were streaking uncontested toward division crowns—until the Giants changed the complexion of the championship picture.

The Giants scored their second consecutive victory over a previously undefeated team Sunday. This time the Colts felt the sting, as New York quarterback Charlie Conerly engineered a 24-21 upset. The previous week New York ended Cleveland's unbeaten string with a 21-17 triumph.

The Giants' victories earned them a tie for first place with Cleveland in the eastern conference. The Browns were beaten 30-10 by Detroit Lions. The leaders have 5-2 records.

The Colts' loss brought new hope in the western conference race to the second-place Chicago Bears, who defeated Green Bay Packers 21-10. Baltimore, now 6-1, holds a one game lead over the runner-up Bears, 5-2.

In other games before a total turnout of 342,734 fans, Los Angeles Rams took undisputed possession of third place in the western division with a 56-7 victory over San Francisco 49ers. Eddie Lebaron passed for five touchdowns as Washington Redskins outscored Chicago Cardinals 45-31 and Bobby Layne pitched four touchdown passes as Pittsburgh Steelers defeated Philadelphia Eagles 31-24.

Tee Tourney Site

NEW YORK (AP)—The U.S. Golf Association has selected the Merion Golf Club, Ardmore, Pa., as the site of the second world team championship of amateur golf in 1960. The four-day competition for the Eisenhower Trophy will be held Sept. 28 through Oct. 1.

TV HEADLINE

NEW YORK (AP)—Middleweights Rory Calhoun of White Plains, N.Y., and Ralph (Tiger) Jones of Yonkers, N.Y., have been signed for a 10-round television bout at Madison Square Garden, Friday, Nov. 21.

That Canadian Scottish cushion is still comfortable, thanks to Allan Metcalf.

The Scots' forward pushed home the only goal of the second half Sunday at Heywood Avenue Park to salvage a 2-2 sawoff with Esquimalt.

Goals by Dave Wakelyn and Alex Stewart enabled Esquimalt to edge into a 2-1 lead at half-time after Bill Ackinclose had marked up the Scots' first corner.

Esquimalt's split in points enabled Ladysmith to jump into a share for second with the Dockyards. The surprising Ladysmith squad picked up two points by trouncing Nanaimo 5-1 in an up-island battle.

BUTLERS BEATEN
In other Sunday games, Gorge Hotel joined Heaney's in a tie for fourth place by squeezing out a 2-1 verdict over the Movers, and Brodies stopped Butlers 4-1.

On Saturday, Victoria Kickers gained a semi-final berth in the Jackson Cup knockout competition by tagging a 6-3 defeat on Tillamook.

Inter-city activity moves into the spotlight Tuesday when the league's all-star squad meets Vancouver Pilseners in a Remembrance Day exhibition at Royal Athletic Park. Game time is 2 p.m.

Leroy Bond and Henry Vanderhorst both scored goals in each half to give Brodies their victory over Butlers, who averted a shutout when George Robbins came through with a second-half tally.

TWO FOR SAGE
At Nanaimo, two goals by Ron Sage and singles by Elmer Sam, Stu Batti and Lisle Scott gave Ladysmith its fifth victory.

George Johnson was Nanaimo's only marksman. At Topaz Avenue Park, veteran Ab Travis figured in both counters to give Gorge their close victory over Heaney's. Travis counted at the 10-minute mark of the second-half and then set up Chummy Crabb for another counter 10 minutes later. Gogi Stewart scored Heaney's goal.

Saturday's cup game at Royal Athletic Park broke open in the second half when teams blasted home six goals. Dick Nellistijn, with three, and Theo Koenig, with two, sparked Kickers. Hank deBrun also scored for the winners while Maurice Bunyan, George Wright and Ced Robb clicked for the Tillamooks.

WAS DON SHARPENING AIM FOR TITLE BOUT?

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Welterweight contender Don Jordan languished in jail Sunday while police tried to find out what caused the ruckus that landed him there.

Two women said Jordan ended an argument with them Saturday night by taking a bow from his auto and splintering two arrows against the side of their car.

The 24-year-old boxer and a companion were booked on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon.

Jordan, who fights out of Los Angeles, is scheduled to box Virgil Akins for the world welterweight title here Dec. 5.

MINOR SOCCER

Barnswell's Boot Defeats Nanaimo

A picture goal by Ricky Barnswell Sunday afternoon at Carnarvon Park gave Central Flyers of Victoria a 1-0 exhibition minor soccer victory over Nanaimo's division III representatives.

The game was one of two played Sunday in the Lower Island Junior and Juvenile Soccer Association.

In a Division I encounter, Larry Brown's two goals sparked Optimists to a 4-1 triumph over Eagles.

Lansdowne Eagles and Victoria-Tire of Division VI will play an exhibition game Tuesday as a preliminary to the senior game at Royal Athletic Park.

Weekend results:
DIVISION I — Larry Brown 2, Allan Glen, John Youson, Total 4.
Eagles—Gary Lawrence, Total 1.
DIVISION II (Exhibition) — Central Flyers — Ricky Barnswell, Total 1.
Nanaimo—No score.

SATURDAY
DIVISION III — Ken Piercey 3, Jim Place, Ashborn Waldell, Jim Clark, Al Fitzgerald, Larry McCann, Rose McBride, Total 12.
Nanaimo—No score.

Chris Ignites Cadet Explosion
Venture's Cadets breezed to their fourth straight Intercollegiate Soccer League victory Saturday, burying Naval Tech under a 10-0 count on HMCS Naden grounds.

Chris Vanderwell scored five goals, Northcott and Hacker two each and Wolder one.

Victoria College meets Naval Lab. Wednesday, starting at 4 p.m., in the next league game.

Police in Island Final

Oak Bay Police roared back for touchdowns after two great goal-line stands to whip Vampires 27-6 Sunday and capture the city juvenile football championship in a sudden-death final at Carnarvon Park.

Oak Bay now will journey to Campbell River next Sunday to launch a two-game, total-point series against the Raiders for the Island championship.

Halfback Jack Heath sparked Oak Bay's offence, scoring 15 points on two touchdowns and three converts. Wayne Farmer and Bruce McFarland also scored majors while halfback Fred Wright dashed over for Vampire's only six-pointer.

Oak Bay, who led 14-6 at the half, came up with two great defensive stands to stop Vampires. Standout in the Oak Bay line was tackle Bob Clarke.

'A' Reps Prepared For Mainland Side

Followers of Victoria Rugby Union play, treated to one interesting exhibition Saturday, get a second chance to size up the respective merits of inter-city competition this week.

Rugby Union officials who watched Victoria's "B" representatives drop a 19-3 decision to the University of British Columbia Thunderbirds Saturday are predicting "a much better showing" when the "A" team takes on the Vancouver Rugby Union's select Tuesday.

Tuesday's inter-city action will start at 2:30 p.m. at Macdonald Park.

Thunderbirds used their edge in size and conditioning to full advantage in defeating Victoria's "B" squad at Macdonald Park.

UBC, picking up a comparatively easy five points early in the game, led 8-3 at the half and then cut loose for 11 points after the interval.

No Fires Kindled By Grid Proposal

MONTREAL (CP)—Big Four and WIFU football club officials generally were cool today to a proposal to make four American teams part of the Canadian football scene.

The first definite step Saturday was reported to have been taken toward formation of an international professional football league involving the Big Four and a four-team circuit in the Eastern United States.

Alan Dekdebrun, the former quarterback for all of the Big Four teams and for Cornell University, disclosed the proposal. The proposed circuit south of the border—the American League—is to comprise teams from Buffalo, Boston, Rochester and Long Island, N.Y.

Ted Workman, president of the Big Four and of the Montreal Alouettes, confirmed that preliminary meetings have been held by the American group but the Big Four has not yet discussed the matter at the league level.

PLAN PREMATURE
Big Four club officials in Toronto, Ottawa and Hamilton turned a cool shoulder toward the proposal.

"If we took in the cities mentioned, we would be getting away from a strictly Canadian league," said Lew Hayman, general manager of Toronto Argonauts.

"One of the big advantages our Canadian league has is intense intercity rivalry between the regular season and the even more intense sectional rivalry between east and west which builds up in the Grey Cup."

PLAN PREMATURE
Coach Frank Clair of the Ottawa Rough Riders described Dekdebrun's proposal as premature.

"The situation is too complex for the present time," Jake Gaudaur, president of Hamilton Tiger-Cats, said he thought the whole idea is something for the future.

Football Commissioner Sydney Halter knew nothing of the plan.

"I doubt the veracity of the report," said Halter, commissioner for both the Western Interprovincial Football Union and the Big Four.

Scrap Pile Fate Awaits Sceptre

LONDON (UPI)—The fate of the Sceptre, Britain's thoroughly-beaten challenger in this year's America's Cup yacht races, will be decided this week at a meeting of the Royal Yacht Squadron.

One London newspaper reported that the $196,000 yacht will be scrapped as "a total loss."

"It would not be practical to modify her hull," Peter Nicholson, head of the firm that built Sceptre, told the Sunday Dispatch. "If no one wants Sceptre, as she is, the logical thing would be to pull her to pieces and use the lead and spars... to build a new challenger."

LET US SHOW YOU HOW MODERN COMMUNICATIONS CAN MAKE MONEY FOR YOUR BUSINESS

Whether it's a message across the office or across the country, successful business transactions depend on the speed with which instructions are received and implemented. Don't handicap your office and sales staff with obsolete communications. We supply a wide variety of equipment, suitable for any size business—a partial selection is shown below. One of our representatives would be glad to show you how modern communications can help you build an even more profitable business. Just call our Business Office.

ELECTRONIC SECRETARY
Answers your phone with a recorded message; asks the caller to leave his message, then records reply. This small, compact unit is ideal for most offices; enables them to offer 24-hour service.

SECRETARIAL ANSWERING UNITS
To speed calls and avoid calls going astray, you'll find these extremely useful. When required, one person can answer up to ten designated phones in a single department of your business.

TELETYPE
Provides instant and accurate inter-city typewritten communication between branch offices. Large or small firms find Teletype indispensable for production control, shipping control, sales reports, etc.

KEY PHONES
Can be used to make and receive calls over more than one line. A call on one line can be held while another is answered.

PBX
Private Branch Exchange. Available in capacities from 10 local lines and three trunks to custom equipment providing hundreds of local and many trunks. Eliminates walking from office to office; essential for smooth control of incoming and outgoing calls.

I.D.P.
Integrated Data Processing. IDP is automation of paper work—an advanced system combining the speed and efficiency of Teletype, leased lines and modern business machines. The time your clerical staff saves can more than pay for the cost of the system.

LOUD-SPEAKING TELEPHONE
Enables user to move about the room or take notes, and talk on the phone at the same time. Operates by miniature microphone and small loud-speaker. Perfect for local or long distance conference calls. Converts instantly to conventional telephone.

CALL COLLECT AND ZENITH SERVICES
Subscribing to these Long Distance services is like establishing branch offices at low cost. They enable out-of-town customers to call you by Long Distance, to order or get information, at no cost to them. Both are proven ways to build sales and goodwill.

Stupidity Cause Of Most Mishaps

Lack of common sense on the part of people old enough to know better, and not crazy kids in high-powered runabouts, has been found to be the chief cause of boating accidents.

A survey made by the Canadian Boating Federation uncovered this rather unpalatable fact. It also found that the average age of operators involved in boating mishaps in Canada was more than 35 years.

Of the 35.51 per cent of accidents attributed to lack of common sense, 3.27 per cent were due to overloading, 4.79 to standing in the boat, 8.7 to an unbalanced load, 8.7 per cent to reckless operation, 13.51 per cent due to falling overboard and drowning, 1.52 to falling from and being run over by boat, 5.67 per cent due to being thrown from the boat and 5.01 per cent caused by too sharp a turn.

ANALYSIS

The CBF's survey was based on an analysis of newspaper reports of boating accidents during a six-month period. Boats found overturned with no indication of how the accident happened or too general ized newspaper accounts of accidents were placed in a "captioned and overturned" category and accounted for 30.72 per cent of the accidents.

Storms caused 9.5 per cent of the mishaps and collisions rated 8.07 per cent. Only 1.52 per cent of the boating mishaps were traceable to fires and explosions.

Fishermen were involved in proportionately more fatal accidents than boatmen engaged in other forms of boating activity, the report disclosed. Since fishing as an activity does not require high speed operation, the speed factor must be discontinued as a major contributor to fatal accidents, according to the CBF.

The CBF feels that increased education of boat owners is the answer to the accident problem, since the number of fatalities directly traceable to small boat accidents has been decreasing steadily while boat ownership and education programs are increasing.

Omsk Is No Oasis Bonner Tells Douks

No action has yet been taken on any of the 2,400 applications from Sons of Freedom Doukhobors for assistance to migrate to Russia, Attorney General Robert Bonner said today.

"They have not yet been accepted or rejected," he said. Mr. Bonner said he will be in touch with Justice Minister Fulton in Ottawa this week to discuss policy regarding the applications.

The forms, bound up in packages, were taken into the Vancouver Citizenship and Immigration Office late Friday and handed to Dr. W. G. Black, director.

The Sons of Freedom have been offered federal and provincial aid to move to Siberia. A total of 45 applications were received up to the original September 30 deadline set by the provincial and federal governments.

The deadline was later extended to October 20.

BIG QUESTION

Mr. Bonner said whether Russia will accept one Doukhobor or 2,400 Doukhobors is still the $64,000 question.

"No official agreement has been received."

Earlier, Mr. Bonner said the Freedomites might do well to wait until spring before going to Russia since he had heard reports they were talking of going to Omsk, in Asiatic Siberia.

"The average mean temperature there is 5 degrees above zero. By waiting until spring they would avoid the difficulties of winter travel," he said.

FIRE FOLLOWS AMMUNITION TRAIN BLAST

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—A string of freight cars loaded with high explosives burned and exploded in a roaring fire at the Norris yards of the Southern Railway Sunday.

Shells and fragments from the exploding army hand grenades and shells rained down on an area of several hundred yards, driving away railroad workers and fire-fighters. About six cars were involved.

Charles Clem, 25, a volunteer fireman, suffered a skull fracture when he was struck by a flying fragment.

Scientists have counted more than 50 species of kangaroos, ranging from seven feet tall down to animals a foot high.

Six Events Tuesday For Hunter Trials

Fifth annual hunter trials will be held Remembrance Day at Victoria Riding Club, Cedar Hill Cross Road, starting at 1.30 p.m.

The public will be able to watch junior and senior riders and their mounts from their cars. Refreshments will be available.

The six events are expected to last about 1½ hours.

One of the most interesting displays will be an event which consists of 30 riders choosing numbers, and taking mounts over the jumps represented by the numbers drawn. The higher the number, the more difficult the jump.

Trial entries will be received up to the last minute.

Angry Parents Chase Teachers

TOKYO (Reuters)—Thousands of angry parents throughout Japan are trying to smash a teachers' strike—with some unprecedented strike-breaking tactics.

In the last few days, parents have raided teachers' homes and thrown their belongings on the street, chased picket lines from public school premises and even sought expulsion of the strikers from town.

In one unique incident, a group of parents broke a teachers' hunger strike by cooking a tasty meal in the open air. The famished teachers were invited to share the food only after they agreed to return to the classrooms.

The teachers began striking several months ago to protest against the Conservative government's new efficiency rating system. Under the system, annual reports are made on each teacher's efficiency and conduct.

The leftist Japanese Teachers' Union, with a claimed membership of 400,000 denounced the new system as a camouflage for weeding out Communists. It ordered a major strike, threw pickets around every school and began street demonstrations.

Although the parents have taken the law into their own hands, there is no national parents' movement. Each community is waging its own warfare, often with the backing of municipal authorities.

Until recent times, the Japanese teacher, known as Sensei, held an honored position in the community. Parents looked to him for advice on their children's upbringing and career.

Now many parents are afraid to trust their children with a teacher who may harbor Communist ideas.

24 DAYS AFTER TWINS WOMAN HAS THIRD BABY

EDMONTON (CP)—A medical rarity occurred here Saturday when Mrs. Ray Croteau, 28, Dawson Creek, B.C., and Edmonton, gave birth to her third child within 24 days.

Mrs. Croteau gave birth to twins Oct. 15 and a third infant Saturday. The twins, a boy and a girl, weighed two pounds seven ounces at birth. The third, also a boy, was three pounds 12 ounces.

Mother and all three children are doing well, hospital officials said.

A spokesman said a double womb was the reason for the pregnancy within a pregnancy.

The twins, now weighing three pounds two ounces, were born two months before full term, while the third was one month early, the spokesman added.

Arsonist Hits 5 Times

TORONTO (CP)—Police said they are sure that five fires which caused extensive property damage and threatened scores of lives in the city's east-central district early Saturday were set deliberately. They suspect the arsonist may be an elderly man who apparently planned times of the fires so that the nearest fire hall would be empty when the main blaze broke out.

A city fireman, ordered back to his fire hall when overcome by smoke while fighting a factory fire, found flames sweeping a row of houses next to the fire hall. More than 125 persons, mostly children and elderly pensioners, were awakened by firemen heaving garbage can lids, rubbish and stones at their windows and escaped in-jury when they swarmed out of the buildings.

Idle Shipyards Increase Roster Of Unemployed

Unemployed total continued to increase last week, blamed again mainly on shipyard layoffs.

Number of male job applicants is 2,318, compared with 2,454 a week ago; women, 1,450, compared with 1,428 last week. The combined total of 3,998 is above the number of persons registered in the local office of the National Employment Service at this time last year.

$250,000 Long Term Plan For 16 Parks in Saanich

A $250,000 long-term park development program has been recommended by the municipal engineering department to the Saanich parks committee.

The program calls for expansion and improvements to 16 existing parks.

It was prepared by Saanich engineer Neville Life, and his staff, working with parks supervisor Bert Richman.

The program will be considered at the next meeting of the parks committee and then submitted to council.

"The program represents what we have to do to get all our parks into shape," he said. "The work can be carried out over a period of years if a system of financing park development is approved by council."

Mr. Nelles noted that Saanich spends about $25,000 a year on parks. He doesn't consider this enough in view of the rapid expansion in the municipality. Some parks in urban areas are badly in need of improvements, he said.

Full details and estimates of the program are as follows:

Allenby Park: tennis courts $4,000; parks building, $3,000; permanent fencing, $2,000; watering system, $500; drainage, $900; bleachers and dugouts, $500; parking, $1,500; blacktop area, $4,000; play equipment, $600; pool, $2,000; landscaping, $1,000—total $20,000.

INDEPENDENTS JOIN FORCES

Independent logging operators from the Squamish Valley will appear before a royal commission in Victoria Court-house Wednesday to argue against issuance of a tree farm licence in the Squamish area to Empire Mills Ltd. of Vancouver.

The small loggers have formed their own association, the Independent Logging and Sawmill Operators, headed by N. H. Marks, president, and F. J. Brennan, secretary.

Other small operators connected with the independents are also expected to file opposing arguments.

SPY PROBE UNDER WAY

Death Thought Suicide

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police said Sunday they believe the shooting death of former DEW line employee Merrell O'Donnel last week was suicide.

The coroner's jury which investigated the 27-year-old man's death has returned a verdict ruling out suicide.

A box of Communist literature and color photographs of secret DEW line radar sites were found in the dead man's downtown hotel room.

There was also a letter from O'Donnel's mother, saying she was holidaying in Russia at the expense of the USSR.

RCMP have been called in and a far-reaching spy investigation was understood to be under way in connection with the man's death.

The gun found beside the body—the weapon which killed him—had been stolen. O'Donnel already had a gun, which police found in his suitcase.

He had passports ready for a trip abroad, the $300 cash and a $500 credit with a credit union.

Britons 'Split'-Crazy

LONDON (Reuters) — A "Bridie Murphy" craze is beginning to sweep Britain, the tabloid London Daily Sketch says.

Red Chinese Seize Japanese Fish Boat

FUKUOKA, Japan (AP) — A Communist Chinese patrol boat captured a 78-ton Japanese fishing vessel off the Shantung Peninsula today. The ship's owners said the Akita Maru No. 16 radioed from the Yellow Sea that it had been seized by the Reds. There was no immediate report on how many were aboard.

Tin Miners Don't Get Pimples

Because Cornish tin miners appeared to avoid skin blemishes, British chemists suggested the use of tin in treating Boils, Acne, Pimples. Now convenient, tasteless tablets containing 42.5% metallic tin are available under the brand name "Tinoxid". Rapid, satisfactory results are claimed for this inexpensive treatment. Tinoxid Tablets are sold without prescription at all drug stores, $1.00.

The Sketch, which estimated there are 4,000 hypnotists in Britain capable of indulging the craze, warns that unless it is "stopped now . . . sickness and possibly death" will follow in its trail. The "game," in which subjects, under hypnosis reveals exciting lives in "previous incarnations," could spawn a dangerous number of split personalities, a psychiatrist queried by the Sketch claims. The writer of the article described a recent London "Bridie Murphy" party he attended at which:

1. A matronly mother described her existing life as the beautiful mistress of a pre-revolutionary French aristocrat;
 2. A young wife graphically described her experiences as a southern belle at the mercy of Yankee troops during the American Civil War;
 3. A middle-aged man spoke of his experiences as a Roman centurion.
- The craze got its name from a best-seller about an American woman who told under hypnosis of a previous life as "Bridie Murphy."

MILLION POPPY PETALS FLOAT AS QUEEN ATTENDS CEREMONY

LONDON (Reuters) — Queen Elizabeth watched Saturday as 1,000,000 poppy petals floated from the roof of a Legion hall in a unique Festival of Remembrance. Each of the petals represented servicemen killed in two world wars and subsequent campaigns. With the Queen was her husband, the Queen Mother and Princess Margaret. Prime Minister Macmillan, government members and representatives of the Commonwealth were on hand with some 7,000 other spectators.

'... But It's Nice They Haven't Forgotten Us'

By DAVID COWLISHAW

It was late at night and the military hospital in Aldershot, England, was hushed.

Suddenly, without fanfare, the street outside erupted to the crunch of wheels, and frenzied shouts tore the silence apart. Inside the hospital a soldier clambered from his bed and looked out the window.

A wagon loaded with crates of beer was rolling along the street, pulled by a yelling crowd of people with beer bottles to their lips. Two army officers stood on top throwing bottles to the clamoring mob. There were raucous song and drunkenness.

"The armistice is signed! The armistice is signed!" they shrieked, and passed into the night. And at the hospital window CQMS Francis Inglesant Lee, 50th Battalion, Calgary Regiment, smiled and went back to sleep.

It was Nov. 11, 1918.

MONTE ROBERTS

OUR VERY OWN ISLAND DIGEST

(Written by hand by Our Very Own Correspondents)

WALLOPEM BEACH, V.I. — The citizens of this famous resort town are very indignant at vile rumors which are being circulated by the citizens of that infamous resort town, Luncheonville.

In fact, the citizens of this famous resort town are so indignant, boiling mad, and in a pet, that they might even get around to doing something about it, such as suing for libel or burning the mayor of Luncheonville in effigy.

What the citizens of Luncheonville have been doing is circulating rumors that Wallopem Beach has already taken in the sidewalks for the winter.

This is not true. In fact, Wallopem Beach is not going to take in the sidewalks at all.

To put it bluntly, Wallopem Beach is going to fail to take in the sidewalks ever, and so there.

It is a simple matter to prove this. Just look at the record.

Three years ago, the city fathers presented a money bylaw referendum calling for an expenditure of cash money to build sidewalks.

However, when the time came for the vote, it was the off-season, like, so nobody got around to voting. And there was no cash money around either, too.

So therefore no sidewalks were built three years ago.

Since then, Wallopem Beach has failed to build sidewalks during the two succeeding years.

Thus there are no sidewalks to take in, so how can those nasty Luncheonville peasants go around saying Wallopem Beach is taking in the sidewalks for the winter?

It is only fair to warn Luncheonville that Wallopem Beach may well do something about it.

LUNCHONVILLE, V.I. — Rumors circulating in Wallopem Beach to the effect that rumors are circulating in Luncheonville to the effect that Wallopem Beach has already taken in the sidewalks for the winter are nothing but rumors circulating in Wallopem Beach as no such rumors are circulating in Luncheonville, any rumors to the contrary notwithstanding.

Nothing ever gets taken in in Wallopem Beach except tourists, who are taken in by Wallopem Beach's misleading claims to being a famous tourist resort.

As for the threats by Wallopem Beach citizens to do something about it, how can they?

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Movie of nature subjects will be shown Tuesday by city business man and athletic instructor Jack Todd at a meeting of the Victoria Natural History Society at 8 p.m. in the Provincial Museum.

Theft of two sweaters valued at $18.90 brought a three-month jail term in city police court today for John Pethick, no fixed address.

Pethick was charged with theft under $50 value from Spencer's Store, 1420 Douglas, to which he pleaded guilty.

What makes a good picture good? What makes a bad picture bad? These questions have stumped many a person faced with a gallery of paintings. They will be answered at 8:30 tonight at the Victoria Art Gallery by George Swinton, art historian at the University of Manitoba. He will use colored slides to illustrate his lecture, "Gold and Tinsel."

Brian Patrick Phillips, 19, of Courtenay, drove over a bank at the weekend and pleaded guilty in city police court today to charges of careless driving and being a minor in possession of liquor. Magistrate H. C. Hall fined him $35 on the first charge, $15 on the second, and suspended the youth's driver's licence.

Police said a car driven by Phillips went off a driveway at a Gorge road auto court, down a bank and stopped astride a sidewalk.

Motorist Clifton Sprague, Victoria, went to jail for three months today on his third conviction for impaired driving. He pleaded guilty to the charge and agreed with previous convictions read in court for charges in October, 1953, and August, 1958.

The new offstreet parking plan will be discussed by city public works committee Wednesday. The committee already has recommended that council take steps to prepare the way for establishment of pedestrian malls and a four-tier parking garage on View Street.

A 60-year-old woman driver is in good condition at Jubilee Hospital today recovering from rib and leg fractures received in a crash at Oaklands and Doncaster Sunday afternoon.

Police identified the victim as Catherine E. Williams, 3231 Wetherby, who was driving a car in collision with one driven by Harold Crouch, 2223 Shakespeare.

Grade eight Royal Oak Junior High School students will launch a bottle collection drive tonight for the purpose of raising funds for families who suffered losses in the Springhill, N.S., mine disaster. They will collect both pop and beer bottles.

People wishing to donate bottles are asked to contact David Tribe, 4511 Pachena Place.

Mrs. Mary Rowan, suite 63 Surrey Block at Yates and Broad, awoke at 3:40 a.m. today to find a prowler in the apartment.

She told police a man ran up a flight of stairs, broke open a door and went down a fire escape. The man was tall and wore a tan topcoat or rain coat, she said.

Five dollars worth of pennies, five cartons of cigarettes and five cartons of chocolate bars were taken by a burglar who broke into the Handy Grocery, Hillside and Rose, by forcing a rear window Saturday night.

In another burglary reported to city police, two small rugs were stolen from 517 Government since Saturday night. Mrs. D. Elark, 719 Gorge West, said Sunday.

Annual meeting of the Vancouver Island Municipal Officers' Association Friday elected Gordon Hayward, Saanich municipal clerk, to the executive board. New president elected was Gordon Berry, Duncan city clerk.

Are Schools Doing Good Job? Teachers' Panel Seeks Answer

The challenge of science and the value of today's educational system will be explored this week when 730 Greater Victoria teachers hold their annual convention.

Dr. G. M. Shrum, physics department head and dean of graduate studies at the University of B.C. will discuss "Science—A Promise and a Challenge" Thursday at 8 p.m. in Victoria High School auditorium.

The meeting, marking the start of the two-day teachers' convention, will be open to the public.

Today, in Veterans' Hospital, Quartermaster Lee, now 82, tweaked his grey moustache and pinned a huge poppy to his suit lapel.

"And after the signing I couldn't get out of the army fast enough," he said. "Next time I'll take the navy. At least I wouldn't have to run over muddy ground in full equipment in the middle of the night."

Mr. Lee did his part with the battalion in France Sept. 2, 1918. They were trying to take the town of Monchy-le-Preux from the Germans. They advanced.

All went well until Quartermaster Lee, rifle at the ready, stumbled and went down, down, down into a pit. At the bottom—water.

"I was carrying 500 rounds of rifle ammunition, two panniers of machine-gun ammunition and four hand grenades," Mr. Lee recalled, "and I had to get out of that hole fast. But when I got up I found two of the grenades had come unclipped. I thought I would be plastered over the face of France four seconds later."

But by some eerie quirk of fate, the firing pins did not work loose, and Quartermaster Lee lived to fight again. He dragged himself up the side of the pit and promptly stopped a bullet in his upper left arm.

The war, for him, was over.

"But before I got out of there we lost a lot of men," the old soldier continued. "There were screams, groans and blood-galore. It was a ruddy good fight."

YOUTH APPRECIATION WEEK was launched today by Victoria Optimist Clubs. Supported by city and municipal authorities the week recognizes the fine qualities in Victoria's youth. Holding the official proclama-

MART KENNEY CONCERT HERE FRIDAY NIGHT

Mart Kenney and his Western Gentlemen, internationally known dance band, arrived on Vancouver Island today to play five engagements this week, including a dance-concert Friday starting at 9 p.m. in Central Junior High School.

He will wind up a two and one-half-month tour of B.C. in Vancouver Saturday, during which time he and his band will have visited 60 communities, sponsored by the B.C. Centennial Committee.

He plays in Lake Cowichan tonight; in Ladysmith Tuesday, in Sidney Wednesday and at Sooke on Thursday.

Centennial committee chairman L. J. Wallace said the band tour had drawn "wonderful appreciation" from each area visited, and added that he was convinced that Kenney, a native son, conducted the long tour as "a service" during centennial year more than for any other reason.

Grid Semifinal On Television

Sudden-death semi-final play-off between Montreal Alouettes and Ottawa Rough Riders will be carried live by Channels 2 and 6 Wednesday from 9:55 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Winner of the game meets Hamilton Tiger-Cats in a two-game total-point series for the Eastern Canadian championship and a berth in the Grey Cup.

WEDNESDAY MEETINGS

Real Estate Board of Victoria: 12 noon, Empress Hotel. Registrar Victor Di Castri speaks on "The Real Estate Agent and Title to Land."

Kiwans: Noon, Dominion Hotel. Round table luncheon. Royal Astronomical Society of Canada, Victoria Centre: 8 p.m. Victoria College Auditorium.

Police Arrest Man After Cellar Vigil

Saanich police who arrested a Winnipeg man for attempting fraud in a $1,590 peanut vending machine deal said today they sat in a Saanich basement listening to the salesman's talk to the complainant.

Reginald Simpson Everett, 29, alias Herbert Edwards and R. Simpson, was expected to be further charged in Saanich police court later today on similar charges.

Everett was charged last Thursday with attempting to defraud Gordon Cumming, 555 Whiteside, and remanded for plea to Nov. 13.

The accused also was charged in Victoria RCMP court Saturday on behalf of Vancouver police, who allege Everett, using the name R. Simpson, attempted to defraud William Hyslop, Vancouver, of $3,749.40 in a similar deal.

MORE CHARGES The detective said Everett involving a $3,480 hot chocolate vending machine deal is pending. Saanich police said, and there may be other charges in Greater Victoria and Vancouver Island points.

Everett's bail was set at $2,500 in Saanich court and at $7,000 in RCMP court. Saanich Det. Robin Stewart, who is investigating the case with Cons. George Walton, said Everett has been working on Vancouver Island for two months.

He said Everett represents a legitimate Winnipeg firm and advertised in newspapers for contacts.

The detective said Everett claimed to prospective agents for his machines that they each would have exclusive rights to operate their machines in certain areas.

For the peanut machines a full contract on terms amounted to $2,120, or $1,590 cash, Det. Stewart said.

Before arresting Everett in connection with the first charge, the Saanich officers concealed themselves in Cumming's basement where they could hear Everett's conversation without his knowledge.

Navy Ends Sub Search; 'No Evidence'

The RCN Pacific Command has ended its submarine search which started Friday.

"We have found no evidence of a submarine, and it is extremely doubtful that a submarine was around," a navy spokesman said.

The frigate HMCS New Waterford went out at 7:20 p.m. Friday and searched the suspected area, and was relieved Saturday by the frigate HMCS Jönköping which came in Sunday night.

The navy declined to reveal the source of the submarine report or the area in which the search was conducted.

Seaman Shouted At Prayer Meet; Awaits Sentence

A naval seaman who shouted at a street corner religious gathering Sunday night pleaded guilty in city police court today to causing a disturbance.

Norman Dandenault, 20, was remanded to Wednesday for sentence by Magistrate H. C. Hall.

Court was told Dandenault stood on Yates, cupped his hands to his mouth and shouted across the street where a church service was being conducted.

"Why were you trying to break up this meeting?" the court asked.

"I have no reason for that. Your Honor," Dandenault replied.

Yes, a ruddy good fight, and one which Mr. Lee often thinks about as he strolls around the hospital. A slight man, he has a back you could test a spirit-level on.

It's the rest of his battalion he remembers most. His comrades, the men he fought side by side with so long ago. A lot never came back. Some did and now, like him, they read mysteries "and all the books I can get hold of" and watch the countries of the world trying to outlast wars and the misery that follows them.

Mr. Lee believes he was one of the luckier ones. Two medals jingling on his chest, he came to Victoria when he left hospital and became a commercial traveller. He married, too. Mrs. Lee lives at 130 Croft Street. There are two daughters.

"Life is pretty tame now," Mr. Lee said, rather sadly. "I used to like cricket and go rowing quite a bit—heck, I'd still like to but I can't do much with this," and he held up his left arm.

It's a good arm. It works and although he cannot lift it over his head, he can hold a cup of tea with it. But more, it's an arm that reminds him of the foolishness of men.

"Wars are no good," Mr. Lee commented, adjusting his military tie. "But it's nice that they still have poppy days and that people haven't forgotten us. We old-timers like that."

And with that, the 50th Battalion's old quartermaster-sergeant turned and, in step with the ghosts of those who didn't make it to the end, walked slowly away.

It's 40 years ago now but the horror of the first world war still lives in the memory of old soldiers like former Quartermaster Frances Inglesant Lee, now 82, a patient in Veterans' Hospital.

VICTORIA REMEMBERS

On Tuesday, Greater Victoria will remember.

Tribute will be paid in churches, in chapels, in homes, and at war memorials for the men and women whose lives were lost fighting Canada's battles.

For many, the two-minute's silence before 11 a.m. will be the most solemn moment of the year—remembrance and heartfelt prayers.

Main observance will be at the Cenotaph fronting the legislative buildings, starting a few minutes before 11.

In Saanich, a 2 p.m. service will be held at Memorial Gore Park on Shelbourne; at Oak Bay, a 3 p.m. service will be held at the memorial in Uplands Park, while an 11 a.m. service will be held in Esquimalt's Memorial Park.

BURGLAR QUIT, BUT NOT IN TIME

A burglar who said he was caught just as he had given up trying to break into a downtown building pleaded guilty to breaking and entering when he appeared in city police court today.

Donald Roy Read, no fixed address, was stopped in a dark doorway off an alley at the rear of Willis Mahood Pharmacy, 627 Yates, at 12:35 a.m. Friday.

"I was trying to break in," a constable quoted him as saying.

Read was remanded to Friday for probation report and sentence.

In court Read told Magistrate H. C. Hall: "I was on my way out. I had given up the attempt. I'd had a few drinks."

Court was shown a screw driver taken from Read and part of a door panel which had been pried off the building.

Saanich Old-Timer Dies at 88

A lifelong resident of Victoria, Wilfred Stephen Butler, died Sunday in Mount St. Mary nursing home, aged 88.

Prayers will be offered in Hayward's chapel Wednesday at 8 p.m. and requiem mass will be held Thursday at 10 a.m. in the Church of the Assumption, West Saanich Road. Burial will be in the church cemetery.

Born on Mount Newton Cross Road in Saanich, Mr. Butler had lived on Keating Cross Road in recent years. He had farmed in Saanich most of his life.

SEVEN SONS He was an honorary member of the Saanich Pioneers Society.

Survivors include seven sons: Wilfred, Clarence and Adrian, all of Saanich; Vincent and Alex of Victoria.

Humphrey of Mesachie Lake, and Maurice, Haney, B.C.; three daughters: Mrs. J. F. Crossley, Victoria; Mrs. J. McCallum, Mill Bay, and Mrs. D. Joyce, Saanich; also two sisters, Mrs. May Ludlow and Mrs. Gladys Gabb, both of Saanich.

He is also survived by 24 grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

$1,330 Loss For Arena In September

Memorial Arena took a $1,330 loss during September operations, a four-month financial statement by the arena commission revealed today.

Last year it made a profit of $662 for the month. Chief drops occurred in lacrosse, student dances and concession revenues.

June-September operations showed an overall profit of $192 compared with $3,630 last year.

All Parties Rush By-Election Plans

The B.C. cabinet today fixed Dec. 8 as nomination day for the Rossland-Trail byelection to elect a member to the seat in the legislature vacated by former lands and forests minister Robert Sommers.

The by-election takes place seven days later on Dec. 15. Nominations will be received at the courthouse at Rossland.

Premier Bennett had still not returned to his office from vacation this morning, but signs of election fever were evident around the Legislative Buildings.

Electoral officer Fred Hurley and his staff were gearing their machinery for the taking of the vote.

GETTING SET

All four political parties are oiling their campaign machinery and will choose their candidates within the next seven days.

The Conservatives and Liberals each will choose their standard bearers at Rossland Saturday.

The CCF will name its candidate on Friday and the Social Credit party will choose its candidate the following Monday.

Memorial Service

A Remembrance Day service will be held by the Victoria British-Israel Association Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Newstead Hall, 734 Fort Street.

City Clerk Refuses Apology to Jaycees

City Clerk Frank Hunter today said he would not make an apology demanded by Junior Chamber of Commerce Ray Rawnsley.

Mr. Rawnsley made the demand in a letter to city council claiming "an unwarranted attack by Mr. Hunter" on the Jaycees' annual spring fair because it is held shortly before the May 24 celebrations.

He denied that the Jaycees "stole" the carnival, May Queen and car raffle events from the Greater Victoria Celebrations Committee. He also said that a $250 grant by the Jaycees to the celebrations committee, which Mr. Hunter had termed "picaresque," was generous in comparison to some municipal grants.

ANSWERED QUESTIONS Mr. Hunter, past president of the celebrations committee, replied that he had not made any charges against the Jaycees but had merely answered queries of the city finance committee.

"I told them what our experience had been when the Jaycees began running the carnival, May Queen and car raffle events immediately before ours were held," he said. "I gave the facts and I will not make any apology."

GET TOGETHER Acting Mayor Arthur Dowell said he hoped that the clash over dates of events "would not develop into a feud

Underwater Cable Break Cuts Phones

Gulf Island telephone communications with Vancouver Island and the mainland was cut, and communications between Victoria and Vancouver reduced 50 per cent, because of malfunction of the submarine cable over the weekend.

Telephone officials said today they believe water leaking into the cable casing caused the break. The trouble started Saturday.

The difficulty is believed to be in an eight-mile stretch of cable between Beaver Point on Salt Spring Island and Swartz Bay near Sidney.

CABLESHIP OUT So far, all calls between Victoria and Vancouver have been adequately handled on the circuit, reduced from 70 to 30 lines.

The cable ship Brico left Vancouver at midnight Sunday and is now in the area searching for the break.

between the celebrations committee and the Jaycees. I'd like to see them get together and solve this problem."

He said council would be open to severe criticism if it took away concessions the Jaycees have had for several years.

However, he noted that the celebrations committee was faced with difficulty in raising revenues because of the date conflict.

"Possibly the problem would be smaller if the other municipalities took a greater part in the celebrations committee," he said.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. Is it not the case that a salaried staff is maintained at Community Chest headquarters? Is the financial statement of the Chest's operation published in the press? G.K.

A. The salaried staff consists of the executive secretary, the accountant, and a stenographer, with another clerk brought in for the Chest campaign. However, the staff is not just there for the money drive, but administers the fund, the year round. The financial statement was not published in the press last year, but there were several notices that if any member of the public wanted an audited statement of Chest activities, they had only to ask. It's Time to Bake Those Festive Christmas Cakes!

By PENNY SAVER

I've been shopping for the makings you'll be using in your Christmas fruit cakes! Now's the time you know, to bake the traditional festive cakes and here are the materials you'll need: Cut mixed peels... to add a colorful and tasty touch are priced at 45 cents a box; glace cherries are a "must" in any Christmas cake at 39 cents per package; ginger... well you can really give a spicy tang to dark or light cake with this at 32 cents a pack.

You can't boast a true fruit cake without adding walnuts now can you? The tasty nuts are 24 cents a box. Cut mixed fruit is another necessity for the cake. It is price tagged at 24 cents. Raisins... and believe me, no fruit cake is a true one without them, cost 29 cents a large box.

Do that holiday baking now, before the big rush starts... you'll be glad later on.

Career gals will go along with me, I know, when I say how nice it is on returning to a cold room, apartment or home around six in the evening, to jump into a pair of warm slacks!

A pair or two of the wool or corduroy slacks I saw the other day would be just the thing for lounging around on cold winter evenings. They start in price at $3.88.

Come those cold winter nights you'll be glad you're wearing this warm, flannel-ette nightgown! It's as dainty as can be, fashioned with lace trimmed neckline, cuffs and hem. The cost for it is only $2.95.

Don't wait to phone me... do it now, while you're thinking about it! My number is EV 2-3131.

I've heard that jealousy is a sign that your husband loves you, but I would almost rather he didn't love me so much. He was late in getting home from work the night we were going to a Masonic dance so I was already dressed. I was wearing a dress that needs to be hooked up the back. He had always hooked it for me. He asked, "Who hooked it for you?" I told him, "Nobody. I hooked it myself with much difficulty." He unhooked the dress and made me prove to him I could hook it myself. I perspired all the make-up off my face and almost dislocated my shoulder. How do you handle a man like that?

STUMPED.

DEAR STUMPED: Don't let him "hook you" for any more demonstrations. A faithful wife shouldn't have to break her arm in order to prove her fidelity.

DEAR ABBY: How did the "trick-or-treat" racket ever get started? I have grown to dread Halloween. One does not dare to go any place, but must stay home and protect his property unless he wants to spend the next few days washing soap off screens and windows and cleaning up garbage that has been dumped on his lawn and porch. I have not much extra money but I am forced to buy a large supply of candy bars and taffy apples to give to overgrown hoodlums who ring my doorbell and demand a hand-out in payment for not damaging my property. Where are the police? IRATE CITIZEN.

DEAR IRATE: I see no harm in handing out penny candy to little tykes under 12 who ring my bell to show off their masks and costumes. But "overgrown hoodlums" who demand hand-outs as "protection" against damaging property should be tossed in the cooler. The police departments work hard maintaining law and order on that night, and they have welcome help from volunteer groups, too.

DEAR ABBY: I am a hairdresser by profession and I get enough hairdressing six days a week, eight hours a day. Every Sunday we go to visit my husband's people. They all line up for free hair-

On Etiquette
Penance for Neglectful Bride

Although I was married last May, I am embarrassed and chagrined that I have neglected to write thank you notes for wedding gifts. I am getting ready to send out Christmas cards and wonder if it would be in order to include gift thank-yous on the cards or on separate enclosures, or what. If so, would it be permissible to alibi or apologize for the delay?

Louise Davis Answers:

Your very first obligation is to get the thank yous done. You really have no excuse for something you should have done and could have done last May or early June, so it would be poor taste to alibi or beg out. While you are doing it, remember that humility is a virtue. You are learning a lesson the hard way and, even at that, it would be a mild penance. I have a suggestion that might help to offset your error. Instead of sending Christmas cards, get folded note paper, even with a red or "Christmas" border. Say your thank yous as you would have written them months ago.

Your last paragraph can be your Christmas and New Year message. This will be time-consuming, as you would have to use diplomacy and tact without excuses. You should drop everything else until you have fulfilled that important obligation. I hope that your bitter lesson will be so indelible that you will be inspired to teach your own children the meaning of thank you and the necessity of saying it or writing it without delay.

DEAR ABBY: I am a boy that rides the bus to school. Every time I get on the bus, the next door neighbor girl saves me a seat beside her. How can I tell her I don't want to sit with her without hurting her feelings?

DEAR BUS: You can't tell her you don't want to sit with her without hurting her feelings. If she annoys you too much to make polite small talk—open one of your books and "study."

DO YOU KNOW

THAT the following are a few of the 31 experiments read into the Congressional Record last year by Senator Wayne Morse:

- (1) An experiment concerning the administration of adrenalin to a child, which had been killed alive. At the University of Buffalo Medical School.
- (2) An experiment to demonstrate certain known characteristics of shock by smashing the legs of dogs with a rawhide hammer. At Columbia University.
- (3) An experiment to determine how much pressure must be applied to an animal's tail to cause it to rot away. At the University of Minnesota.
- (4) An experiment to see how long it takes to starve and freeze a pigeon to death. At the Army Chemical Centre, Maryland.

DO YOU KNOW

THAT at the Annual Meeting of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology, Dr. Robert Gesell, Chairman of the Department of Physiology at the University of Michigan, stated on April 15, 1952:

"We are drowning and suffocating unanesthetized animals in the name of science. We are determining the amount of abuse that life will endure in unanesthetized animals in the name of science. We are producing frustration ulcers in experimental animals under shocking conditions in the name of science. We are observing animals for weeks, months or even years under inhuman conditions in the name of science. What a travesty of Humanity! This may well prove to be the blackest spot in the history of medical science."

DO YOU KNOW

THAT many doctors oppose vivisection practices. Dr. Beddow Bayley in his book "Spotlights on Vivisection" states:

"It is admitted by many scientists that no human disease can accurately be reproduced experimentally in an animal or even a man. It follows that remedies based upon the treatment of artificially induced conditions can never fit naturally acquired diseases and many even prove dangerous."

Dr. Desjardins, President of the Society of Surgeons of Paris, said: "I have never known a single operator who has learned anything whatsoever from experiments on animals."

The British Medical Journal, Lancet, in an editorial in 1948, stated: "It is notoriously dangerous to apply experimental results from animals to the treatment of human beings because human and animal physiology show subtle but important differences."

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Not Beautiful From Without—
She Attained It From Within

Not long ago one of my readers wrote to me saying, "I read you very carefully, especially when you philosophize, and I find that we have mutual ideas about what ages women most; namely, wrong attitudes, tantrums, uncharitableness, or poor dispositions."

You see, long ago I made up my mind that if I couldn't be beautiful from the outside I would try very hard to be beautiful from within. I found that pettiness of soul and cattiness would not give me the face I wanted to see looking back at me from the mirror. Maybe I "ain't" beautiful, but when I am being good most people smile when they see me coming.

I imagine that all of them smile because there is nothing quite so magnetic as an outgoing, happy, tolerant, receptive spirit. The woman who is keenly aware of others, who has decided that she cannot afford the clutter of petty emotions and give to life or get from it what she wants, never lacks for friends.

Negative emotions such as envy, jealousy and intolerance do clutter our outlook so that we miss a great deal of the beauty and fun of everyday living. There is no telling what they do to our health. We suspect that they can upset our hormone balance.

We know that they have an effect on our complexion, the chemistry of our saliva, our respiration, heart beat and blood pressure, and that stress raises the cholesterol content in our blood. This is evidence enough that we cannot afford them if we wish to have fine health.

The indulgence in such emotions and attitudes so dull perception that it is like looking at the sun through dark glasses. We all run into irritating situations and people who are unkind and unfair, but these lose much of their sting when exposed to the larger view.

Thinking of inner and outer beauty, it seems such a loss that so many women fail to develop their personalities because they are not born beautiful or pretty, especially in this day when we can do so much to help nature along with permanents, make-up, hair and clothes styling and figure molding!

But even if we had no beauty aids, the woman who loves us they do not really know how we look, but only surpasses any physical loveliness. Anyway when people shopping for electricity today?

If you were to go to the store and buy electricity in packages, you'd quickly see how much you get for so little money! The good value you get in electricity is even more apparent when you put it to work for you—lighting, cooking, cleaning, washing, sewing, heating, entertaining. Our records show that the average B.C. Electric residential customer now uses nearly three times as much electricity as in 1946, but pays less per kilowatt hour. Electricity is one of today's big bargains. It does dozens of tasks day and night—dependably, efficiently, and best of all, economically.

Former Victorian Wed

A wedding of interest in Victoria was solemnized in Toronto recently, when Miss Frances Merriman, well-known acrobatic dancer formerly of this city, became the bride of Mr. Mario Fera, son of Mrs. Maria Fera, Reggio, Calabria, Italy. A white brocade satin gown and white feather head-dress was worn by the dark-haired bride. Her jewelry was a gold cross and earrings. She carried a white prayer book topped with an orchid. The couple will arrive in Victoria shortly to visit for several months before leaving for Italy.

At Cocktail Hour

Cmdr. Alfred C. Wurtele, reeve of Esquimalt, and Mrs. Wurtele are entertaining friends on Thursday evening and again on Friday at the cocktail hour at their home on Plaskett Place.

Home From East

Dr. and Mrs. T. H. Johns have just returned from a three-week trip east. They attended the Canadian Dental Association convention in Montreal at the Queen Elizabeth Hotel. Also on their itinerary was a week in New York and visits to Toronto and Chicago.

Luncheon for Speaker

Mrs. D. W. McGibbon, president of the Dominion Drama

Festival and Honorary president of the B.C. drama association will be honored at a no-host luncheon in the Strathcona Hotel dining room during her visit to Victoria next Monday. Mrs. McGibbon of Toronto, will speak at the annual meeting of the Governing Committee of the Canadian Drama Award. She will be accompanied to Victoria by Mrs. Gerald Rushton of Vancouver, president of the B.C. Drama Association.

Helps Others—Yet Finds Time for Home Hobbies

By MAUREN DUFFUS

There's an attractive new home on Kinross Avenue designed by the owners, partially built by them, with curtains and drapes made by the lady of the house—and it will even have two chairs upholstered by the lady of the house when she finishes a course at night school this winter.

This versatile woman, who also makes her own and the children's clothes, and all her own hats, is Mrs. Alan Wilson, and how she finds time for all of this plus her work as president of the Jayceettes, is a mystery.

The house itself is a home-makers' dream. Dividing the compact kitchen from the dining room and playroom (used as sewing room for Mrs. Wilson) are cupboards with doors on either side.

"We can put the dishes away from the kitchen, and open the cupboards from the other side to set the table." "Under the counter beneath the cupboards is a shelf which pulls out to form a counter for breakfast or snacks."

"Sometimes I feel I'm working in a restaurant, but it's very easy and convenient," Mrs. Wilson said.

As for the fabulous collection of hats, Mrs. Wilson makes and remakes them—right on her own head.

Mrs. Alan Wilson, president of the Jayceettes.

which most milliners use, but I can't—it just doesn't have any personality. What looks fine on the block doesn't suit me. My way is awfully hard on the hair do, but it's better in the long run.

Mrs. Wilson has been sewing since she was about five years old, and loves it. But upholstering is a new venture this year. She is doing two chairs at a night school course and would eventually like to re-upholster a day bed as well.

Looking Forward to Trip Abroad

Another project is preparing a wardrobe for a holiday that is to take the Wilsons to London and Paris, and home by way of Florida.

"At first we were just going south but then we decided to go to Europe instead. Now I have to have clothes for both places. It's going to be a bit of a rush."

The Wilsons are hoping to take their eldest son, Donald, to England with them, feeling that a trip like that will be a marvellous experience. Four-year-old Larry is just a bit too young.

After that there will be the garden project. The Wilsons have only been in the house for a short time and have been busy with the interior so far.

"But I have the garden all planned, just the way it should be," says energetic Mrs. Wilson.

Club work at the time is quite strenuous because Jayceettes are planning their second annual fashion show. Last year, the show was a sell-out, so this year the club is putting it on for two nights. Featured will be magnificent couturier gown brought to Victoria especially for the show.

Other Jaycee-Ette projects include help to the Cerebral Palsy Clinic, maintenance of the dining room at Sunshine camp, and help for an adopted welfare family, for whom they provide food and clothing.

"We also help at the JC's party for welfare children, by cooking the turkey, making sandwiches and buying the presents. Each child receives a toy and an article of clothing. One time, just by chance, we had a sweater for a little boy who had had to borrow a sweater to come to the party. He was just overcome at having a sweater of his own."

Music is another interest in the Wilson home and young Donald is very much enjoying his piano lessons, while Mrs. Wilson, who plays the violin, helps with his practising. He showed no early aptitude for the violin, though, according to a hilarious story Mrs. Wilson told.

"I was determined to instill a love of good music in him early, so when he was about two months old I sat down with my violin to play lovely music. He wailed."

"After all, he was a bit young."

Two months later, I tried again. He wailed even louder, so I gave up, and stuck to good children's records, which both the children love."

Grandparents Phone Bride Janice Cave Prior Wedding

Just before Janice Marian Cave of Ventura, Calif., left to be married, her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Baird of this city telephoned their good wishes.

Bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Cave, formerly of Victoria, now in Ventura, Calif. Her groom is Arthur D. Crain of Miami, Oklahoma.

The bride's father escorted her up the aisle of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Ventura, and gave her in marriage. Rev. D. Bacot performed the double ring ceremony. Tall baskets of white chrysanthemums and gladioli decorated the church.

The bride was lovely in her lace covered satin gown, fashioned with a fitted bodice, full ballerina length skirt. A small satin bandeau held her fingertip veil and she wore long gloves of the same material as her gown. She carried a bouquet of carnations centred with a white orchid.

Miss Bette Showen was maid of honor. She wore a full skirted pink gown and a small pink hat. Bridesmaids, Miss Cynthia Shively and Miss Janet Morrow, were dressed in blue ballerina length full skirted dresses with small hats to match. All carried nosegays of carnations.

Jerry Morrow was best man and Donald Phillips and Robert Burgess ushered.

Help for Older Women Workers; Winter Employment Needs Urged

Need of training courses for older women re-entering the employment field is being stressed by the National Council of Women.

National president Mrs. Rex Eaton, OBE, LLD, in Victoria today, points out that "at the present time in Canada's labor force more than 40 per cent is made up of the older woman workers."

"This percentage will increase," Mrs. Eaton says. "At present these women are accepting work that is less than their ability because they are out of practice or because they have lost their knowledge of job discipline during their years in the home."

Mrs. Eaton points out that "training classes should be set up and vocational training courses planned to assist these women."

The National Council of Women is also working with the federal government to publicize the need for winter employment across Canada.

"Through our Local Councils we hope to interest men and women in doing work in their homes and businesses now when the need of employment is greatest—not in the spring when larger work projects open up."

Progressive steps in technical and vocational training is another project of the National Council.

As guest speaker this afternoon at a meeting of the Local Council of Women in the music room at the Public Library, Mrs. Eaton discussed these projects. She also spoke on the council's extension program and on a brief the council will present to the Royal Commission on Price Spreads on Foods. Mrs. Eaton came to Victoria from her home in Dollarton, B.C., on Sunday morning, and is staying with cousins, Padre and Mrs. Charles MacLean at their home on Townley Avenue.

playing out four rounds of spades. Everyone discarded a heart on the last spade lead.

The heart discards by West and South were correct. East's heart discard was a bad mistake since it gave Walter a sure count of the hand.

East had started with six diamonds and three spades. Obviously, he had two hearts in his hand. In the end, he had more than 10 clubs; led his other club. If East had shown up with a heart, he would have lost the race.

...would have lost the rest
n three, but this time the nd he chalked up game.

'Bluebeard' Held

DIEF TO SEE POPE NOV. 12

SOEST, West Germany (Reuters) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker will be received in audience by Pope John XXIII next Wednesday, a spokesman accompanying the prime minister on his European tour said here Sunday.

The prime minister will be one of the first heads of government to have called on the Pope. He will be in Rome from Tuesday afternoon until Wednesday night.

Drama Festival Winners Offered Stratford Parts

WINNIPEG, (CP) — The Dominion Drama Festival announced Saturday it has accepted an offer by the Stratford Shakespearean Festival Foundation of Canada to hold three vacancies in the 1959 Stratford company for one actress and two actors from the final Dominion festival.

Announcement was made by Mrs. D. W. McGibbon, president, at a national executive meeting here. She said the opportunity would provide added incentive to participants in this season's drama festivals.

Michael Langham, artistic director of the Stratford Festival, had proposed that the players be chosen by the adjudicator at the final festival.

Springhill Aid Asked of Unions

Victoria Labor Council today called on all 68 affiliated unions to give to the Springhill Disaster Fund "and help support this worthy cause."

A letter going out today pledges the full support of the council executive and asks unions to send in their cheques as early as possible.

They should be taken or mailed to Bank of Nova Scotia, 1301 Douglas, and made payable to the Springhill Disaster Fund.

"I am confident there will be a good response from labor," council secretary-treasurer A. W. Toone said today.

Bulolo Gold Profit Shows Sharp Drop

VANCOUVER (CP) — Net earnings of Bulolo Gold Dredging Ltd., for the year ended May 31, were down by more than $560,000 over the same period last year.

The company report released here showed net earnings at $403,005, down from $966,505. Profit equalled 40 cents a share. Profit equalled 40 cents a share, compared with 97 cents in 1957.

I was a sleepless wreck

My nerves grated from lack of sleep. Indigestion bothered me. I felt jittery, depressed, drained of all ambition and energy.

Some people suffer unpleasantness because their systems are aggravated by elements in everyday beverages. This is particularly true of those with "nervous" temperaments.

While some people can drink tea, coffee, cocoa and some soft drinks without harm, others cannot.

Postum does not contain stimulants such as caffeine, theophylline or theobromine which can rob you of sleep, irritate your nerves, speed up pulse with subsequent depressing let-down. Postum does not contain tannin to give you indigestion, nor any other ingredient to cause you harm.

Switch to Instant Postum, the beverage of comfort! Postum tastes and acts like no other beverage. Postum has its own distinctive flavor. Make Postum instantly, right in your cup. Just add freshly boiling water, or hot milk, stir and enjoy.

Try Postum for 30 days. When nerves are soothed, you sleep better, feel better, look better. Get Instant Postum at your grocer's. Costs less than 14¢ a cup. A product of General Foods, Limited.

ST. PELTON, Austria (Reuters) — A 48-year-old travelling salesman here was reported to have told police Saturday he murdered four women to raise money for back payments on his car.

Salesman Max Gufler, dubbed The Austrian Bluebeard, also is suspected by police of killing seven other women who have mysteriously disappeared or been found dead in the last few years.

He has denied any part in these cases but allegedly has admitted an attempt to kill a fellow salesman.

Police have arrested Herta Juhn, the woman Gufler lived with, on suspicion of complicity. They claim to have found in her possession a list of seven women's names—three of them in red ink and four in black.

One of the red-ink names was Josephine Kammleiner, whose body was identified when gold teeth found in Gufler's room fitted gaps in her teeth, police said.

Police quote Gufler as saying:

ing he drugged three of the women after getting them into his car—with all the cash and valuables they could collect—on a promise of marriage or a profitable business.

Then "he was forced to 'get rid of them' before they insisted on him keeping the promises, police said.

Two Await Sentencing For Thefts

Two men pleaded guilty in city police court today to theft of $150-worth of auto parts and accessories from a car parked on Douglas Sunday night.

They were Daniel T. MacDonald, 1215 North Park, and Ralph Hack, 218 Kingston, who were arrested at MacDonald's address and charged with theft over $50 value.

Both men were remanded to Friday for probation report and sentence.

Cons. Ronald Ferguson said he noticed a car parked suspiciously on a lot between Fred's Esso Service and Victoria Monument Ltd. in the 3000 block Douglas at 9:30 p.m.

He said he found it contained a car radio, spotlight, aerial, horn ring, door handles, cigarette lighter, ash trays, bulbs and switches.

Outside was the wheel and tire from another car.

Nearby, on the service station lot, was a car owned by B. Froud, 3944 Cedar Hill Road, from which the property had been stripped.

Police checked the registered owner of the first car and found it to be MacDonald.

Cons. Ferguson said he went to 1215 North Park and awaited MacDonald's return at 1 a.m.

Drilling Underway At Three Merritt Copper Prospects

A diamond drill program is well under way on a 500-acre group of claims in the Merritt copper area of B.C.

Three important anomalies have been located reports Neil McDiarmid, managing director of Peel Resources Ltd. Work is under the direction of R. E. Renshaw and Franklin Price.

Drilling is near the southeast corner of Harry No. 19 and only 500 yards from a drill station of Centennial Mines whose property adjoins the Peel claims directly to the east.

Staked in April, the Peel property adjoins Canex, Torwest, Noranda and Centennial mines.

President of the company is Air Vice-Marshal Raymond Colishaw.

West Germany had a merchant fleet of 2,680 ships in 1958, with total tonnage slightly higher than all Germany's pre-war fleet.

Strike Date Set But Peace Likely

By JOHN LeBLANC
OTTAWA (CP) — The non-operating railway unions likely will call a strike on major railways for between Dec. 8-10, but there is a strong probability that the biggest of Canadian labor disputes will be settled before the tieup date.

Much depends on whether the federal cabinet will interfere with a freight rate increase which the railways are expected to get from the board of transport commissioners before the strike is due to start.

The unions have agreed to settle on the basis of a federal conciliation board's majority report recommending wage increases averaging out to about 14 cents an hour. The railways

Higher Laundry Charges Follow Wage Increases

Some laundry and dry-cleaning charges were increased today following pay boosts won recently by workers in three Victoria laundries.

As examples, shirts jumped from 25 and 26 cents to 28 and 29; sheets from 14 to 16; blankets from 80 to 90; suits from $1.50 to $1.65.

Smaller articles, such as handkerchiefs, are not affected. In general, said a laundry spokesman, "We have taken items at random and added a couple of cents here and there. There is no really general increase."

The cost jumps are a result of negotiations concluded Oct. 16 with 175 workers in Standard Steam Laundry Ltd., New Method Laundries Ltd., and Economy Steam Laundry Ltd., which saw rates increase by an average 20 cents an hour.

TRAFFIC FINES

In Sidney RCMP court, Friday: Charles Hedley Meyers, Work Point, $15 and $50 costs for failing to submit accident reports.

Ernest Brett Trimble, Sidney, $20 and $35.00 for speeding. A 17-year-old Sidney juvenile, $10 and $5 costs for failing to stop at a stop sign, and two months probation for driving with inadequate muffler.

City Woman Awarded French Fidelity Order

The president of the French Canadian Club in Victoria, Mrs. Yvonne Fortin-Terrier, 1076 Joan Crescent, has been awarded the Order of French Fidelity for her contribution to French culture in North America, it was announced from Quebec City today.

The award was made by Le Conseil la Vie Française, and was one of only four given on this continent.

Mrs. Fortin-Terrier, born in Quebec, has been a resident of Victoria 18 years and president of the 100-member French-Canadian Club the past 14.

She was instrumental in founding of the St. Jean Baptiste parish here for French-speaking Victorians, has worked on various committees dealing with French activities, and is a correspondent for French-language newspapers in eastern Canada.

Appearance of the trio in Victoria will be a "first" for it as well as the jazz society, although the group has played before in Canada.

Before their arrival here, Gill and his men will have performed a weekend engagement in Vancouver, slated for later in November.

From the local scene will be the popular Buddy Glover Trio with Buddy on piano, backed by bass and drums.

Tickets at regular prices will be available at Ward's Music, Hudson's Bay Co., and B.C. Sound.

Jazz Group To Import U.S. Talent

Live jazz crosses the international boundary for Victoria Jazz Society's first anniversary concert at Club Sirocco Dec. 4.

The progressive club for the first time in a year of regularly scheduled concerts and cabarets will bring a group of jazz musicians from the United States to take the featured spot with local jazz artists.

Heading the bill will be the Elmer Gill Trio, presently making a name for itself on this coast from its home base in Seattle.

Jazz buffs may recognize the name Elmer Gill from his days with Lionel Hampton, and like the great "Hamp," he plays vibraphone.

A versatile young man, Elmer switches to piano and vocals, backed by his sidemen Dave Coleman, drums, and bassist Al Larkins.

Mr. Coleman also comes by way of the great, having played with the bands of Harry James, Artie Shaw and Johnny Richards.

Let's talk REAL ESTATE

By JACK MEARS

At the moment we are going through one of those periods of intense change which comes from time to time to all growing communities with many new developments either underway or projected for the near future. Change is inevitable in all communities; new development, growth, and decay are always with us, nothing can remain static. The only thing that can be done is to control growth so that the type of community we wish to live in is preserved. In order to do this certain regulations called zoning laws have been passed, reserving certain areas for single-family dwellings, others for apartments, others for commercial or industrial uses.

Some changes and new development can take place within existing by-laws as in the case of the old Oak Bay Municipal Hall which is being torn down to make way for a new building to be erected early next year. Other changes can only take place by amending existing zoning by-laws and when such a change is proposed it is the duty of everyone in the community affected to make certain whether such an amendment is desirable or not. In other words, is the change going to be for the good of the community as a whole or only for the good of the few?

It is no good saying such and such a development should never have been allowed. We live in a democracy and that imposes on all of us certain duties as well as many privileges. Individuals, communities, and nations get the type of government they deserve and demand, and it is up to each and every one of us to see that our elected officials are in truth acting for the common good and carrying out our wishes.

Great care must be taken to see that growth takes place in a proper manner and that the wealth and welfare of a community is not only preserved but developed to its highest extent. This can only be done by reserving certain definite areas for each type of development, as once one exception has been made others will inevitably follow, and a good district will be ruined.

Put yourself into the safekeeping of a Tussy Deodorant—then confidently forget the very reasons for using it. Besides doing all the things you expect a deodorant to do, Tussy Deodorants help protect your skin and clothes against acid damage.

1 Tussy cream deodorant
A dainty cream that stops odor instantly, checks perspiration too. A blend of beauty creams, Tussy Cream Deodorant is kind to skin and will never "acid-damage" clothes.

2 Tussy stick deodorant
Such a convenient way to stop odor 24 hours—with-out closing pores. Perfect for office or when travelling. Made from a non-acid formula, Tussy Stick cannot irritate skin, or "acid-damage" clothes.

3 Tussy "roto-magic" roll-on
The newest magic in deodorants and anti-perspirants. "Roto-Magic" rolls on. Stops odor for 24 hours. Like the other famous Tussy Deodorants, it won't acid-damage clothes or irritate skin, because it's acid-controlled.

94-YEAR-OLD BARRIE WEEKLY NEWSPAPER BECOMES DAILY

BARRIE, Ont. (CP) — The 94-year-old Barrie Examiner, a tri-weekly since 1951, today joined the ranks of Canada's daily newspapers.

The step to six-day-a-week publication reflects the growth of this central Ontario community of 20,000 which becomes a city at the beginning of 1959.

The newspaper was acquired by the Thomson Co. in September, 1957. It was founded in 1864 by William Manley Nicholson, Hamilton publisher.

$2 Million Bonus For War Prisoners

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA — A $2,000,000 bonanza for Canadian prisoners of war and civilian internees who suffered maltreatment at the hands of the Japanese and the Germans will go out in the mails before Christmas.

The federal government by an order in council passed late last month has authorized additional maltreatment awards to those who were prisoners of war of the Japanese and to Canadian civilians interned in Japanese camps.

In addition, Canadians who fell into the hands of the Gestapo and were kept in Gestapo camps and other institutions where they suffered maltreatment will receive an extra award.

Those who were in the hands of the Japanese have received from the Canadian government payments of $1 per day for each day they were in the camps.

Christmas Bingo Two-Night Affair

The Kinsmen Club's 13th giant bingo here in mid-December will be the luckiest yet for devotees—$20,000 worth of prizes, ranging from all-expense-paid trips to year-round grocery supplies.

Proceeds will be spent on Kinsmen-Gorge Park development to help aid seasonal unemployment and to further improve the popular park.

The "biggest, bestest" bingo will be a two-day affair, first of its kind here, and will be held Dec. 15 and 16, a Monday and Tuesday.

The prize list includes two $3,200 cars, a choice of four trips offered to persons who buy tickets in advance, two one-year supplies of groceries, six television sets, 700 turkeys and a host of other worthwhile prizes.

ISLAND VIEWPOINT

Not the Answer

SIDNEY REVIEW — North Saanich High School Parent-Teacher Association has sent a resolution to the Saanich School District urging that an investigation be instigated into the establishment of a technical-vocational training school within the Saanich school district. The resolution followed an address to the PTA by the provincial director of technical and vocational training.

We were impressed by the warmth shown for his subject by the provincial director, but we were not wholly enthusiastic over the picture he drew. His student would be encouraged to do all the theoretical work in his own time. School time would be employed at the bench. It bears all the marks of an apprenticeship system whereby the employer makes no provision for academics. The speaker also extended his scope into the world of technicians, a form of occupation half way between a skilled fitter and a graduate engineer. In the past technicians have been recruited from fully trained skilled men with the education to reach a standard approximating second-year university. The boy who trains for his trade in school and studies in his spare time is unlikely to be too receptive towards university subjects. A vocational school would be a pleasant acquisition, but it would not, by any means, be a conclusive answer to present-day problems.

Draegermen

COMOX DISTRICT FREE PRESS—The tragedy of disaster at the mine in Springhill with its subsequent cause for limited joy with the discovery of men alive when they were thought dead, has brought us stories of the heroism of rescue workers and the hard and dangerous work they do.

But what of these men, the draegermen as they are called, themselves?

These rescue teams aren't composed of volunteers called at the moment of disaster.

Cowichan to Vote On Two Trustees

DUNCAN — Electors in the rural portion of School District 65 (Cowichan) will go to the polls Dec. 13 to elect two trustees.

Two-year terms of trustees Wilfred Peck, Cowichan Bay, and Pat Mason, Shawnigan Lake, expire Dec. 31. Nominations close at the school board office here Dec. 1 at 2 p.m.

Voting will take place between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m. in all elementary schools in the rural area with the exception of Bamberton and Fairbridge, where votes a year ago were light.

G. F. Dyson, school board secretary-treasurer, has been appointed returning officer with authority to engage deputy returning officers at $15 per day, and poll clerks at $10.

2 Groups Boost Springhill Fund

CHEMAINUS—Help for the Springhill disaster fund has come from two directions.

Rotary Club approved a donation of $50 to the fund, and the United Church will turn all collections from its Sunday-evening service, with the exception of envelope pledges, over to the fund.

A feature of the church service will be the attendance of Canadian Legion Branch 191 and its Ladies' Auxiliary. Fall-in for the church parade will be outside the church at 7:15 p.m.

142-Acre Park On Chemainus R.

CHEMAINUS—Recreation Minister Earle C. Westwood has revealed the site of the government's proposed park development on Chemainus River is above the old Hillcrest logging camp, about nine miles from Duncan.

An area of some 142 acres with a frontage of 700 feet on Chemainus River is proposed for park development. A 75-unit camp site is planned.

The acreage takes in a portion of sections 14, 15 and 16, Block 204, Range 6 in Seymour Land District. It is located above the old Hillcrest logging camp on the opposite side of the river to the MacMillan & Bloedel Ltd. Copper Canyon logging road.

The minister said that preliminary surveys have been undertaken and the boundary established. Later this year, a group from the park planning unit will enter the area to establish an overall plan.

NEW WATER SYSTEM OPENS

DUNCAN—A new water system serving 38 users with 2.6 miles of pipe, and completed at a cost of $45,000, was opened last week.

Source is a well 217 feet deep on the property of G. W. Highmoor, water district president. A 30,000-gallon storage tank, four fire hydrants, seven standpipes, and a pressure pump for high levels, complete the system.

With Mr. Highmoor on the district water board are Steve Gillis, Karl Wigon, George Falt and Mrs. Doris Lawrence.

BCE Joins Wengren Hydro

Fifth Share Taken in Plan To Dam Peace

By HAL MALONE, Times Business Editor

The B.C. Electric Co. today joined hands with the mammoth Wenner-Gren interests and three other companies in a proposed half-billion dollar hydro power scheme on the Peace River.

A company spokesman confirmed that the B.C. Electric has a one-fifth interest in Peace River Development Co., the firm set up to develop the project which officials say would include the world's largest dam.

The spokesman said the B.C. Electric, Wenner-Gren interests and Associated Electrical Industries, a British company, have one-fifth shares each in the new hydro-development firm.

Names of the other two companies will be released Wednesday at a lavish meeting of directors in Vancouver.

Directors will include Viscount Alexander, former governor-general of Canada, now recuperating from a heart attack in an Ottawa hospital; Lord Tweedsmuir, son of a former governor-general; Bernard Gore, of Wenner-Gren interests; Sir Andrew McTaggart of Associated Electrical Industries and "several prominent B.C. men."

Some of Canada's top power experts believe that if Swedish promoter Axel Wenner-Gren is allowed to proceed with his plan to build dams on the Peace River and transmit power some 600 miles to Vancouver the development of the Columbia River will be stalled until the early 1960s.

They say it would saddle B.C. with "high cost power" for a generation. Conservative estimates of the additional cost of Peace River power to B.C. consumers has been estimated at $80,000,000 a year. It is estimated that Columbia River power would cost B.C. users 2.3 mills per kilowatt hour, compared with 6.3 mills from Wenner-Gren.

Confirmation of the B.C. Electric's participation in the Peace River Power Development Company came less than 24 hours after a company official denied for the second time that the BCE was involved in the scheme.

Harry L. Purdy, executive vice-president of the BCE, termed as "rubbish" Sunday a report that the company and Wenner-Gren interests were working hand-in-hand on the Peace River power deal.

Concurrent with Mr. Purdy's denial came a weekend report that BCE president, A. E. Grauer, was in Ottawa, enlisting support for the plan.

A company spokesman admitted Mr. Grauer was in the East but said he didn't visit Ottawa. The federal government hasn't yet discussed the Wenner-Gren project on a cabinet level.

Mr. Gore said Sunday the scheme is "entirely feasible economically and we are going to have it."

Asked if he believed the development of the Peace River would take place, he replied: "Definitely it is."

He said he will reveal everything about the company's plans Wednesday.

Purdy said the BCE is interested mainly in determining how much Peace River power would cost delivered to the mainland. If further engineering studies prove Peace River power is economical, BCE would buy it, he said.

BY 1966 He set 1966 as a target date for construction of "the largest dam in the world," depending on whether further surveys are encouraging.

He wouldn't elaborate but it is believed the dam would be built in the vicinity of Dawson Creek in the eastern part of B.C. The dam would

AT SEATTLE

Ike Outlines 5-Point Plan Of Asian Aid

SEATTLE (AP)—President Eisenhower today set forth a five-point program of international economic aid for Asian nations. He pledged full United States co-operation in erecting "barriers against tyranny and the war which tyranny breeds."

The president put no overall price tag on the program and did not estimate the U.S. share of the cost. But he called on the heavily Democratic new Congress to provide adequate—and additional—financial resources to help 700,000,000 people in free Asia.

Eisenhower outlined his aid plan in an address prepared for delivery at a meeting of diplomats attending the 18-nation Colombo Plan conference on co-operative economic assistance for South and Southeast Asia.

The president urged the free world's better-off nations to join America in carrying out his program for underprivileged countries, but he also called on the Asian nations to develop co-operative sound measures of self-help.

TRADE EXPANSION

Eisenhower recommended: 1. Expansion of international trade. He said the larger part of capital goods required for economic development must be financed through such trade and he once more advised relaxation of restrictions hindering its flow.

2. Wider sharing of technical skills, which he described as the bedrock of economic development. He promised the U.S. will press its own program in that field "even more vigorously than in the past."

3. Ever greater emphasis on private investment. The president said the resources of American private capital are far larger than the amount the government can provide for projects in free Asia. Government resources need to be drawn upon to the greatest extent possible, but the Asian nations should also explore the full potentialities of private enterprise.

4. Greater provision for public loans on normal bankable terms—for projects such as highways. He noted the World Bank, which already is extending such loans, has agreed to consider an increase in the bank's capital subscriptions. The U.S. believes there should be an increase he said, as well as an increase in the quotas of the International Monetary Fund.

5. Expansion of development financing to provide borrowers with greater flexibility regarding repayment terms. This, Eisenhower said, will help make possible many sound projects which cannot qualify for bankable loans.

DONATIONS WELCOME

The President said the U.S. would welcome contributions of other nations in this field. He again proposed creation of an international development association—a second World Bank—to mobilize the financial resources of the free world for this program.

Eisenhower said his proposal for trade expansion, increased technical assistance and more public loans on normal bankable terms are already charted and in some cases under way. But his recommendations dealing with more private investment and expanded development financing on flexible terms remain to be carried out.

Red Carpet For Smith

SEATTLE (CP)—External Affairs Minister Smith got the red-carpet treatment when he arrived Sunday night by plane from Ottawa to attend the Colombo Plan meeting.

The minister and his party came by regular TCA flight via British Columbia and were met at the airport by U.S. state department and Colombo Plan meeting officials. He immediately went by car to the Olympic Hotel, scene of the conference.

His plane touched down about an hour ahead of a special plane bearing U.S. Secretary of State Dulles who will be chairman of the meetings which last until Thursday.

LIFE OF MACKENZIE KING

Historic Stuff In Scots Stock

Serialization of this new and official unpublished biography of Mackenzie King began last Saturday in the Times Weekend Magazine. It will continue daily Monday to Friday in the news columns of the Times and in Saturday's Weekend Magazine.

By ROBERT MACGREGOR DAWSON

William Lyon Mackenzie King was born in Ontario, at Berlin, now known as Kitchener, on Dec. 17, 1874. His four grandparents had been born in Scotland and had come to Canada within the period 1820-34, forming a part of the great surge of immigration which was to last until the middle of the century.

All belonged to the same sturdy, industrious, Presbyterian stock, and in one of them, at least, intellectual vigor and independence, characteristic of the Scot, had begun to assert themselves. The notable contribution made by Scotland to Canada is in no way disparaged by the reflection that this little group of four and their issue have probably left a deeper imprint on Canadian life than any similar group in her history.

Mackenzie King's paternal grandfather, John King, was the son of an Englishman who had married a Scottish girl of some substance and come to live near Fraserburgh, Aberdeenshire. Here John King was born in April, 1814. At the age of 19 he enlisted as a gunner in the Royal Artillery and in 1834, following a period of training at Woolwich, he was sent to Canada. He was stationed at Kingston at the time of the 1837 Rebellion, and after some years was made a bombardier and placed in charge of a small detachment at Prescott. He was later moved to Grosse Isle, Que.

In 1840 he became engaged to Christina Macdougall, who had come from Scotland with her family 10 years earlier. The marriage was performed in April, 1841, at Prescott. His son of the same name, the father of Mackenzie King, was born on Sept. 15, 1843.

Court Orders Integration At Little Rock

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The U.S. eighth circuit court of appeals directed today that the Little Rock, Ark., school board take steps to accomplish integration of Negro students as previously ordered by the courts. The three-judge court directed Arkansas federal district judge John E. Miller to enjoin the school board "from taking any further steps or action without the approval of the district court to transfer possession, control or operation, whether directly or indirectly, of any of the senior high schools or any other property" for operation of segregated schools.

The 23-page decision was handed down 27 days after final arguments were heard on whether Little Rock's four public high schools could be leased for use as private, segregated institutions.

Private school facilities were set up in Little Rock for white students only after Governor Orval E. Faubus closed the public schools to prevent integration.

Bomb Demolishes Virginia School

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (AP)—A thunderous explosion ripped through an integrated junior high school in nearby Osage early today. No one was injured and there was no fire.

State police said the blast was deliberately set. The school has 93 Negroes among its 400 pupils. The two-story brick building was so badly damaged it will have to be condemned and torn down.

Huge Heroin Haul

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police here seized a record quantity of heroin valued at $250,000 Sunday and arrested one man in connection with the raid. It was expected the suspect would be charged later today.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

That some should die that others may breathe life and freedom awakes solemn and grateful remembrance in our hearts, O God. The joy of life strongly masters our moods. We were not made for death. We reverently remember thy Son, who freely gave his life, that heaven might be ours here on earth and forever. In his name we devotedly offer ourselves in the service of mankind. Amen.

Wild Plane Hits TCA Viscount

NEW YORK (CP)—A big American-owned cargo aircraft ran amok on takeoff at Idlewild Airport today, carrying flaming destruction to a Trans-Canada Air Lines Viscount before the eyes of 26 waiting passengers.

It was "pure luck" that the TCA turbo-prop plane had not loaded the passengers just before it was struck by the careening Super-Constellation aircraft that went out of control on takeoff, an airline spokesman said.

"Six minutes more and the plane would have been loaded. It was in position, but there had been a slight delay."

Eight persons—including two stewardesses aboard the Viscount—suffered minor injuries.

ON TRAINING FLIGHT The Constellation, owned by Seaboard and Western Airlines, had just lifted from the ground on a training flight when trouble developed and it dropped back on the runway.

Out of control, the plane plunged headlong toward the domestic flight depot—and the TCA four-engine plane waiting for passengers.

The two planes locked together in a burst of flame and swerved against a wall of the cement-block depot structure. The five crew members of the Constellation escaped serious injury.

The spectacular accident occurred only a few minutes before the TCA airliner was to start receiving passengers for its flight No. 325 to Montreal.

Rescue Teams Sift Rubble As 20 Feared Dead in Fire

MONTREAL (CP)—Teams of black-clad fire rescue experts today rummaged cautiously through tons of torn rubble for at least 10 more victims of a weekend holocaust that engulfed a downtown apartment building.

Civil Defence headquarters, co-ordinating the list of dead and missing after Sunday's searing pre-dawn fire, said that eight bodies have been removed, 10 others are "positively missing" and at least two others may have perished in the blaze.

The list indicated a death toll of 20. Working slowly, firemen clawed their way into the brick, wood and plaster debris in the sad hope of discovering more victims before the building's remaining walls are brought tumbling down by a crane later today.

The rescue teams, who worked in shifts through the cold, wet night with searchlights illuminating the silent scene, also are seeking evidence of the cause of the blaze.

A bloated gas stove and reports of explosions when the fire started are their chief clues at present.

Only three bodies have been identified—those of theology student John Sim, 26, his wife Carol, of Westville, N.S., and Louis Dunn, 23, of Montreal.

Five of the known missing are believed to have perished in one room where they were having a friendly calypso session.

Mackenzie King was very fond of recalling how two conflicting strains had been brought together by his parents' marriage, for though both his grandfathers had been engaged in the rebellion of 1837-38 they had fought on opposite sides.

William Lyon Mackenzie (his maternal grandfather who led the short-lived revolt of 1837 in Upper Canada) was obviously in the thick of the revolt, while John King was stationed with the artillery at Kingston and had actually fired on a small force which had invaded Canada from the United States.

Mackenzie King's parents, John King and Isabel Grace Mackenzie, were married at Toronto on Dec. 12, 1872, when both were in their 30th year.

The Kings had four children: Isabel Christina Grace (Bella), born Nov. 15, 1873; William Lyon Mackenzie (Willie), born Dec. 17, 1874; Janet Lindsey (Jennie), born Aug. 27, 1876, and Douglas Macdougall (Max), born Nov. 11, 1878.

The family lived in three houses in the first 14 years of their life in Berlin. Mackenzie King was born in the first of these on Benton Street, which was later demolished to make way for another building.

In 1886 they moved to their fourth home, Woodside, situated about a mile out of town, where they lived until they left Berlin seven years later. Woodside was regarded by all the Kings as their real home.

The fact that Woodside was in the country meant that in their younger days the King children were isolated and forced to draw upon themselves for companionship. Bella and Willie tended to pair off together and Jennie and Max, but as only five years separated the oldest and youngest, they frequently pooled their interests and resources.

As they grew older, other children were able to come to Woodside more easily and Mr. and Mrs. King were unusually hospitable hosts.

The family especially enjoyed singing as a group around the piano in the evening. Mrs. King or one of the girls played the piano, Mr. King the castanets, and the others provided a vigorous chorus, whether popular airs, variety songs, or, on Sundays, hymns from the Presbyterian Book of Praise. In later years Mackenzie King continued to derive extraordinary pleasure from this informal singing of hymns, a fondness which he shared with one of his great contemporaries, Mr. Lloyd George.

From his earliest years Willie lived in a political atmosphere, for William Lyon Mackenzie and the Liberal tradition were integral parts of the family environment. Moreover, John King was an ardent politician, who, while he lived in Berlin, was very active in electioneering and had been asked on several occasions to run as a Liberal candidate.

An Embrace

Mrs. King, however, objected to any election contests in the family on the ground that her father's experience had given her all the politics she wanted in her lifetime. Willie's initiation came when as a child he attended a meeting addressed by Sir John A. Macdonald:

"The first general election I recall was in 1882. I was seven. Sir John came to Berlin (now Kitchener), where, at the time, my father was practicing law. All who have had an opportunity of knowing and seeing Sir John are today grateful for having had that opportunity. I remember best not the political argument but that Sir John was presented with some flowers by a pretty young lady whom he thanked with an embrace. I could do nothing but envy him, and decided then that politics had its rewards."

At Berlin High School, Willie's skill as a debater soon far exceeded that of any of his classmates. He took part in amateur theatricals. When a spokesman was needed for any special occasion, such as a presentation to the principal or to the physical training instructor, Willie King was the one usually chosen to read the accompanying address.

He was a natural mischief-maker, and his teachers at school soon learned to turn to Willie King when they were at a loss to find the cause of any major disturbance.

School Pranks

A number of stories are still remembered by Willie's schoolmates.

One autumn day he and another boy (who later did penance for his misdeed) were caught stealing apples from an orchard near the school. J. W. Connor, the principal, promptly expelled them; but they waylaid him after school and made a moving appeal. "Billie did the talking, and I did the blubbing," said his fellow culprit, and the combination proved so effective that reinstatement followed.

On another occasion Willie was the chief actor in a practical joke played on the biggest boy in the school. He contrived to place several bad eggs in the boy's pockets, and then proceeded with a number of other students to "hustle" him. The desired result ensued.

The victim with a sure instinct turned on Willie and tried to catch him in the general skirmish, but Willie took to his heels and escaped, though in his haste he ran through the middle of a glass cold frame in a neighboring garden. Willie King's early reputation for ragging and breaking the scholastic peace was clearly well founded.

Fond of Girls

His appearance was unimpressive, with heavy features, a large mouth, unruly hair, and a thick-set rugged physique. But he was very friendly and approachable, willing to talk freely, and quick to respond with a smile and a twinkle in his blue eyes. He was a good mixer and generally liked.

He was fond of girls, although he showed no special preference for any one, finding it better or safer to play the field. They, in turn, liked him, and he was a high favorite with Jennie and Isabel's friends.

Education was regarded by the Kings with all the respect and some of the passion of the Scot, and though they could in one sense ill afford it, none questioned the need or desirability of money spent for this purpose. The children were given as good an education as Berlin could provide, a government was engaged for some time at Woodside, and Bella was sent to a girls' school in Toronto.

Willie went to university for his arts course and Max for medicine, although these imposed heavy hardships on those at home, who were already finding it none too easy to meet even their own expenses. So far as the boys could assist, they did so, and after Willie began advanced work he gradually became self-supporting.

Russia Demands Sweeping A-Ban

GENEVA (AP) — Russia today demanded sweeping nuclear disarmament and elimination of foreign military bases as its price for accepting an international warning system against surprise attacks.

Vassili Kuznetsov, Russian deputy foreign minister, opened an East-West conference on the prevention of surprise attacks with a thinly veiled denunciation of American foreign policy.

He said the policy of "positions of strength and the brink of war" was mainly responsible for the growing fear of surprise attacks.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The Soviet Union has proposed that the General Assembly endorse UN control of a ban on military space rockets and elimination of foreign bases.

LONDON—The 80 members of the cast filled the stage for the grand finale of Boris Godunov at the Covent Garden Opera House. The rich bass of Boris Christoff boomed through the house. Then disaster struck.

The horse on stage started to rumble inside, louder and louder. The cast sang louder and the horse rumbled louder — until the singers finally drowned out the embarrassing rumbles by sheer volume.

It seems that members of the cast were fond of feeding peppermints to Bubbles, kept in a comfortable stall nightly as a "prop." They evidently fed her too many.

Two Children Die as Fire Guts Williams Lake Home

(From CP Dispatches)
WILLIAMS LAKE — Two small children were burned to death Saturday night when fire swept through the upper portion of a building housing three families near Williams Lake in the Cariboo district.

Eleven other persons in the building reached safety.

Police at Glendale identified the youngsters as three-year-old Richard Walter Tresierra and his two-year-old brother, Ronald. Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Tresierra, were not at home at the time of the blaze.

Firemen and equipment from Williams Lake sped to the scene but could not save the youngsters. The fire was believed to have started in one of two suites in the upper floor of the building.

VANCOUVER — The last four cars of a Great Northern Railway passenger train bound for Seattle were derailed a few hundred yards outside the Vancouver terminal Sunday night.

One unidentified person suffered minor injuries. Railway officials said the train apparently hit a broken track.

STRIKE VOTE RIGGED

PENTICTON — J. Clayton Walls, southern interior director of the International Woodworkers of America, charged Saturday that certain employers had intimidated their workers into voting against strike action Friday in a government-supervised ballot.

Employees of 15 operations in British Columbia's interior have voted against striking while those of 15 others voted to strike. One plant has yet to report.

Mr. Walls claimed the majority of plants that voted against strike action were operations employing only a few men. He said the "big four" operations in this area voted by a substantial margin to strike.

He claimed the result was rigged by certain employers and the labor department itself.

The Doggy Walk

I'M FEELING a bit drab this morning, so let's have a little fun with Elvira Brown and her dog.

Elvira lives in the country, more or less. Her dog's name is Tuppence. Tuppence is what I'd call a mongrel, and what kinder people call a cross.

Elvira, says her husband, is dominated by the dogs. You should hear her explanation of the morning walk, he teases. If that's not domination, he doesn't know what is!

But, as Elvira has explained to him so often there's a definite reason for every detail of the morning walk.

"I know that Tuppence shouldn't bark when I go out of the back door just after nine," Elvira said the other day.

"But, if she doesn't, how is Bodger from next door to know that it's time for his little morning walk?"

"That's his lookout," said Elvira's husband.

"Maybe," said Elvira. "But, like me, he's a little set in his ways, and, on wet winter mornings, he likes to stay in his kennel for as long as possible. If he doesn't hear Tuppence bark, he misses us and doesn't get his daily romp and play. Then both of them are disappointed. And, for some unknown reason, Tuppence won't bark for him as we go by. She only barks when we set out."

"Dominated," said Elvira's husband. "Dominated and a little dotty. What living near Victoria has done to you! And the other day you couldn't be late, because Bodger was waiting."

"Well, he does on fine mornings," said Elvira. "You know how he comes down through the orchard and across the field, and waits by the fence post that he knows he mustn't pass. I hate to see the poor thing waiting. With those heavy jaws, he looks so sad."

"And after all, by 9 o'clock, I've done the beds and dishes and the mail is there. Don't be silly. I'm not dominated. I love my little morning walk to get the mail. The dogs are just my excuse."

Perhaps we shouldn't laugh at Elvira, but round and in Victoria, especially in Oak Bay, there are plenty of women whose minds work rather as Elvira's does.

Listen to this one talking to her dog in the morning:

"No, Topper, not yet. I know that's my old tweed coat and you think it means a walk. But before we go for a walk I must just mend the tab on it, and write a cheque for the bill that I stuffed into the pocket."

"So lie down like a good dog while I do the sewing. Yes, I know exactly what you mean when you roll your eyes and thump your tail. But you'll have to be patient and wait until I'm finished."

"And, by the way, I wish you wouldn't chase after that little creature down the street. She's not your kind. Besides, she's flighty. I know it's tempting, but you must try to be a gentleman."

"And, Topper, what about that terrier from the house at the corner? I know you don't like him. I don't like him much myself. Too fat and such a yappy bark. But it was you who started it the other day. He wasn't doing anything. And, it was his bit of boulevard. You didn't have to walk around him, stiff-legged and growling."

"And, Topper, what possessed you to follow that little Corgi into the middle of the rugby game at Windsor Park? He was terrified when the players came charging down on him, and you made it worse."

"Yes, I'm all finished now. It's time for our walk. With this wind, it's going to be a blowy one. It'll do us both a world of good!"

Oh, Victoria! How I love it!

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Hockey Dying in Britain

LONDON—As I mentioned recently the once popular indoor arena, Empress Hall, has been closed and is being demolished to make way for office buildings. Now the news is that Harringay Arena packs up at the end of this month, for the Home and Colonial chain of grocery stores to move in and use it as a warehouse.

So the sorry situation now is that London is left with only one major indoor arena—Wembley.

Where lies the blame for the death of Harringay? Once more, as with the Empress Hall, it's television that's the whipping horse. What in this century has caused more of a social revolution than the One-eyed Monster? The automobile? The advent of motion pictures?

Harringay Arena (the adjoining outdoor stadium still survives for greyhound racing) was built in 1937 and in postwar years has been the venue mainly of ice hockey, horse jumping, Christmas circuses and boxing.

Jack Solomons, Britain's top boxing promoter, put on all his big bouts there, including such famous scraps as Turpin's victory over Sugar Ray Robinson for the middleweight crown. Solomons has nowhere else available now to stage an indoor money-making promotion except Wembley.

A drawback of Harringay was that it was never an easy to get to spot. More than five miles across town from Piccadilly, through not very pleasant districts and entailing several bus or subway changes, it meant that you had to be pretty keen to see what was going on there to make the journey. Given a choice of traipsing out to Harringay or staying at home and watching TV, comparatively few chose the former—even despite the fact that Solomons tried to safeguard his takings by refusing to televise any of his fights.

The closing of Harringay doesn't mean that the Harringay Racers hockey team is now without a home. The team died before the arena—a couple of seasons ago, to be exact. London has dwindled from having four hockey teams to one solitary outfit—the Wembley Lions.

Hockey in Britain is on its last legs. In fact it very nearly died this summer and was kept alive only by the last-fling enthusiasm of the British Ice Hockey Association. Getting the winter schedules organized during the summer months they were shocked to realize that throughout the British Isles they were down to three teams.

However, after a lot of effort, they managed to revive a couple more and this winter's five-team league consists of two Scottish teams (in Edinburgh and Paisley) and teams in Nottingham, London and Brighton. The fact that Brighton, at the bottom of England, has to have fixtures with Edinburgh away up there in Scotland shows what a problem they have to get any hockey games organized.

Perhaps Harringay would have survived, had they been able to do what Brighton does. Thanks to a friendly town council, Brighton quite illegally stages sports events on Sunday, in blatant violation of the Sunday Entertainments Act of 1932.

'Free Algeria' Not Vote Issue

ALGIERS (AP)—Rightists favoring integration with France make up the vast majority of candidates, contesting 70 seats in the French Parliament from Algeria and the Sahara. There is no sign of a party or candidate seeking independence for Algeria.

At the midnight deadline Sunday 55 party lists had been filed from Algeria's 18 election districts. Unofficial tabulations showed a total of 190 candidates—131 Moslems and 59 Europeans.

Seventy deputies will be named to the French National Assembly in Paris in the elections Nov. 28-30. Algeria proper will have 67 and three will be from the Sahara, which is administered separately.

The proportion of Moslems to be elected has been fixed by law at two-thirds of the total. This will mean 46 Moslems will be sent to Paris, 44 from Algeria and two from the Sahara.

MOSTLY RIGHT WING

A preliminary check of the candidates whose backgrounds are known and of the names on the party lists showed the dominant tendency was right wing and favorable to the integration of France with Algeria, but an accurate analysis of all the parties and candidates will be possible only after the election campaign begins.

About 10 of the parties appeared to lean toward something short of the rightist demands for integration.

Most of the party lists had titles linking them to the Algerian public safety committee movement that led the rebellion last May and helped bring Gen. Charles de Gaulle back to power.

It was only in the last hours before midnight that it became clear there would be a large enough number of party lists to make the election officially valid. There had to be at least two lists in each election district for a valid contest.

Some Europeans have termed the election a farce. Obviously the public safety committee network, although deprived of much of its power when de Gaulle ordered the French Army out of Algerian

Tories Survive First Session In Manitoba

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Manitoba legislature was prorogued Friday after Premier Duff Roblin's minority Progressive Conservative government won passage of its first legislative program and survived four non-confidence votes.

Although the 19 Liberal-Progressives and 11 CCF members in the 57-seat House could have defeated the government if they had joined forces, they never got together to out-vote the 26 government supporters.

The session approved legislation providing for a new provincial school set-up, a farm credit and industrial credit plan, a winter work program and a $33,000,000 highway program.

The education bill provides for establishment of a school boundaries commission to outline 50 to 60 school divisions. The divisions will be established if the resident voters in each approve them.

Division boards would have complete control over secondary education while local districts would retain control of elementary education.

The bill also provides for increased provincial grants to education.

Human Rights 'Inadequate'

WINNIPEG (CP)—The executive vice-president of the Canadian Labor Congress says that "the human rights now accepted as the right of every citizen must not only be guaranteed, but their scope must be immeasurably broadened."

Stanley Knowles was addressing the annual human rights educational conference, sponsored by the Manitoba labor committee for human rights and the education department of the CLC.

"Canada likes to think of itself as a democratic country in which all people are equal but we have some of the worst immigration laws in the world," Mr. Knowles said. "British subjects from other countries who happen to be white can enter Canada with ease, but British subjects whose skin is black or yellow are practically prohibited from entrance into Canada."

HOME GARDEN

By HILDA BEASTALL

Myrtle Likes Our Climate

The evergreen shrub commonly called myrtle is perhaps better known in European countries than here, yet we are in the fortunate position of being able to grow it outdoors in this area.

Myrtus communis (the common myrtle) is hardy enough in most of our gardens. In fact only the zero temperatures of 1955 affected it in our garden. Even so, our shrubs arose again, Phoenix-like, from the roots.

One could almost include myrtle in the herb garden, for the scent of its small shiny green leaves is one of its attractions.

Specimens three feet high and of the same width are easily grown, and the combination of dark shiny leaves and wide open scented white flowers in summer make it of interest over a long period.

PERSISTING

The flowers are three-quarters of an inch in diameter with a bunch of long stamens decorating the centre. This year the blossoms are persisting into November and some of the black fruits have formed.

This attractive little shrub is not fussy as to soil, but it does like it well drained in winter.

Partial shade suits it, although an open, sunny position will be satisfactory, providing the soil retains moisture, for it likes plenty of water, and enjoys overhead watering during the hot weather.

Any slight pruning which might be necessary should be done in spring.

If desired as tub plants for use on a patio, myrtles should be grown on in successively larger pots until the required size is reached.

Propagation is by cuttings taken in late summer and rooted in sandy soil in the greenhouse. Should the black fruits form early enough in the season to ripen it would be interesting to try raising some seedlings.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Industrials Soar To New 1958 High

Senior industrial stocks on Wall Street advanced toward what the Associated Press described as "record high" late this afternoon.

American Telephone jumped three points to a new top for 1958, while steel and chemicals advanced two points.

The trend was reflected in Toronto, where banks and steel were the leaders, but pipelines and western oils weakened, though losses were of a fractional nature.

Senior mines held their gains of from 1/2 to 1/4 in spite of a last-hour setback.

There were few changes in the closing averages, but slight gains in some issues.

AT TORONTO, with the exception of western oils, the fastest mid-afternoon trading in a month.

Industrials and base metals index were up 1/2 of a point on a 100-point scale.

Index changes: Industrials up .36 to 507.30; golds up .06 to 81.89; base metals up .23 to 178.87; western oils off .71 to 137.54.

AT MONTREAL, prices were generally higher in active trading early this afternoon.

The papers were up but pipelines showed marginal losses at 20 1/2.

The banks were higher as were mines and oils, irregularly. Central Rio was up 5 cents at 830, Sicaletta gained 24 cents at 106, St. Lawrence River Mines declined 50 cents at 310 and United Asbestos lost 15 cents at 690.

Industrial volume was 67,600 shares, mines and oils 326,000.

AT NEW YORK, high-quality issues made good gains as the stock market advanced toward a record high late this afternoon.

American Telephone was up 3 points to a 1958 high, U.S. Steel, Du Pont, Allied Chemical, Goodyear, Johns-Manville and Pfizer rose about 2 apiece, Eastman Kodak spurted about 3.

Raytheon was another 2-point gainer, United Aircraft advanced well beyond a point made by Ford, Republic Steel, U.S. Rubber and Royal Dutch.

The Associated Press averaged 60 stocks at noon was up 40 cents to $202.80.

Among Canadian issues, Aluminum Ltd., Canadian Pacific and Dominion Mines each rose 1/2. International Nickel was down 1/4. McIntyre Petroleum was off 1 1/4. Walker Godefrin declined 1/4.

AT LONDON, turnover was slightly lower today. Gilt-edged securities were depressed.

Dollar stocks declined and oil shares were unsettled with leaders lower.

South African gold shares were irregular and copper dull but tin issues were firm.

AT VANCOUVER, prices were stronger on a moderate market during the forenoon. Proctor moved 5,000 at 18, Tidal Oils traded 2,500 at $1.03, Bethlehem Copper sold 2,000 at $1.05. Western Explorations moved 2,500 at 25.

Kitimat Takes a Soaking ---In More Ways Than One

BY HAL MALONE

Victorians who complain mildly about the rain should thank their stars they don't have to put up with what passed for weather last week in Kitimat.

Residents of northern B.C.'s newest city were thoroughly damped, physically and literally.

Kitimatians must have felt like the writer of "The Day That The Rains Came" when:

1. More than seven inches of rain fell between Sunday and Wednesday.

2. The lone highway link to Terrace—"the outside world"—was closed when a bridge washed out.

3. Travellers were forced to ride a Canadian National Railway freight into town.

Malone

3. Attorney-General Robert Bonner announced some of the city's "water supply" may be lost. The AG says the liquor store may be moved outside the municipal limits because ALCAN has raised the rent for the liquor store by $3 a front foot.

4. Skeena MLA Hugh Shirreff (SC) said the provincial government is holding up plans for a provincial building because the cost of land (from ALCAN) is too high to consider going ahead.

5. ALCAN said 150 men would be laid off before Christmas—with no drop in aluminum production at the smelter.

6. United Steelworkers' union said at least a dozen families affected by the layoff have been notified that their (already high) rent would rise 20 per cent because they are no longer with the company.

7. Lands and forests minister Ray Williston said it isn't feasible to launch the long-discussed pulp and paper mill project (in which the Powell River company is interested) due to the depressed pulp and newsprint market.

Stormy weather? That's all ALCAN'S 2,300 employees could see. The solution: they invited Attorney-General Bonner to visit the city and see condition first-hand. But the weather posed another problem—Kitimat has an average annual rain fall of 90 inches to Victoria's 27 inches. In Kitimat all the townsfolk could do was hope the weatherman would turn the tap off. If he doesn't they'll be wearing bigger and better umbrellas this year.

On the brighter side, Kitimatians and Aluminum Ltd. (ALCAN) is the major subsidiary stockholders were brightened by the company's latest financial statement. President Nathaniel Davis said third-quarter sales increased to 162,000 tons as compared with 131,000 tons in the same period last year. Part of the increase can be accounted for by considerable inventory buying in the U.S. prior to the industry's price increase announced in that market early in August.

Net income for the first nine months of 1958 was $17,988,000, a considerable drop from the 1957 total of $30,926,000. The income decrease is extreme when sales for both periods are reviewed. In the first nine months of 1958 sales hit $321,965,000 while in 1957 same period total was $339,719,000. Mr. Davis says the income picture was distorted by the "extraordinary costs" incurred as a result of the four-month strike at the company's Arvida, Que., smelter.

Bank clearings rose in Victoria last week over the same period last year. Clearings to Nov. 6 amounted to $12,173,759 compared with $11,696,412.

Inflation Ups Bank Rate

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian money pot has been bubbling with a heavy addition of new funds, but the insatiable hunger for money—and credit—appears far greater than the pot can provide.

Thus, with deepening concern over the possibility of inflation, the Bank of Canada appears to have imposed new restraints on the expansion of the country's money supply.

That, perhaps, is one of the main reasons why the central bank's interest rate has climbed steadily, week by week, reaching to 3.2 per cent last Thursday from the all-time low of 1.12 last August. The all-time high was 4.33 per cent in August last year.

The restraints appear to have been imposed amid prospects of some shortages likely in the over-all supply of mortgage money and heavy unemployment in the coming winter months.

South African gold mines in September, 1958, employed 333,000 native workers.

PRICE SPREAD PROBE IN OTTAWA, NOV. 12

OTTAWA (UPI)—The royal commission on price spreads will hold a 10-day hearing here starting Nov. 12, it was announced today.

The seven-man commission, headed by University of Alberta President Andrew Stewart, already has held hearings in the western and Atlantic provinces and in Toronto, Montreal and Quebec City.

The commission is investigating the spread of food prices between the producer and the consumer.

How you can provide

LIFE INSURANCE WITH SAVINGS FOR EACH MEMBER OF THE FAMILY

through a "program of security," tailored to your needs by a London Life representative

HERE'S AN EXAMPLE OF HOW SUCH A PLAN CAN BE DESIGNED FOR A TYPICAL CANADIAN FAMILY:

For the father: Life Insurance to assure an income for wife and children, in case his life should be cut short—an income sufficient to keep the home intact, to pay the bills for food, clothing, education, and other essentials. To meet this all-important need, many Canadian family men have purchased the London Life's low-cost "Jubilee" Whole Life plan, which provides for savings as well as protection. Provision may also be made for income in case of total disability.

For the mother: Life insurance of her own, to provide further protection to the family, and containing savings features. The insurance may be paid up while she is still in middle age. But the protection may continue through her lifetime, if desired. It may also be provided that her premiums will not be payable if her husband becomes disabled or dies.

For the children: Insurance for each son or daughter—at the low premium rates available at their present ages. This insurance can build up funds through the years, so that when the policies are eventually turned over to the children, a backlog of savings will have already accumulated. It can be provided that premiums will not be payable in the event of the father's disablement or death.

London Life men are trained to help you select the plans which will best meet the needs of the individual members of the family. Moreover, it is part of their job to keep your program adapted to changes in your situation... Today is a good day to talk to a London Life representative.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngsters who ask the first question answering each day receives a 25-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe. Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Paul McGrath, aged 11, of Fredericton, N.B., for his question:

How Was the Atlantic Ocean Named?

The name of the Atlantic Ocean is buried deep in the distant past. Its story includes a god of ancient Greece, a range of desert mountains and a race of island warriors. The ancient tale is full of legends and half-truths, which show us what men of old thought about our planet.

In early days few people knew that the earth was a round globe. Most believed that the earth was flat until just a few hundred years ago. Try to imagine the earth as a huge, flat platform. Naturally you would wonder what propped it up. And so did the ancients.

In our Age of Science when we do not know the answer to a question we say so. This leaves our minds free to go about finding—and proving—the true answer. This was not so before the Age of Science. When the ancients could not solve a problem they made up an answer. They did not know who or what was propping up their flat earth. So they invented a man for the job. This imaginary strong man, whose imaginary job was to hold up an imaginary flat earth, was Atlas, son of Titan. Since the ancient Greeks did not know that their earth was round they believed it was a huge platform supported by this demigod, Atlas.

Atlas, the strong man, was supposed to stand in the sea with the world upon his shoulders. The Greeks even imagined the place where Atlas stood. They were Mediterranean people and their gentle sea connected to a wild ocean beyond a narrow strait. To us, this is the Strait of Gibraltar. To them, it was the Pillars of Hercules. Mighty Atlas, said the Greeks, stood in the ocean beyond the Pillars of Hercules.

Legendary Island in Sea

Beyond the Pillars of Hercules; out in the wild ocean, was the legendary island of Atlantis.

About 9,000 years ago the people of Atlantis are said to have conquered most of the Mediterranean countries. There is a legend that Atlantis sank beneath the sea and all its warriors were drowned.

Meantime, the ocean, its islands, mountains and legends had become thoroughly identified with the name Atlas and Atlantis. It was natural to call it the Atlantic Ocean. At the time of Columbus most people thought that the Atlantic Ocean reached to the edge of the flat earth.

When Columbus set sail the wild Atlantic was known as the Sea of Darkness. His sailors were terrified lest they should reach the end of it and plunge off into a bottomless pit.

Now we know that the Atlantic is merely an ocean on the surface of our round globe. It is large and it is stormy. But the great Pacific Ocean could swallow it up twice and still have room to spare.

Andy sends a Hammond's Nature Atlas of America to Kimlee Neighbour, age 12, of Des Moines, Iowa, for the question:

Do Fish Ever Sleep?

No fish ever finds a bed, closes his eyes and goes to sleep. You will never catch your pet goldfish napping. Even in the dead of night he

'... But It's Nice They Haven't Forgotten Us'

By DAVID COWLESHAW

It was late at night and the military hospital in Aldershot, England, was hushed.

Suddenly, without fanfare, the street outside erupted to the crunch of wheels, and frenzied shouts tore the silence apart. Inside the hospital a soldier clambered from his bed and looked out the window.

A wagon loaded with crates of beer was rolling along the street, pulled by a yelling crowd of people with beer bottles to their lips. Two army officers stood on top throwing bottles to the clamoring mob. There were raucous songs and drunkenness.

"The armistice is signed! The armistice is signed!" they shrieked, and passed into the night. And at the hospital window CQMS Francis Inglesant Lee, 50th Battalion, Calgary Regiment, smiled and went back to sleep.

It was Nov. 11, 1918.

OUR VERY OWN ISLAND DIGEST

(Writ by hand by Our Very Own Correspondents)

WALLOPEM BEACH, V.I. — The citizens of this famous resort town are very indignant at vile rumors which are being circulated by the citizens of that infamous resort town, Luncheonville.

In fact, the citizens of this famous resort town are so indignant, boiling mad, and in a pet, that they might even get around to doing something about it, such as suing for libel or burning the mayor of Luncheonville in effigy.

What the citizens of Luncheonville have been doing is circulating rumors that Wallopem Beach has already taken in the sidewalks for the winter.

This is not true. In fact, Wallopem Beach is not going to take in the sidewalks at all.

To put it bluntly, Wallopem Beach is going to fail to take in the sidewalks ever, and so there.

It is a simple matter to prove this. Just look at the record.

Three years ago, the city fathers presented a money bylaw referendum calling for an expenditure of cash money to build sidewalks.

However, when the time came for the vote, it was the off-season, like, so nobody got around to voting. And there was no cash money around either, too.

So therefore no sidewalks were built three years ago. Since then, Wallopem Beach has failed to build sidewalks during the two succeeding years.

Thus there are no sidewalks to take in, so how can those nasty Luncheonville peasants go around saying Wallopem Beach is taking in the sidewalks for the winter? It is only fair to warn Luncheonville that Wallopem Beach may well do something about it.

LUNCHVILLE, V.I. — Rumors circulating in Wallopem Beach to the effect that rumors are circulating in Luncheonville to the effect that Wallopem Beach has already taken in the sidewalks for the winter are nothing but rumors circulating in Wallopem Beach as no such rumors are circulating in Luncheonville, any rumors to the contrary notwithstanding.

Nothing ever gets taken in in Wallopem Beach except tourists, who are taken in by Wallopem Beach's misleading claims to being a famous tourist resort.

As for the threats by Wallopem Beach citizens to do something about it, how can they?

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Movie of nature subjects will be shown Tuesday by city business man and athletic instructor Jack Todd at a meeting of the Victoria Natural history Society at 8 p.m. in the Provincial Museum.

Thief of two sweaters valued at $18.90 brought a three-month jail term in city police court today for John Pethick, no fixed address.

Pethick was charged with theft under $50 value from Spencer's Store, 1420 Douglas, to which he pleaded guilty.

What makes a good picture good? What makes a bad picture bad? These questions have stumped many a person faced with a gallery of paintings. They will be answered at 8.30 tonight at the Victoria Art Gallery by George Swinton, art historian at the University of Manitoba. He will use colored slides to illustrate his lecture, "Gold and Tinsel."

Brian Patrick Phillips, 19, of Courtenay, drove over a bank at the weekend and pleaded guilty in city police court today to charges of careless driving and being a minor in possession of liquor. Magistrate H. C. Hall fined him $35 on the first charge, $15 on the second, and suspended the youth's driver's licence.

Police said a car driven by Phillips went off a driveway at a Gorge road auto court, down a bank and stopped astride a sidewalk.

Motorist Clifton Sprague, Victoria, went to jail for three months today on his third conviction for impaired driving. He pleaded guilty to the charge and agreed with previous convictions read in court for charges in October, 1953, and August, 1958.

The new offstreet parking plan will be discussed by city public works committee Wednesday. The committee already has recommended that council take steps to prepare the way for establishment of pedestrian malls and a four-tier parking garage on View Street.

A 60-year-old woman driver is in good condition at Jubilee Hospital today recovering from rib and leg fractures received in a crash at Oaklands and Doncaster Sunday afternoon.

Police identified the victim as Catherine E. Williams, 3231 Wetherby, who was driving a car in collision with one driven by Harold Crouch, 2233 Shakespeare.

Today, in Veterans' Hospital, Quartermaster Lee, now 82, tweaked his grey moustache and pinned a huge poppy to his suit lapel.

"And after the signing I couldn't get out of the army fast enough," he said. "Next time I'll take the navy. At least I wouldn't have to run over muddy ground in full equipment in the middle of the night."

Mr. Lee did his part with the battalion in France Sept. 2, 1918. They were trying to wrest the town of Monchy-le-Preux from the Germans. They advanced.

All went well until Quartermaster Lee, rifle at the ready, stumbled and went down, down, down into a pit. At the bottom—water.

"I was carrying 500 rounds of rifle ammunition, two panniers of machine-gun ammunition and four hand grenades," Mr. Lee recalled, "and I had to get out of that hole fast. But when I got up I found two of the grenades had come unclipped. I thought I would be plastered over the face of France four seconds later."

But by some eerie quirk of fate, the firing pins did not work loose, and Quartermaster Lee lived to fight again. He dragged himself up the side of the pit and promptly stopped a bullet in his upper left arm.

The war, for him, was over.

"But before I got out of there we lost a lot of men," the old soldier continued. "There were screams, groans and blood galore. It was a ruddy good fight."

MART KENNEY CONCERT HERE FRIDAY NIGHT

Mart Kenney and his Western Gentlemen, internationally known dance band, arrived on Vancouver Island today to play five engagements this week, including a dance-concert Friday starting at 9 p.m. in Central Junior High School.

He will wind up a two and one-half month tour of B.C. in Vancouver Saturday, during which time he and his band will have visited 60 communities, sponsored by the B.C. Centennial Committee.

He plays in Lake Cowichan tonight; in Ladysmith Tuesday, in Sidney Wednesday and at Sooke on Thursday.

Centennial committee chairman L. J. Wallace said the band tour had drawn "wonderful appreciation" from each area visited, and added that he was convinced that Kenney, a native son, conducted the long tour as "a service" during centennial year more than for any other reason.

Grid Semifinal On Television

Sudden-death semi-final play-off between Montreal Alouettes and Ottawa Rough Riders will be carried live by Channels 2 and 6 Wednesday from 9.55 a.m. to 12.30 p.m. Winner of the game meets Hamilton Tiger-Cats in a two-game total-point series for the Eastern Canadian championship and a berth in the Grey Cup.

WEDNESDAY MEETINGS

Are Schools Doing Good Job? Teachers' Panel Seeks Answer

The challenge of science and the value of today's educational system will be explored this week when 750 Greater Victoria teachers hold their annual convention.

Dr. G. M. Shrum, physics department head and dean of graduate studies at the University of B.C. will discuss "Science—A Promise and a Challenge" Thursday at 8 p.m. in Victoria High School auditorium.

The meeting, marking the start of the two-day teachers' convention, will be open to the public.

SCHOOL HOLIDAY

Friday, while local pupils are given the day off, a panel will try to answer the question: "Are Today's Schools Preparing Tomorrow's Citizens As Well As Yesterday's Schools Prepared Today's Citizens?"

Panel members will be E. G. Stroyan, MacMillan and Bloedel public relations director; Tony Emery, Victoria College faculty member; Sadie Boyles, of the UBC college of education; and Prof. Charles Burchill, of Canadian Services College at Royal Roads. Chairman will be B. C. Gillie, principal of S. J. Willis Junior High School.

Another provocative subject to be discussed during the convention sessions in Victoria High School Friday will be: "Should the junior high school social studies program be a bit of everything and not much of anything?"

Other topics to be discussed will include surveys of the new arithmetic program, the science program in junior high schools and the application of English to business and civic life.

Yes, a ruddy good fight, and one which Mr. Lee often thinks about as he strolls around the hospital. A slight man, he has a back you could test a spirit-level on.

It's the rest of his battalion he remembers most. His comrades, the men he fought side by side with so long ago. A lot never came back. Some did and now, like him, they read mysteries "and all the books I can get hold of" and watch the countries of the world trying to outlaw wars and the misery that follows them.

Mr. Lee believes he was one of the luckier ones. Two medals jingling on his chest, he came to Victoria when he left hospital and became a commercial traveller. He married, too. Mrs. Lee lives at 130 Croft Street. There are two daughters.

"Life is pretty tame now," Mr. Lee said, rather sadly. "I used to like cricket and go rowing quite a bit—heck, I'd still like to but I can't do much with this," and he held up his left arm.

It's a good arm. It works and although he cannot lift it over his head, he can hold a cup of tea with it. But more, it's an arm that reminds him of the foolishness of men.

"Wars are no good," Mr. Lee commented, adjusting his military tie. "But it's nice that they still have poppy days and that people haven't forgotten us. We old-timers like that."

And with that, the 50th Battalion's old quartermaster-sergeant turned and, in step with the ghosts of those who didn't make it to the end, walked slowly away.

Nomination Day Set for Dec. 8

BURGLAR QUIT, BUT NOT IN TIME

A burglar who said he was caught just as he had given up trying to break into a downtown building pleaded guilty to breaking and entering when he appeared in city police court today.

Donald Roy Read, no fixed address, was stopped in a dark doorway off an alley at the rear of Wills Mahood Pharmacy, 627 Yates, at 12.35 a.m. Friday.

"I was trying to break in," a constable quoted him as saying.

Read was remanded to Friday for probation report and sentence.

In court Read told Magistrate H. C. Hall: "I was on my way out. I had given up the attempt. I'd had a few drinks."

Court was shown a screw driver taken from Read and part of a door panel which had been pried off the building.

Saanich Old-Timer Dies at 88

A lifelong resident of Victoria, Wilfred Stephen Butler, died Sunday in Mount St. Mary nursing home, aged 88.

Prayers will be offered in Hayward's chapel Wednesday at 8 p.m. and requiem mass will be held Thursday at 10 a.m. in the Church of the Assumption, West Saanich Road. Burial will be in the church cemetery.

Born on Mount Newton Cross Road in Saanich, Mr. Butler had lived on Keating Cross Road in recent years. He had farmed in Saanich most of his life.

SEVEN SONS

He was an honorary member of the Saanich Pioneers Society.

Survivors include seven sons: Wilfred, Clarence and Adrian, all of Saanich; Vincent and Alex of Victoria, Humphrey of Mesachie Lake, and Maurice, Haney, B.C.; three daughters: Mrs. J. F. Crossley, Victoria; Mrs. J. McCallum, Mill Bay, and Mrs. D. Joyce, Saanich; also two sisters, Mrs. May Ludlow and Mrs. Gladys Gabb, both of Saanich.

He is also survived by 24 grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

Seaman Shouted At Prayer Meet; Awaits Sentence

A naval seaman who shouted at a street corner religious gathering Sunday night pleaded guilty in city police court today to causing a disturbance.

Norman Dandenault, 20, was remanded to Wednesday for sentence by Magistrate H. C. Hall.

Court was told Dandenault stood on Yates, cupped his hands to his mouth and shouted across the street where a church service was being conducted.

"Why were you trying to break up this meeting?" the court asked.

"I have no reason for that, Your Honor," Dandenault replied.

VICTORIA REMEMBERS

On Tuesday, Greater Victoria will remember.

Tribute will be paid in churches, in chapels, in homes, and at war memorials to the men and women whose lives were lost fighting Canada's battles.

For many, the two-minute's silence before 11 a.m. will be the most solemn moment of the year—remembrance and heartfelt prayers.

Main observance will be at the Cenotaph fronting the legislative buildings, starting a few minutes before 11.

In Saanich, a 2 p.m. service will be held at Memorial Gore Park on Shelbourne; at Oak Bay, a 3 p.m. service will be held at the memorial in Uplands Park, while an 11 a.m. service will be held in Esquimalt's Memorial Park.

It's 40 years ago now but the horror of the first world war still lives in the memory of old soldiers like former Quartermaster Francis Inglesant Lee, now 82, a patient in Veterans' Hospital.

All Parties Rush By-Election Plans

The B.C. cabinet today fixed Dec. 8 as nomination day for the Rossland-Trail byelection to elect a member to the seat in the legislature vacated by former lands and forests minister Robert Sommers.

The by-election takes place seven days later on Dec. 15.

Nominations will be received at the courthouse at Rossland.

Premier Bennett had still not returned to his office from vacation this morning, but signs of election fever were evident around the Legislative Buildings.

Electoral officer Fred Hurley and his staff were gearing their machinery for the taking of the vote.

GETTING SET

All four political parties are oiling their campaign machinery and will choose their candidates within the next seven days.

The Conservatives and Liberals each will choose their standard bearers at Rossland Saturday.

The CCF will name its candidate on Friday and the Social Credit party will choose its candidate the following Monday.

Memorial Service

A Remembrance Day service will be held by the Victoria British Israel Association Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Newstead Hall, 734 Fort Street.

CABLESHIP OUT

So far, all calls between Victoria and Vancouver have been adequately handled on the circuit, reduced from 70 to 30 lines.

The cable ship Brico left Vancouver at midnight Sunday and is now in the area searching for the break.

Underwater Cable Break Cuts Phones

Gulf Island telephone communication with Vancouver Island and the mainland was cut, and communications between Victoria and Vancouver reduced 50 per cent, because of malfunction of the submarine cable over the weekend.

Telephone officials said today they believe water leaking into the cable casing caused the break. The trouble started Saturday.

The difficulty is believed to be in an eight-mile stretch of cable between Beaver Point on Salt Spring Island and Swartz Bay near Sidney.

City Clerk Refuses Apology to Jaycees

City Clerk Frank Hunter today said he would not make an apology demanded by Junior Chamber of Commerce president Ray Rawnsley.

Mr. Rawnsley made the demand in a letter to city council claiming "an unwarranted attack by Mr. Hunter" on the Jaycees' annual spring fair because it is held shortly before the May 24 celebrations.

He denied that the Jaycees "stole" the carnival, May Queen and car raffle events from the Greater Victoria Celebrations Committee. He also said that a $250 grant by the Jaycees to the celebrations committee, which Mr. Hunter had termed "picaresque," was generous in comparison to some municipal grants.

ANSWERED QUESTIONS

Mr. Hunter, past president of the celebrations committee, replied that he had not made any charges against the Jaycees but had merely answered queries of the city finance committee.

"I told them what our experience had been when the Jaycees began running the carnival, May Queen and car raffle events immediately before ours were held," he said. "I gave the facts and I will not make any apology."

GET TOGETHER

Acting Mayor Arthur Dowell said he hoped that the clash over dates of events "would not develop into a feud between the celebrations committee and the Jaycees. I'd like to see them get together and solve this problem."

He said council would be open to severe criticism if it took away concessions the Jaycees have had for several years.

However, he noted that the celebrations committee was faced with difficulty in raising revenues because of the date conflict.

"Possibly the problem would be smaller if the other municipalities took a greater part in the celebrations committee," he said.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. Is it not the case that a salaried staff is maintained at Community Chest headquarters? Is the financial statement of the Chest's operation published in the press? G.K.

A. The salaried staff consists of the executive secretary, the accountant, and a stenographer, with another clerk brought in for the Chest campaign. However, the staff is not just there for the money drive, but administers the fund the year round. The financial statement was not published in the press last year, but there were several notices that if any member of the public wanted an audited statement of Chest activities, they had only to ask. The same procedure likely will be followed this year.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily. All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve controversies or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to dealers.

It's Time to Bake Those Festive Christmas Cakes!

By PENNY SAVER

I've been shopping for the makings you'll be using in your Christmas fruit cakes! Now's the time you know, to bake the traditional festive cakes and here are the materials you'll need: Cut mixed peels . . . to add a colorful and tasty touch are priced at 45 cents a box; glass cherries are a "must" in any Christmas cake at 39 cents per package; ginger . . . well you can really give a spicy tang to dark or light cake with this at 32 cents a pack.

You can't boast a true fruit cake without adding walnuts . . . now can you? The tasty nuts are 24 cents a box. Cut mixed fruit is another necessity for the cake. It is priced at 24 cents.

Raisins . . . and believe me, no fruit cake is a true one without them, cost 29 cents a large box.

Do that holiday baking now, before the big rush starts . . . you'll be glad later on.

Career gals will go along with me, I know, when I say how nice it is on returning to a cold room, apartment or home around six in the evening, to jump into a pair of warm slacks!

A pair or two of the wool or corduroy slacks I saw the other day would be just the thing for lounging around on cold winter evenings. They start in price at $3.88.

Come those cold winter nights you'll be glad you're wearing this warm, flannel-ette nightgown! It's as dainty as can be, fashioned with lace trimmed neckline, cuffs and hem. The cost for it is only $2.95.

Don't wait to phone me . . . do it now, while you're thinking about it! My number is EV 2-3131.

I've heard that jealousy is a sign that your husband loves you, but I would almost rather he didn't love me so much. He was late in getting home from work the night we were going to a Masonic dance so I was already dressed. I was wearing a dress that needs to be hooked up the back. He had always hooked it for me. He asked, "Who hooked it for you?" I told him, "Nobody. I hooked it myself with much difficulty." He unhooked the dress and made me prove to him I could hook it myself. I perspired all the make-up off my face and almost dislocated my shoulder. How do you handle a man like that?

STUMPED.

DEAR STUMPED: Don't let him "hook you" for any more demonstrations. A faithful wife shouldn't have to break her arm in order to prove her fidelity.

DEAR ABBY: How did the "trick-or-treat" racket ever get started? I have grown to dread Halloween. One does not dare to go any place, but must stay home and protect his property unless he wants to spend the next few days washing soap off screens and windows and cleaning up garbage that has been dumped on his lawn and porch. I have not much extra money but I am forced to buy a large supply of candy bars and taffy apples to give to overgrown hoodlums who ring my doorbell and demand a hand-out in payment for not damaging my property. Where are the police? IRATE CITIZEN.

DEAR IRATE: I see no harm in handing out penny candy to little tykes under 12 who ring my bell to show off their masks and costumes. But "overgrown hoodlums" who demand hand-outs as "protection" against damaging property should be tossed in the cooler. The police departments work hard maintaining law and order on that night, and they have welcome help from volunteer groups, too.

DEAR ABBY: I am a hairdresser by profession and I get enough hairdressing six days a week, eight hours a day. Every Sunday we go to visit my husband's people. They all line up for free haircuts, touch-ups and permanents. Even the men. I did nine heads last Sunday and I am plumb fed up. I don't mind doing my mother-in-law, but the others are young and healthy enough to go to a beauty parlor and pay for it. Should I tell them off and if so, how? TIED.

DEAR TIED: If you don't want them in your hair forever, stay out of theirs. Tell them in plain English you don't want to spend your only day off working.

DEAR ABBY: I am a boy that rides the bus to school. Every time I get on the bus, the next door neighbor girl saves me a seat beside her. How can I tell her I don't want to sit with her without hurting her feelings?

BUS RIDER.

DEAR BUS: You can't tell her you don't want to sit with her without hurting her feelings. If she annoys you too much to make polite small talk—open one of your books and "study."

THAT at the Annual Meeting of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology, Dr. Robert Gesell, Chairman of the Department of Physiology at the University of Michigan, stated on April 15, 1952:

"We are drowning and suffocating unanesthetized animals in the name of science. We are determining the amount of abuse that life will endure in unanesthetized animals in the name of science. We are producing frustration ulcers in experimental animals under shocking conditions in the name of science. We are observing animals for weeks, months or even years under infamous conditions in the name of science. What a travesty of Humanity! This may well prove to be the blackest spot in the history of medical science."

DO YOU KNOW

THAT many doctors oppose vivisection practices. Dr. Beddow Bayley in his book "Spotlights on Vivisection" states:

"It is admitted by many scientists that no human disease can accurately be reproduced experimentally in an animal or even a man. It follows that remedies based upon the treatment of artificially induced conditions can never fit naturally acquired diseases and many even prove dangerous." Dr. Desjardins, President of the Society of Surgeons of Paris, said: "I have never known a single operator who has learned anything whatsoever from experiments on animals." The British Medical Journal, Lancet, in an editorial in 1944, stated: "It is notoriously dangerous to apply experimental results from animals to the treatment of human beings because human and animal physiology show subtle but important differences."

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Not Beautiful From Without—She Attained It From Within

Not long ago one of my readers wrote to me saying, "I read you very carefully, especially when you philosophize, and I find that we have mutual ideas about what ages women most; namely, wrong attitudes, tantrums, uncharitableness, or poor dispositions."

"You see, long ago I made up my mind that if I couldn't be beautiful from the outside I would try very hard to be beautiful from within. I found that pettiness of soul and cattiness would not give me the face I wanted to see looking back at me from the mirror. Maybe I ain't beautiful, but when I am being good most people smile when they see me coming."

I imagine that all of them smile because there is nothing quite so magnetic as an outgoing, happy, tolerant, receptive spirit. The woman who is keenly aware of others, who has decided that she cannot afford the clutter of petty emotions and give to life or get from it what she wants, never lacks for friends.

Negative emotions such as envy, sensitiveness, irritability, jealousy and intolerance do clutter our outlook so that we miss a great deal of the beauty and fun of everyday living. There is no telling what they do to our health. We suspect that they can upset our hormone balance.

We know that they have an effect on our complexion, the chemistry of our saliva, our respiration, heart beat and blood pressure, and that stress raises the cholesterol content in our blood. This is evidence enough that we cannot afford them if we wish to have fine health.

The indulgence in such emotions and attitudes so dull perception that it is like looking at the sun through dark glasses. We all run into irritating situations and people who are unkind and unfair, but these lose much of their sting when exposed to the larger view.

Thinking of inner and outer beauty, it seems such a loss that so many women fail to develop their personalities because they are not born beautiful or pretty, especially in this shopping for electricity today?

If you were to go to the store and buy electricity in packages, you'd quickly see how much you get for so little money! The good value you get in electricity is even more apparent when you put it to work for you—lighting, cooking, cleaning, washing, sewing, heating, entertaining. Our records show that the average B.C. Electric residential customer now uses nearly three times as much electricity as in 1946, but pays less per kilowatt hour. Electricity is one of today's big bargains. It does dozens of tasks day and night—dependably, efficiently, and best of all, economically.

LIFE OF MACKENZIE KING

Historic Stuff
In Scots Stock

Serialization of this new and official unpublished biography of Mackenzie King began last Saturday in the Times Weekend Magazine. It will continue daily Monday to Friday in the news columns of the Times and in Saturday's Weekend Magazine.

By ROBERT MacGREGOR DAWSON

William Lyon Mackenzie King was born in Ontario, at Berlin, now known as Kitchener, on Dec. 17, 1874. His four grandparents had been born in Scotland and had come to Canada within the period 1820-34, forming a part of the great surge of immigration which was to last until the middle of the century.

All belonged to the same sturdy, industrious, Presbyterian stock, and in one of them, at least, intellectual vigor and independence, characteristic of the Scot, had begun to assert themselves. The notable contribution made by Scotland to Canada is in no way disparaged by the reflection that this little group of four and their issue have probably left a deeper imprint on Canadian life than any similar group in her history.

Mackenzie King's paternal grandfather, John King, was the son of an Englishman who had married a Scottish girl of some substance and come to live near Fraserburgh, Aberdeenshire. Here John King was born in April, 1814.

At the age of 19 he enlisted as a gunner in the Royal Artillery and in 1834, following a period of training at Woolwich, he was sent to Canada. He was stationed at Kingston at the time of the 1837 Rebellion, and after some years was made a bombardier and placed in charge of a small detachment at Prescott. He was later moved to Grosse Isle, Que.

In 1840 he became engaged to Christina Macdougall, who

Squads Sift
Fire Rubble;
Fear 20 Dead

MONTREAL (CP) — Teams of black-clad fire rescue experts today rummaged cautiously through tons of torn rubble for at least 10 more victims of a weekend holocaust that engulfed a midtown apartment building.

Civil Defence headquarters, co-ordinating the list of dead and missing after Sunday's searing pre-dawn fire, said that eight bodies have been removed, 10 others are "positively missing" and at least two others may have perished in the blaze.

The list indicated a death toll of 20.

Working slowly, firemen clawed their way into the brick, wood and plaster debris in the sad hope of discovering more victims before the building's remaining walls are brought tumbling down by a crane later today.

The rescue teams, who worked in shifts through the cold, wet night with searchlights illuminating the silent scene, also are seeking evidence of the cause of the blaze.

A bloated gas stove and reports of explosions when the fire started are their chief clues at present.

Only three bodies have been identified—those of theology student John Sim, 26, his wife Carol, of Westville, N.S., and Louis Dunn, 23, of Montreal.

Five of the known missing are believed to have perished in one room where they were having a friendly calypso session.

Wild Plane Hits
TCA Viscount

NEW YORK (CP)—A big American-owned cargo aircraft ran amok on takeoff at Idlewild Airport today, carrying flaming destruction to a Trans-Canada Air Lines Viscount before the eyes of 26 waiting passengers.

The crash delayed Trans-Canada Air Lines schedules out of New York as much as two hours. TCA shifted operations from Idlewild to La Guardia airport and flights to Montreal and Toronto were delayed, a spokesman said.

It was "pure luck" that the TCA turbo-prop plane had not loaded the passengers just before it was struck by the careening Super-Constellation aircraft that went out of control on takeoff, an airline spokesman said.

"Six minutes more and the plane would have been loaded. It was in position, but there had been a slight delay."

Eight persons—including two stewardesses aboard the Viscount—suffered minor injuries.

ON TRAINING FLIGHT

The Constellation, owned by Seaboard and Western Airlines, had just lifted from the ground on a training flight when trouble developed and it dropped back on the runway.

Out of control, the plane plunged headlong toward the domestic flight depot—and the TCA four-engine plane waiting for passengers.

The two planes locked together in a burst of flame and swerved against a wall of the cement-block depot structure. The five crew members of the Constellation escaped serious injury.

The spectacular accident occurred only a few minutes before the TCA airliner was to start receiving passengers for its flight No. 325 to Montreal.

Court Orders
Integration
At Little Rock

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The U.S. eighth circuit court of appeals directed today that the Little Rock, Ark., school board take steps to accomplish integration of Negro students as previously ordered by the courts.

The three-judge court directed Arkansas federal district judge John E. Miller to enjoin the school board "from taking any further steps or action without the approval of the district court to transfer possession, control or operation, whether directly or indirectly, of any of the senior high schools or any other property" for operation of segregated schools.

The 23-page decision was handed down 27 days after final arguments were heard on whether Little Rock's four public high schools could be leased for use as private, segregated institutions.

Private school facilities were set up in Little Rock for white students only after Governor Orval E. Faubus closed the public schools to prevent integration.

Syria Jets Attack
Hussein

TEL AVIV, Israel (Reuters) —King Hussein of Jordan today accused two Syrian MIG jet fighters of trying to shoot down his private plane over Syria on his way to a now-cancelled vacation in Switzerland.

Syrian authorities denied the accusation.

The 23-year-old monarch fled back to Jordan without suffering injury "through a miracle of God" he said in an Amman broadcast monitored here.

According to a United Arab Republic communique broadcast by Cairo Radio, Hussein had not cleared his flight in advance and refused to land as ordered at Damascus Airport to supply the required information.

Hussein returned to Amman 2½ hours after leaving for his planned three-week "convalescent leave" in Switzerland.

Hussein told his people he has cancelled his visit to Europe. He said his government would take the necessary steps to reply to "the attack on his aircraft."

All details of the attack were given to United Nations envoy Pierre Spinnelli, the broadcast said.

He said the MIGs dived six times at his plane with their guns firing. He also claimed they pursued him over the border deep into Jordanian territory.

Amman radio said the Jordanian Parliament will convene today for "an important announcement affecting the future of Jordan."

Details of Big Peace River
Plan This Week

By HAL MALONE, Times Business Editor

The B.C. Electric Co. today joined hands with the mammoth Wenner-Gren interests and three other companies in a proposed half-billion dollar hydro power scheme on the Peace River.

A company spokesman confirmed that the B.C. Electric has a one-fifth interest in Peace River Development Co., the firm set up to develop the project which officials say would include the world's largest dam.

The spokesman said the B.C. Electric, Wenner-Gren interests and Associated Electrical Industries, a British company, have one-fifth shares each in the new hydro-development firm.

It has been reported that W. C. Mainwaring, who retired recently as vice-president of the B.C. Electric, will be named head of the new company.

Names of the other two companies will be released Wednesday at a lavish meeting of directors in Vancouver.

Directors will include Viscount Alexander, former governor-general of Canada, now recuperating from a heart attack in an Ottawa hospital; Lord Tweedsmuir, son of a former governor-general; Bernard Gore, of Wenner-Gren interests; Sir Andrew McTaggart of Associated Electrical Industries and "several prominent B.C. men."

STALLED

Some of Canada's top power experts believe that if Swedish promoter Axel Wenner-Gren is allowed to proceed with his plan to build dams on the Peace River and transmit power some 600 miles to Vancouver the development of the Columbia River will be stalled until the early 1980s.

They say it would saddle B.C. with "high cost power" for a generation.

Conservative estimates of the additional cost of Peace River power to B.C. consumers has been estimated at $90,000,000 a year. It is estimated that Columbia River power would cost B.C. users 2.3 mills per kilowatt hour, compared with 6.3 mills from Wenner-Gren.

Confirmation of the B.C. Electric's participation in the Peace River Power Development Company came less than 24 hours after a company official denied for the second time that the BCE was involved in the scheme.

Harry L. Purdy, executive vice-president of the BCE, termed as "rubbish" Sunday a report that the company and Wenner-Gren interests were working hand-in-hand on the Peace River power deal.

GRAUER IN EAST

Concurrent with Mr. Purdy's denial came a weekend report that BCE president, A. E. Grauer, was in Ottawa enlisting support for the plan.

A company spokesman admitted Mr. Grauer was in the East but said he didn't visit Ottawa. The federal government hasn't yet discussed the Wenner-Gren project on a cabinet level.

Mr. Gore said Sunday the scheme is "entirely feasible economically and we are going to have it."

Asked if he believed the development of the Peace River would take place, he replied: "Definitely it is."

He said he will reveal everything about the company's plans Wednesday.

Purdy said the BCE is interested mainly in determining how much Peace River power would cost delivered to the mainland. If further engineering studies prove Peace River power is economical, BCE would buy it, he said.

BY 1966

He set 1966 as a target date for construction of "the largest dam in the world," depending on whether further surveys are encouraging.

He wouldn't elaborate but it is believed the dam would be built in the vicinity of Dawson Creek in the eastern part of B.C. The dam would

Ike Outlines
5-Point Plan
Of Asian Aid

SEATTLE (AP)—President Eisenhower today set forth a five-point program of international economic aid for Asian nations. He pledged full United States co-operation in erecting "barriers against tyranny and the war which tyranny breeds."

The president put no overall price tag on the program and did not estimate the U.S. share of the cost. But he called on the heavily Democratic new Congress to provide adequate—and additional—financial resources to help 700,000,000 people in free Asia.

Eisenhower outlined his aid plan in an address prepared for delivery at a meeting of diplomats attending the 18-nation Colombo Plan conference on co-operative economic assistance for South and Southeast Asia.

Eisenhower recommended: 1. Expansion of international trade. He said the larger part of capital goods required for economic development must be financed through such trade and he once more advised relaxation of restrictions hindering its flow.

2. Wider sharing of technical skills, which he described as the bedrock of economic development. He promised the U.S. will press its own program in that field "even more vigorously than in the past."

3. Ever greater emphasis on private investment. The president said the resources of American private capital are far larger than the amount the government can provide for projects in free Asia. Government resources need to be drawn upon to the greatest extent possible, but the Asian nations should also explore the full potentialities of private enterprise.

4. Greater provision for public loans on normal bankable

Mackenzie King was very fond of recalling how two conflicting strains had been brought together by his parents' marriage, for though both his grandfathers had been engaged in the rebellion of 1837-38 they had fought on opposite sides.

William Lyon Mackenzie (his maternal grandfather who led the short-lived revolt of 1837 in Upper Canada) was obviously in the thick of the revolt, while John King was stationed with the artillery at Kingston and had actually fired on a small force which had invaded Canada from the United States.

Mackenzie King's parents, John King and Isabel Grace Mackenzie, were married at Toronto on Dec. 12, 1872, when both were in their 30th year.

The Kings had four children: Isabel Christina Grace (Bella), born Nov. 15, 1873; William Lyon Mackenzie (Willie), born Dec. 17, 1874; Janet Lindsey (Jennie), born Aug. 27, 1876; and Douglas Macdougall (Max), born Nov. 11, 1878.

The family lived in three houses in the first 14 years of their life in Berlin. Mackenzie King was born in the first of these on Benton Street, which was later demolished to make way for another building. In 1886 they moved to their fourth home, Woodside, situated about a mile out of town, where they lived until they left Berlin seven years later. Woodside was regarded by all the Kings as their real home.

The fact that Woodside was in the country meant that in their younger days the King children were isolated and forced to draw upon themselves for companionship. Bella and Willie tended to pair off together and Jennie and Max, but as only five years separated the oldest and youngest, they frequently pooled their interests and resources.

As they grew older, other children were able to come to Woodside more easily and Mr. and Mrs. King were unusually hospitable hosts.

The family especially enjoyed singing as a group around the piano in the evening. Mrs. King or one of the girls played the piano, Mr. King the castanets, and the others provided a vigorous chorus, whether popular airs, variety songs, or, on Sundays, hymns from the Presbyterian Book of Praise. In later years Mackenzie King continued to derive extraordinary pleasure from this informal singing of hymns, a fondness which he shared with one of his great contemporaries, Mr. Lloyd George.

From his earliest years Willie lived in a political atmosphere, for William Lyon Mackenzie and the Liberal tradition were integral parts of the family environment. Moreover, John King was an ardent politician, who, while he lived in Berlin, was very active in electioneering and had been asked on several occasions to run as a Liberal candidate.

An Embrace

Mrs. King, however, objected to any election contests in the family on the ground that her father's experience had given her all the politics she wanted in her lifetime. Willie's initiation came when as a child he attended a meeting addressed by Sir John A. Macdonald:

"The first general election I recall was in 1882. I was seven. Sir John came to Berlin (now Kitchener), where, at the time, my father was practicing law. All who have had an opportunity of knowing and seeing Sir John are today grateful for having had that opportunity. I remember best not the political argument but that Sir John was presented with some flowers by a pretty young lady whom he thanked with an embrace. I could do nothing but envy him, and decided then that politics had its rewards."

At Berlin High School, Willie's skill as a debater soon far exceeded that of any of his classmates. He took part in amateur theatricals. When a spokesman was needed for any special occasion, such as a presentation to the principal or to the physical training instructor, Willie King was the one usually chosen to read the accompanying address.

He was a natural mischief-maker, and his teachers at school soon learned to turn to Willie King when they were at a loss to find the cause of any major disturbance.

School Pranks

A number of stories are still remembered by Willie's schoolmates.

One autumn day he and another boy (who later did penance for his misdemeanor by becoming a missionary) were caught stealing apples from an orchard near the school. J. W. Connor, the principal, promptly expelled them; but they waylaid him after school and made a moving appeal. "Billie did the talking, and I did the blubbing," said his fellow culprit, and the combination proved so effective that reinstatement followed.

On another occasion Willie was the chief actor in a practical joke played on the biggest boy in the school. He contrived to place several bad eggs in the boy's pockets, and then proceeded with a number of other students to "hustle" him. The desired result ensued.

The victim with a sure instinct turned on Willie and tried to catch him in the general skirmish, but Willie took to his heels and escaped, though in his haste he ran through the middle of a glass cold frame in a neighboring garden. Willie King's early reputation for ragging, and breaking the scholastic peace was clearly well founded.

Fond of Girls

His appearance was unimpressive, with heavy features, a large mouth, unruly hair, and a thick-set rugged physique. But he was very friendly and approachable, willing to talk freely, and quick to respond with a smile and a twinkle in his blue eyes. He was a good mixer and generally liked.

He was fond of girls, although he showed no special preference for any one, finding it better or safer to play the field. They, in turn, liked him, and he was a high favorite with Jennie and Isabel's friends.

Education was regarded by the Kings with all the respect and some of the passion of the Scot, and though they could in one sense ill afford it, none questioned the need or desirability of money spent for this purpose. The children were given as good an education as Berlin could provide, a government was engaged for some time at Woodside, and Bella was sent to a girls' school in Toronto.

Willie went to university for his arts course and Max for medicine, although these imposed heavy hardships on those at home, who were already finding it none too easy to meet even their own expenses. So far as the boys could assist, they did so, and after Willie began advanced work he gradually became self-supporting.

Russia Demands Sweeping A-Ban

GENEVA (AP) — Russia today demanded sweeping nuclear disarmament and elimination of foreign military bases as its price for accepting an international warning system against surprise attacks.

Vassili Kuznetsov, Russian deputy foreign minister, opened an East-West conference on the prevention of surprise attacks with a thinly veiled denunciation of American foreign policy.

He said the policy of "positions of strength and the brink of war" was mainly responsible for the growing fear of surprise attacks.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Soviet Union has proposed that the General Assembly endorse UN control of a ban on military space rockets and elimination of foreign bases.

LONDON — The 80 members of the cast filled the stage for the grand finale of Boris Godunov at the Covent Garden Opera House. The rich bass of Boris Christoff boomed through the house. Then disaster struck.

The horse on stage started to rumble inside, louder and louder. The cast sang louder — and the horse rumbled louder — until the singers finally drowned out the embarrassing rumbles by sheer volume.

It seems that members of the cast were fond of feeding peppermints to Bubbles, kept in a comfortable stall nightly as a "prop." They evidently fed her too many.

LAURENS, Iowa — Mrs. E. W. Lind served up pheasant to her family Sunday — the first day of the hunting season and the first one she had ever bagged. She found it under her daughter's bed.

WINNIPEG — Alderman J. Gurzon Harvey hurried on to the stage at Winnipeg's Playhouse Theatre Sunday. He was late. The public meeting was in progress.

Unflustered, he launched into his speech to the Canadian Polish Congress as the mayor's representative at Polish independence day ceremonies.

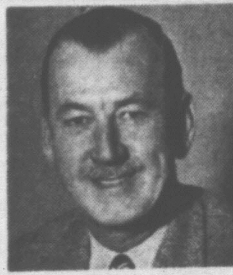

The audience of 350 tittered. They were attending a meeting of the Communist-sponsored Canadian-Soviet Friendship Society, marking the anniversary of the Russian revolution.

Mr. Harvey finished the speech, then dashed away to the Civic Auditorium where the stoutly anti-Communist Canadian Polish Congress was meeting.

LONDON — Kenneth Evans, 18, a piggery worker, looked around to see why the pigs were being so quiet while he cleaned their pen. Evans found they were eating his pay. He salvaged just $1 of the $15 that had fallen from his pocket.

South Africa in 1958 had about twice as many radio sets as telephones.

Two Children Die as Fire Guts Williams Lake Home

(From CP Dispatches)

WILLIAMS LAKE — Two small children were burned to death Saturday night when fire swept through the upper portion of a building housing three families near Williams Lake in the Cariboo district.

Eleven other persons in the building reached safety.

Police at Glendale identified the youngsters as three-year-old Richard Walter Tresierra and his two-year-old brother, Ronald. Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Tresierra, were not at home at the time of the blaze.

Firemen and equipment from Williams Lake sped to the scene but could not save the youngsters. The fire was believed to have started in one of two suites in the upper floor of the building.

G.N. DERAILED

VANCOUVER — The last four cars of a Great Northern Railway passenger train bound for Seattle were derailed a few hundred yards outside the Vancouver terminal Sunday night.

One unidentified person suffered minor injuries. Railway officials said the train apparently hit a broken track.

STRIKE VOTE RIGGED

PENTICTON — J. Clayton Walls, southern interior director of the International Woodworkers of America, charged Saturday that certain employers had intimidated their workers into voting against strike action Friday in a government-supervised ballot.

Employees of 15 operations in British Columbia's interior have voted against striking while those of 15 others voted to strike. One plant has yet to report.

Mr. Walls claimed the majority of plants that voted against strike action were operations employing only a few men. He said the "big four" operations in this area voted by a substantial margin to strike.

He claimed the result was rigged by certain employers and the labor department itself.

FIRST GRAIN ON FGE

LANDMARK GUTTED

VERNON — A prominent Okanagan valley landmark, Vernon's H. W. Smith building, was destroyed by fire Sunday.

There was no official estimate of the damage.

Two Await Sentencing For Thefts

Two men pleaded guilty in city police court today to theft of $150 worth of auto parts and accessories from a car parked on Douglas Sunday night.

They were Daniel T. MacDonald, 1215 North Park, and Ralph Hack, 218 Kingston, who were arrested at MacDonald's address and charged with theft over $50 value.

Both men were remanded to Friday for probation report and sentence.

Cons. Ronald Ferguson said he noticed a car parked suspiciously on a lot between Fred's Esso Service and Victoria Monument Ltd. in the 3000 block Douglas at 9:30 p.m.

He said he found it contained a car radio, spotlight, aerial, horn ring, door handles, cigarette lighter, ash trays, bulbs and switches.

Outside was the wheel and tire from another car.

Nearby, on the service station lot, was a car owned by B. Froud, 3944 Cedar Hill Road, from which the property had been stripped.

Police checked the registered owner of the first car and found it to be MacDonald. Cons. Ferguson said he went to 1215 North Park and awaited MacDonald's return at 1 a.m.

TRAFFIC FINES

In Sidney RCMP court, Friday:

Charles Hedley Meyers, Work Point, $15 and $5.50 costs for failing to submit accident reports.

Ernest Brett Trimble, Sidney, $20 and $3.50 for speeding.

A 17-year-old Sidney juvenile, $10 and $5 costs for failing to stop at a stop sign, and two months probation for driving with inadequate muffler.

Iraq Premier to Hang

DAMASCUS (AP)—Radio Baghdad announced today Iraq's supreme military court has sentenced ex-premier Fadhil Jamali to be hanged.

Plane SOS Heard

LISBON (AP)—A U.S. Navy search plane today reported picking up a distress signal off Cape St. Vincent where a Portuguese flying boat is missing with 36 persons on board.

I was a sleepless wreck

My nerves grated from lack of sleep. Indigestion bothered me. I felt jittery, depressed, drained of all ambition and energy.

Some people suffer unpleasantness because their systems are aggravated by elements in everyday beverages. This is particularly true of those with "nervous" temperaments.

While some people can drink tea, coffee, cocoa and some soft drinks without harm, others cannot.

Postum does not contain stimulants such as caffeine, theophylline or theobromine which can rob you of sleep, irritate your nerves, speed up pulse with subsequent depressing let-down. Postum does not contain tannin to give you indigestion, nor any other ingredient to cause you harm.

Switch to Instant Postum, the beverage of comfort! Postum tastes and acts like no other beverage. Postum has its own distinctive flavor. Make Postum instantly, right in your cup. Just add freshly boiling water, or hot milk, stir and enjoy.

Try Postum for 30 days. When nerves are soothed, you sleep better, feel better, look better. Get Instant Postum at your grocer's. Costs less than 1¢ a cup. A product of General Foods, Limited.

Much depends on whether the federal cabinet will interfere with a freight-rate increase which the railways are expected to get from the board of transport commissioners before the strike is due to start.

The unions have agreed to settle on the basis of a federal conciliation board's majority report recommending wage increases averaging out to about 14 cents an hour. The railways put off a decision on whether to accept the report while they applied for higher freight rates.

Government informants say the cabinet almost certainly will not kill this request for a 19-per-cent freight rate increase of around $60,000,000 a year, despite its hold-the-line policy on prices and wages.

City Woman Awarded French Fidelity Order

The president of the French-Canadian Club in Victoria, Mrs. Yvonne Fortin-Terrien, 1076 Joan Crescent, has been awarded the Order of French Fidelity for her contribution to French culture in North America, it was announced from Quebec City today.

The award was made by Le Conseil la Vie Francaise, and was one of only four given on this continent.

Mrs. Fortin-Terrien, born in Quebec, has been a resident of Victoria 18 years and president of the 100-member French-Canadian Club the past 14.

She was instrumental in founding of the St. Jean Baptiste parish here for French-speaking Victorians, has worked on various committees dealing with French activities, and is a correspondent for French language newspapers in eastern Canada.

terms—for projects such as highways. He noted the World Bank, which already is extending such loans, has agreed to consider an increase in the bank's capital subscriptions. The U.S. believes there should be an increase he said, as well as an increase in the quotas of the International Monetary Fund.

5. Expansion of development financing to provide borrowers with greater flexibility regarding repayment terms. This, Eisenhower said, will help make possible many sound projects which cannot qualify for bankable loans.

The President said the U.S. would welcome contributions of other nations in this field. He again proposed creation of an international development association—a second World Bank—to mobilize the financial resources of the free world for this program.

Eisenhower said his proposal for trade expansion, increased technical assistance and more public loans on normal bankable terms are already charted and in some cases under way. But his recommendations dealing with more private investment and expanded development financing on flexible terms remain to be carried out.

Bomb Demolishes Virginia School

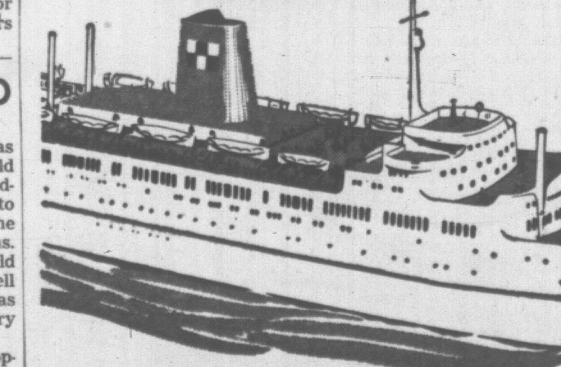

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (AP)—A thunderous explosion ripped through an integrated junior high school in nearby Osage early today. No one was injured and there was no fire.

State police said the blast was deliberately set.

The school has 93 Negroes among its 400 pupils. The two-story brick building was so badly damaged it will have to be condemned and torn down.

Jazz Group To Import U.S. Talent

Live jazz crosses the international boundary for Victoria Jazz Society's first anniversary concert at Club Sirocco Dec. 4.

The progressive club for the first time in a year of regularly scheduled concerts and cabarets will bring a group of jazz musicians from the United States to take the featured spot with local jazz artists.

Heading the bill will be the Elmer Gill Trio, presently making a name for itself on this coast from its home base in Seattle.

Jazz buffs may recognize the name Elmer Gill from his days with Lionel Hampton, and, like the great "Hamp," he plays vibraphone.

A versatile young man, Elmer switches to piano and vocals, backed by his sidemen Dave Coleman, drums, and bassist Al Larkins.

Mr. Coleman also comes by way of the great, having played with the bands of Harry James, Artie Shaw and Johnny Richards.

Appearance of the trio in Victoria will be a "first" for it as well as the jazz society, although the group has played before in Canada.

Before their arrival here, Gill and his men will have performed a weekend engagement in Vancouver, slated for later in November.

From the local scene will be the popular Buddy Glover Trio with Buddy on piano, backed by bass and drums.

Tickets at regular prices will be available at Ward's Music, Hudson's Bay Co., and B.C. Sound.

94-YEAR-OLD BARRIE WEEKLY NEWSPAPER BECOMES DAILY

BARRIE, Ont. (CP)—The 94-year-old Barrie Examiner, a tri-weekly since 1951, today joined the ranks of Canada's daily newspapers.

The step to six-day-a-week publication reflects the growth of this central Ontario community of 20,000 which becomes a city at the beginning of 1959.

The newspaper was acquired by the Thomson Co. in September, 1957. It was founded in 1864 by William Manley Nicholson, Hamilton publisher.

$2 Million Bonus For War Prisoners

By VICTOR MACKIE
OTTAWA Correspondent

OTTAWA—A $2,000,000 bonus for Canadian prisoners of war and civilian internees who suffered maltreatment at the hands of the Japanese and the Germans will go out in the mails before Christmas.

The federal government by an order in council passed late last month has authorized additional maltreatment awards to those who were prisoners of war of the Japanese and to Canadian civilians interned in Japanese camps.

In addition, Canadians who fell into the hands of the Gestapo and were kept in Gestapo camps and other institutions where they suffered maltreatment will receive an extra award.

Those who were in the hands of the Japanese have received from the Canadian government payments of $1 per day for each day they were in the

At the moment we are going through one of those periods of intense change which comes from time to time. All communities with many new developments are either projected for the near future. Change is inevitable in all communities; new development, growth, and decay are always with us. Nothing can remain static. The only thing that can be done is to control new growth so that the type of community we wish to live in is preserved. In order to do this certain regulations called zoning laws have been passed, reserving certain areas for single family dwellings, others for apartment houses, others for commercial or industrial uses. Some changes and new development can take place within existing by-laws as in the case of the old Oak Bay Municipal Hall which is being torn down to make way for a new building to be erected early next year. Other changes can only take place by amending existing zoning by-laws and when such a change is proposed it is the duty of everyone in the community affected to make certain whether such an amendment is desirable or not. In other words, is the change going to be for the good of the community as a whole or only for the good of the few? It is no good saying such and such a development should never have been allowed. We live in a democracy and that imposes on all of us certain duties as well as many privileges. Individuals, communities and nations get the type of government they deserve and demand, and it is up to each and every one of us to see that our elected officials are in truth acting for the common good and carrying out our wishes. Great care must be taken to see that growth takes place in a proper manner and that the wealth and welfare of a community is not only preserved but developed to its highest extent. This can only be done by reserving certain definite areas for each type of development, as once one exception has been made others will inevitably follow, and a good district will be ruined.

$20,000 IN PRIZES

Christmas Bingo Two-Night Affair

The Kinsmen Club's 13th giant bingo here in mid-December will be the luckiest yet for devotees—$20,000 worth of prizes, ranging from all-expense-paid trips to year-round grocery supplies.

Proceeds will be spent on Kinsmen-Gorge Park development to help aid seasonal employment and to further improve the popular park.

The "biggest, bestest" bingo will be a two-day affair, first of its kind here, and will be held Dec. 15 and 16, a Monday and Tuesday.

The prize list includes two $3,200 cars, a choice of four trips offered to persons who buy tickets in advance, two one-year supplies of groceries, six television sets, 700 turkeys and a host of other worthwhile prizes.

In total the amounts already paid out by the war claims commission is in excess of $4,000,000. Additional amounts will total $2,000,000 more, it is estimated.

2,000 TURNED AWAY

Bingo chairman Jack Philion, said in the previous two pre-Christmas bingos were "overpopulated," with close to 2,000 persons turned away from Memorial Arena for lack of room. He expects attendance of 15,750 persons.

There will be games for children under 12—giant pandas.

Tickets will go on sale at Eaton's store, Nov. 14, until Dec. 6. At this time entry forms for persons seeking a trip will be filled in. The winner will be offered choice of a return flight for one person to any city in the world, or return flights for two to New York, Honolulu or Aca-pulco.

This will include free hotel accommodation and $24 a day spending money.

One name will be chosen from the thousands of applications entered for the mystery guest section of the last Kinsmen bingo, and that person will be brought to Victoria as a Christmas mystery guest.

If there are any prizes left over, extra games will be played.

Take nothing for granted from Bath to Bath

Put yourself into the safekeeping of a Tussy Deodorant—then confidently forget the very reasons for using it. Besides doing all the things you expect a deodorant to do, Tussy Deodorants help protect your skin and clothes against acid damage.

- tussy cream deodorant
A dainty cream that stops odor instantly, checks perspiration too. A blend of beauty creams, Tussy Cream Deodorant is kind to skin and will never "acid-damage" clothes.
- tussy stick deodorant
Such a convenient way to stop odor 24 hours—without closing pores. Perfect for office or when travelling. Made from a non-acid formula, Tussy Stick cannot irritate skin, or "acid-damage" clothes.
- tussy "roto-magic" roll-on
The newest magic in deodorants and anti-perspirants. "Roto-Magic" rolls on. Stops odor for 24 hours. Like the other famous Tussy Deodorants, it won't acid-damage clothes or irritate skin, because it's acid-controlled.
